Two Luxury Apartments To Cost Over $12 Million

Rock Creek Plaza To Have 1135 Units, Park Plaza 224; Both on 16th St.

By Conrad P. Harness
Post Reporter

Two luxury apartments, one boasting the largest number of apartments in any single postwar building, will rise within a stone's throw of each other on the west side of 16th st. at Piney Branch pky. nw.

Rock Creek Plaza, with 1135 separate units, is under way on a 4-acre tract bounded on the north by the parkway, on the east by 16th st. The owners and builders, Rock Creek Plaza, Inc., estimate the cost at 10 million dollars.

On the north side of the parkway, at 16th and Shepherd sts., the 224-unit Park Plaza is scheduled to start in April, with occupancy within a year.

Park Plaza's owners and builders, Morris Pollin & Sons and Harry Poretsky & Sons, planned the structure as far back as 1941 but were stymied by a court battle.

Residents of nearby Crestwood petitioned the District Zoning Commission in 1943 to restrict the 2-acre tract, zoned for apartments, to single family dwellings. The battle was carried to the Supreme Court, where the petition was denied.

Completion in 1951

Rock Creek Plaza is by far the larger of the two. Excavation was started in October. Completion is expected by June, 1951. It will be eight stories at street level, but sloping ground has been utilized by Architect Wallace F. Holladay to provide 12 stories from the grade level on the building's northern exposure.

Underground storage for 300 cars has been provided. There will be a main entrance off 16th st., with a secondary entrance off Oak st. nw. Of the 1135 units, comprising 2935 rooms, about 70 percent are efficiency apartments, with the remainder one and two-bedroom units.

A proposed rental scale, as set by the District FHA insuring office, will be $90 for efficiency units, $120 for one bedroom, and two-

U. S. Occupation Officer Accused Of 'Interference'

Stuttgart, Germany, Feb. 3 (AP).—A German State president accused the American commissioner for his State today of unauthorized interference with German affairs.

In one of the strongest public statements made since the war by a high German official about an occupation officer, Reinhold Maier informed the press he has told Maj. Gen. Charles P. Gross that he "has no authority to interfere with German affairs in such a manner."

Maier, minister-president (governor) of Wuerttemberg-Baden, did not make plain just what drew his objections. But his statement indicated clearly they are connected with an investigation of charges of widespread bribery in the State denazification trials.

Lee Charges Coolidge Coach Locked Up Anacostia Cadets

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

School Board Member Adelbert W. Lee said yesterday that physical education instructors are interfering with the cadet program.

He declared that School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning failed to give a true picture of the facts in his report on cadets to the board.

As an example of interference Lee cited the following incident he said took place in October at Anacostia High School:

Football Coach Gilbert Conn of Coolidge High School took his team to Anacostia for an interhigh game. Team members were being taped up in a corridor of the school when Anacostia cadets, who had been drilling in the armory, attempted to leave by way of the corridor.

Conn rushed over and locked the cadets in the room, Lee said.

When called down by the principal of the school and the cadet instructor, Conn "swore up and down the corridor and was rude and discourteous," Lee said.

Lee said Dr. Corning was aware of the incident but the coach was not punished.

Conn last night denied using profanity, said he appeared before Dr. Corning and that as far he, Conn, is concerned "the matter is closed."

"The friction," he said, "was not between the cadets and the athletic department, but was caused

25 to 40 Million Bushels

Dumping of Surplus Potatoes Begun by Agriculture Dept.

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Word was flashed to Department of Agriculture field men last night to start dumping surplus potatoes. Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan predicted to newsmen the total to be destroyed in the next few weeks would be between 25 and 40 million bushels.

These will cost Uncle Sam about $1.25 per bushel.

Brannan pointed out that the cost of the present Government farm price support program is running into astronomical figures. Uncle Sam has lost on potatoes alone almost half a billion dollars—between 450 and 500 million—since 1946. This year's loss makes up about 80 to 100 million dollars of this staggering sum.

Earlier, before the Senate Agriculture Committee, it was revealed that some of the enormous 100-million dollars worth of dried eggs the Government has in storage in limestone caves in Kansas are deteriorating. Those bought more than a year ago will soon have to be dumped. Much of the rest are being covered with mold, Ralph S. Trigg, president of Commodity Credit Corporation, said.

"The sad part," Trigg afterward told The Washington Post, "is that Britain would take all of them off our hands if they had dollars."

Brannan emphasized that he didn't like to call the potato operation either "dumping" or "destroying." Instead, the official gobbledegook in a news release called it "supplemental disposition of potatoes acquired under price support operations."

Protest Defers Action to Ease Hatch Act Here

Week's Postponement Ordered After Session Of Joint Committee

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A week's delay on proposed Hatch Act changes was ordered yesterday by a joint Congressional conference committee.

The group met in closed session for two hours, but made no decision on differences between House and Senate versions of a bill to change the Hatch Act, according to Sen. John C. Stennis (D., Miss.).

A major issue is a section to let Federal employes in Maryland and Virginia communities in the immediate vicinity of the Nation's Capital take part in local party politics. They can do it now only as "non-partisans."

Strong protest against the change, it was learned, has been made to Stennis by Chairman Harry B. Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission. Stennis declined to make the report public.

In it, Mitchell said the Senate-approved plan spells a "complete reversal" of some 50 years' application of the Civil Service Commission rule against electioneering by Civil Service employes.

Mitchell said, too, that under

Housing Situation Better—Landlord Wants Children

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3 (AP).—G. G. Dickerson, father of two, likes children.

"People with children deserve special consideration," he said, explaining the house-for-rent newspaper advertisement he ran yesterday. In it he offered to rent:

Seven-room house, "adults, $75; with children, $60."

Sergt. William L. Case, jr., stationed at Camp Lee, rented the house for $60. He has four children.

Nationwide Coal Strike Reported Set for Monday

Chicago, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—T. G. Gerow, president of the Illinois Coal Operators Association, said tonight that reports from industry sources say the United Mine Workers will stage a Nationwide walkout Monday.

Gerow said the reports are that word was sent out from Washington to local U.M.W. leaders calling for the strike.

$655 Million Cut in Excise Taxes Asked

Snyder Also Wants To Boost Revenue By $1,010,000,000 In Other Measures

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Treasury Secretary John Snyder yesterday proposed a net cut of 655 million dollars in excise taxes, then spelled out the details of a tax overhaul that would pick up the loss and yield the Government $1,010,000,000 more revenue.

The President's tax plan was unveiled before a House Ways and Means Committee raring to slash excises and plug a few loopholes but taking a bleak view of proposed increases in rates on estates, gifts and big corporations.

The Administration nonetheless won the first test. Before Snyder testified, committee Republicans moved to give excise tax cutting "top priority," without waiting to frame an offsetting tax program. The motion failed by a straight party line vote, 14 to 10.

But committee questioning soon developed that some members on both sides of the aisle wanted a deeper cut in excises than Snyder proposed and more loopholes plugged.

Tax on Video Sets

In a nutshell, Snyder recommended a 695-million-dollar slash in selected excises, with the Government recovering part of the loss from a 10 percent manufacturers' excise on still untaxed television sets.

From tax "loopholes," notably the present liberal depletion allowance on oil, gas and mine properties, and "abuse" of tax exemptions by charitable and educational organizations, he said the Government could pick up another 500 million dollars.

Then he asked an additional 675 million dollars from corporations, with the big corporations carrying the load. Companies earning under $25,000 would be taxed at present sliding scale rates. The present onerous "notch" rates on profits between $25,000 and $50,000 would be repealed, but the general corporation income tax would be raised from 38 to 42 percent. All companies would take advantage of the present low scale on the first $25,000 of corporate profits.

Higher Estate, Gift Rates

As a result, Snyder said, companies earning $25,000 and under would pay what they do now, companies making between $25,000 and $118,750 would pay somewhat less, and corporations earning more than that would pay what he called a "small" increase.

Finally, the Treasury Secretary

ECA Chief Warns Hopes Of Reds Rise

Hoffman Declares They Wax on Rumors Of Europe Aid's End, Asiatic Triumphs

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Communist confidence is again on the upgrade in western Europe, Paul G. Hoffman, the Economic Cooperation Administrator, reported yesterday after a week of meetings in Paris.

Hoffman said Communist successes in the Far East were lifting the spirits of what he called the Communist "fifth columns" in the western European countries.

"The slightest rumor of domestic conflict here, or of the termination of ECA, tends to bring back hope and confidence to these people," he told a press conference.

"Greatest Struggle"

He said he was certain that the Kremlin's top priority was "somehow or other" to frustrate the recovery of western Europe. And he warned that the present test of strength between communism and recovery in Europe was "the greatest struggle of all time."

His emphasis on stopping communism suggested that this would be his theme-song in asking Congress to appropirate $3,100,000,000 for the third year of the recovery program.

One of Hoffman's first engagements after getting home was an hour's talk with Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The Senate and House committees on foreign policy will begin hearings February 21 on the third-year ECA authorization.

Hoffman also saw Secretary Acheson and gave him a first-hand picture of his meetings with the Marshall Plan Council in Paris.

Admits Disappointment

He conceded to his press conference that he had not brought back any "dramatic" evidence of economic unity in Europe, and that actual accomplishments toward freeing European trade had been "disappointing."

But he saw a "very definite possibility" of a new payments plan liberalizing trade among all the Marshall Plan countries. Meanwhile, he said, the ECA would be inclined "to give support and assistance to those nations which most aggressively pursue policies leading toward a liberalization of trade."

"Next year," he said, "a considerable part of our funds will be held in reserve for those countries that take the risks of liberalizing trade. If only two-thirds of the countries come into a new pay-

Dr. Fuchs Held In London Jail, Trial on Friday

Top Atomic Expert Faces Charge of Giving Away Official Secrets

London, Feb. 3 (AP).—The British government's top atomic scientist was jailed today on charges of giving away official secrets, and the case exploded like a psychological bomb in London and Washington. The case broke in connection with FBI investigations of atomic spying by Soviet Russia.

Klaus Fuchs, 38, was charged in a preliminary hearing on two counts of giving away atomic research information which "might be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy." The charge said he did this once in the United States in 1945 and again in 1947 at an unspecified place—Washington officials said it was in England.

German-born Fuchs—his father still lives in the Soviet zone of Germany—was smuggled into historic old Bow st. Police Court for the preliminary hearing today and was told to be ready for trial next Friday.

To Be Held Without Bail

Officials said he would be held without bail until then at Brixton Prison in London. Under the official secrets acts of 1911 and 1939 he is accused of violating, he faces a maximum penalty of 7 years at hard labor on each count.

Theoretical physics concerns the heart of atomic research, and in his capacity as chief of the theoretical division at the Nation's No. 1 laboratory, Fuchs knew how the bomb was made.

Moreover, Fuchs worked on the A-bomb project in the United States from late 1943 until June, 1946.

All possible British sources for details of the case were under direct orders to say nothing. From the Prime Minister's office down, officials would not say a word.

At the Ministry of Supply, which runs the atomic research program for Britain and produces new weapons, a spokesman told reporters that "as the result of legal advice we cannot say anything about the charge or the man himself."

Before Russia Achieved Blast

The dates contained in the charges indicate that the leakages of information occurred well before Russia is supposed to have brought off her first atomic explosion last September. Officials both

Prisoner, While on Atom Project Here, Had Access to Virtually All Developments; Hoover's Agents Tracing 'Other Ramifications'

By Marshall Andrews and Alfred Friendly
Post Reporters

Dr. Klaus Fuchs, British atomic scientist arrested yesterday in London on charges of giving away official secrets, is believed to have passed data on the super-secret hydrogen bomb to Russia, Senators said last night.

Members of a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee revealed that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said evidence showed Fuchs has relayed hydrogen bomb data, as well as that on the original atomic bomb, to Soviet agents. Hoover testified for three hours at a closed hearing on Justice Department appropriations.

Permitted to Visit Argonne Laboratory

Senators said it was not clear from Hoover's testimony whether the information available to Fuchs was sufficient to aid Russia materially in H-Bomb development. They said he could have picked it up on his most recent visit to the United States in 1947.

At that time, according to the Atomic Energy Commission, the British scientist was "permitted to visit the Argonne National Laboratory at Chicago for discussions limited to non-secret scientific material."

Hoover also revealed, Senators said, that Fuchs had confessed "at least in part" that he had furnished Soviet agents with vital atomic information.

Another highly placed source told The Washington Post the scientist had made a full confession.

Members of the committee said Hoover told them that "other ramifications" of the sensational case were under investigation.

Access to Virtually Every Development

From exceptionally well-informed sources The Washington Post learned that:

1 During his three-year association with atomic research in this country Fuchs had access to virtually every development and every process, no matter how secret, in the atomic field.

2 Fuchs was believed to have had systematic and continuing contact with Soviet agents during and since his residence in the United States.

3 His transmission of data was virtually complete; that is, he had been able to pass on everything he had learned as a result of his employment on the atomic bomb project.

4 Fuchs had been a Communist in Germany before going to Britain in 1933, suggesting that he had been screened inadequately or not at all by the British.

5 No suspicion was directed toward Fuchs until very recently when a tip by the FBI set the AEC security organization to work on the case. An unspecified "leak" was traced to Fuchs after several months of effort.

6 His transmission of information apparently took place during holidays, when he is known to have made trips to Canada and Mexico.

7 Fuchs knew and passed on information about routes to follow in atomic bomb development but could not possibly have transmitted all the available voluminous engineering data.

8 His transmission of H-bomb data is regarded as a serious matter, but "much has happened since 1946," when the H-bomb was an interesting sidelight and the energies of atomic scientists were directed toward building the original atom bomb. What Fuchs could have known when he left Los Alamos in June, 1946, was fairly primitive compared to what has since been developed.

Nevertheless there was no disposition in any informed quarter to minimize the seriousness of Fuchs' supposed breach of trust.

Could Have Advanced Russia by Year

Dr. Earl Long of Chicago, who worked with Fuchs on the atomic bomb project, was quoted by the Associated Press as estimating that the Briton's knowledge conceivably could have advanced Russian bomb production "by at least one year."

These revelations, with their admittedly grave implications for United States security and for this country's relations with its Allies, were among developments which swiftly followed Fuchs' arrest in London.

While official statements from individuals and agencies concerned with atomic development and security were brief and generally noncommittal, the sum total of their substance only stressed the seriousness of the situation.

Out of them emerged these implications:

1 That Russia may have been equipped almost from the outset of the atomic arms race with the know-how developed by the United States at a cost of two billion dollars.

2 That United States-British cooperation in atomic develop-

H-Bomb Problems Held Hard to Solve

The Fifth and Last of a Series

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The hydrogen bomb raises problems that, it seems clear, cannot be met by any rabbit-out-of-a-hat solution.

No trick devices, no quick shortcuts can be dreamed up to solve the fundamental issues that have been brought into being by the possibility of making the terrible weapon.

This is not to say that resolutions of the problems that may be hit upon cannot be bold and unconventional. On the contrary, an examination of the H-bomb question suggests that there can be no good answers through traditional, routine or pedestrian methods. But equally, no easy, painless bit of sleight-of-hand can hold any promise.

Most of the observers who have attempted to tackle the problem agree on one essential first step: an intensive, democratic public discussion. Without that, they feel, the hard decision that must be made cannot be hammered out and cannot gain national acceptance.

Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), proposing a more far-reaching piece of mechanics on Thursday, urged also "Nationwide and worldwide debate."

Joseph and Stewart Alsop have asked for free and informed public discussion in order that the Nation can decide what its future course should be.

But in this connection they make the point, which it appears is central to the matter, that any such discussion is meaningless, or impossible, on the basis of the lack of information that now prevails about the hydrogen bomb and related issues.

They ask for "a plain statement of all the facts" from the President. And they observe that so far, "what the President has said is not one-third, or one-tenth, of what it is his bounden duty to say."

The dilemma here, as it has been in all atom matters ever since the first bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, is the difficulty of balancing secrecy and security requirements with the information requirements necessary to a democracy.

It is argued, however, that for a number of reasons the difficulty is less deep than it might appear.

First, and most important, what most of the scientists and other responsible observers who are concerned with the problem want to see released is not the technology of the H-bomb, nor the story of how it is made and of its scientific problems.

Rather, it is information that

Blame 'Ice' on Highway

Russians Block, Then Reopen Main Truck Road to Berlin

Berlin (Saturday), Feb. 4 (U.P.).—The Russians stopped all truck traffic on the super-highway from West Germany to Berlin from late Friday until early today with the excuse it was too icy for travel, West German police reported.

The Russians shoved a barrier in front of the jammed-up truck line at Helmstedt at 9:30 p. m. (3:30 p. m. EST) Friday. They removed it with no comment at 12:15 a. m. (6:15 p. m. EST.) Two hundred fifty trucks were waiting.

The Soviets gave no other reason for the brief, but complete stoppage. They made no attempt to halt traffic from Berlin to West Germany. Drivers arriving at Helmstedt, the checkpoint, said the road was "slippery but passable."

The Russian maneuver came a few hours after the United States charged that the "little blockade" is aimed at driving the West from Berlin. The Americans warned that economic sanctions may be imposed against East Germany if traffic was not restored to normal.

Charles A. Dix, American transport chief, said the Russians had closed the highway several times this winter because of ice, but agreed the road last night "was not very bad."

In Bonn, Federal Chancellor Konrad Adenauer summoned his coalition cabinet to discuss the "deteriorating situation in Berlin."

Gayety Will Go Legitimate, Present 'The Barretts' March 6

By Richard L. Coe
Post Reporter

With feathers, fans and G-strings conspicuously absent, the Gayety Theater will reopen Monday, March 6, for a two-week run of Susan Peters in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street."

Jay Hornick, general manager of I. Hirst Enterprises, Philadelphia, operators of the Gayety, announced yesterday that this production of the 18-year-old drama will be a test run.

"If I can get the productions booked, we're going into it on a big scale," he stated. "When others see I have opened with Miss Peters, other productions won't be too difficult to get."

Miss Peters appeared in the play at the Olney Theater last September, and as a stage novice surprised the reviewers with her work. Since then, her production has been remounted and has been playing single and split weeks in the East and Midwest.

Hornick revealed that the theater will be run on a nonsegregated basis. The theater operator indicated the theater will be renovated if the experiment succeeds by drawing both plays and audience in sufficient numbers.

Accused A-Scientist Reared as Pacifist

Frankfurt, Germany, Feb. 3 (U.P.). Atomic physicist Klaus Fuchs was brought up in a home dedicated to spreading Christian Socialism and religious pacifism, family friends said here today.

His father, 75-year-old Prof. Emil Fuchs, started his career as a Protestant minister in Ruesselsheim. Two weeks ago he moved from Frankfurt to Leipzig in the Soviet Zone to take a job as professor of theology at Leipzig University.

He could not be reached for comment tonight, but friends and the mayor of one of the towns in which he lived told about the family. They said every member of the Fuchs family had been persecuted by the Nazis because of their association with the Society of Friends (Quakers).

Sister a Sucide

The elder Fuchs spent nine months in a concentration camp, and one daughter committed suicide by jumping under a subway train in Berlin after an unsuccessful attempt to flee to Czechoslovakia.

Klaus Fuchs, who was charged in London today with giving away atomic secrets, was known to his friends here as "Julius." He attended high school in Heppenheim and went on to Kiel University to study mathematics and physics. In the early 30s he fled the country and completed his studies abroad.

A close friend of the family said that "no one who knows them will ever believe that Julius committed any crime. I have known him since he was about 15, and I know he was always an honest boy. When I saw him last, two years ago, he had not changed a bit."

The Fuchs family is widely scattered now. The mother died in 1931. Julius' sister Elisabeth, 40, lives in Cambridge, Mass., with her American husband and three children, and a brother George Karl, 41, lives in Davos, Switzerland.

Father Widely Known

The elder Fuchs, a short, stocky white-haired man, is widely known in international religious circles. He has written a number of books on Christian Socialism and religious pacifism. The latest two, published since the war, are "Leonhard Raga, a Prophet of Our Time," and "Christianity and Socialism." He has been a lifelong member of the Social Democratic Party.

He has been at various times a pastor, teacher, lecturer and writer. He went to the United States to visit his daughter and make a lecture tour for the Quakers in the spring of 1949, one friend reported, and stopped at Bentfeld, The Netherlands, to attend a congress of international pacifist organizations on his way back.

After his return he lectured at Ruesselsheim, Darmstadt and other West German towns on "Christianity and Socialism" and similar topics.

"This will be a terrible shock for the old man," a close friend said.

'Wall St. Bogey'

Moscow Calls H-Bomb News 'Fairy Tale'

London, (Saturday,) Feb. 3 (U.P.). Moscow, after a three-day silence, today said President Truman's hydrogen bomb announcement was a "myth" and "fairy tale" intended to insure passage of a gigantic military budget.

Belittling the President's announcement as "the hydrogen bogey of Wall Street," a Moscow broadcast said it would not alarm the world but would only strengthen the determination of peace-lovers to frustrate warmongering plans.

The American people, the broadcast said, "understand that only on the basis of peaceful cooperation with the Soviet Union and the people's democracies can peace be secured."

President Truman announced on Tuesday his decision to order the manufacture of the H-bomb.

"Another secret purpose," said the broadcast, "is that American imperialists want to make the people follow the idea of an easy, push-button war with no sacrifices on the part of America. . .

"It is the American version of Hitler's blitzkrieg."

World Union Wins Backing

By The Associated Press

A group of 20 Senators yesterday urged the United States to work for a world federation with power to halt the atomic arms race.

Their plea plainly reflected the fear that mankind is headed for self-destruction unless a world government is formed to control the hydrogen bomb and other atomic weapons.

Members of the group appeared before a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee to ask approval of a resolution which would make it the Government's policy to seek a world federation through the United Nations. Senator Tobey, (R., N. H.), leading off, said:

"The appearance of the hydrogen bomb in the competitive armaments race has made the policy .... more relevant and urgent than ever before."

Backing him up, Senator Graham (D., N. C.) said:

"Atomic power is loaded with the hopes or the doom of peoples in both hemispheres. The atombic revolution requires for the long run a spiritual revolution for its creative use, and, for the immediate crisis, a stronger United Nations for prevention of its suicidal use. Human society with an uranium bomb in its bosom and a hydrogen bomb in its womb cannot lag in adjustments to and controls of their potential use."

The Tobey proposal did not define how the U. N. would be given power to enforce world law. It was stated as an objective.

But Senator Douglas (D., Ill.), and Senator Elbert Thomas (D., Utah), have urged an amendment to the U. N. charter to build up an armed force capable of keeping peace.

McMahon's Plan to Head Off Atomic Arms Race Stirs 'Hill'

A proposal by Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) that the United States launch a world-wide moral offensive to head off an atomic armament race yesterday struck an "interested" chord on Capitol Hill.

The chairman on the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, in a Senate speech Thursday, suggested the United States resort to bold measures—undertake if necessary a 50-billion-dollar global aid plan—to avert a world catastrophe.

It was the most-discussed speech in many a day, and much of the reaction was favorable. Some compared it to Gen. George Marshall's Harvard speech, that became the "Marshall plan."

Doubt Over Russia Accepting

Through all the comment, however, ran a deep doubt that Russia would ever accept the conditions proposed for economic aid to all Nations, even the Soviet, to develop atomic energy for peace. McMahon's conditions: acceptance of international controls over atomic energy and an agreement that all countries devote two-thirds of their armament spending "toward constructive ends."

Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) called it "the most stirring speech I ever heard in my life."

"I am not at all certain the Russians will permit their people to know about it, or accept it if they did," said Douglas. "But I am proud to be the citizen of a country where such a proposal can be advanced by a responsible leader."

Senator John H. Bricker (R. Ohio) and Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), who are usually miles apart on foreign policy, used the same phrase: "Well worth considering."

Should Use All Means

Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) said the speech "proves our good faith." He said the speech further demonstrates "that we have not developed atomic energy for imperialistic purposes but for the democratic nations of the world."

Humphrey "Thrilled"

Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) compared it to Marshall's Harvard speech. Said Humphrey: "If it is followed up by the Administration it will be just as significant. I was thrilled by it."

Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D., Md.) called it "a forthright and courageous presentation of a set of principles which challenge the best thought of the United States and other nations, and particularly the Soviet."

Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) said he questioned "if we can buy peace, even for 50 billion dollars," then added:

Urged Careful Scrutiny

"No one can lightly disregard any legitimate effort to promote peace. But what we try to do must be approached with deep caution and careful scrutiny. I would want the most error-proof assurance before I would be willing to surrender any of our ability to defend ourselves."

Senator Frank P. Graham (D., N. C.) called it "a bold suggestion" and Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) said he is for "any suggestion that has the possibility of relieving us of the expense of building these bombs and continuing to build up our military establishments." Senator Burnet R. Maybank (D., N. C.) called it "an excellent speech, profoundly thought out."

But Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) said he felt that "We're on the wrong track . . . you can't buy peace . . . you can't buy the souls of men with cash."

"You can't reach the people of Europe with propaganda when police are standing over them with machine guns," Ferguson added. "Besides, other peoples would understand us far better if we asked for favors and help from them as well as dishing out the cash."

Lauds "Sincerity, Courage"

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) said no greater problem confronts the Nation than the present armaments race. He praised McMahon for the "sincerity and courage" of his approach.

Senator Andrew F. Schoeppel (R., Kans.) said he has "serious doubts as to how it can be implemented from a practical standpoint, with the many other things we are now undertaking."

Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) told the Maryland Legislature Thursday the H-bomb project "changes our outlook on life completely," adding that "this will not be the end."

Said Tydings: "We will have to be immediately ready to seek added improvements—if I may use the word recklessly—to such instruments to give them additional scope and power. They are certain to be much more devastating."

ment may run afoul of increased reluctance to share secrets with overseas allies.

3. That a "hate the scientists" campaign may be provoked by the apparent treachery of one man.

4. That suspicions among scientists engaged in atomic research and development may reach the point where they can no longer work together in confidence.

5. That efforts to modify present strict rules of secrecy surrounding atomic projects in favor of greater information to the public may be halted or postponed.

Despite the paucity of official comment, Washington reaction to Fuchs' arrest was prompt and positive. Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.), of the Atomic Committee called a meeting of his committee with the Atomic Energy Commission at 10 a. m. and continued in closed session for three hours.

At its end, McMahon said Lieut. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime head of the Manhattan Project which developed the bomb, had been called for questioning today at 10:30 a. m. in executive session.

Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) described Hoover's testimony as "one of the most shocking things I ever listened to." Other subcommittee members said the FBI chief outlined the entire Communist spy organization in the United States in asking for funds to hire 700 more employes.

Chairman John S. Wood (D., Ga.) of the House Un-American Activities Committee announced that Fuchs' activities would be included in its current investigation of Soviet espionage. He added that the committee and its investigators knew of Fuchs but had "no occasion to suspect him."

At the White House President Truman held his weekly Cabinet meeting but Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said he didn't know how the Fuchs case figured in the session. He made it clear, however, that Mr. Truman knew of the development in advance of the scientist's arrest but after his Tuesday order to go ahead with development of hydrogen bombs. There was, he emphasized, no connection between the two incidents.

Comment on Capitol Hill varied from McMahon's terse announcement that "the matter is serious" and that the committee "will explore the matter fully" to demands that secrecy regulations be made even more stringent than now.

Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"A British citizen has been charged as a traitor to his country, to Canada and the United States in communicating vital atomic secrets to Russia.

"The situation is grave and is being thoroughly investigated by our authorities and the British and appropriate action will be taken."

Senator Millikin (R., Colo.), a member of the Atomic Committee, said he could not vote to share secrets with other nations until he could "take an inventory to see if we've got any secrets left." Fuchs, he added, obviously was "in a position to gather a lot of our most tender secrets and pass them on to Russia."

An "immediate investigation" of U. S. policy on sharing its secrets was demanded by Representative Case (R., S. Dak.), a member of the Un-American Activities Committee. He said sharing of information should be halted.

Present at yesterday's meeting of the Atomic Committee, besides Hoover and members of the AEC, were C. A. Rolander, chief of the AEC Violations and Visitor Control Branch, and AEC General Counsel Joseph Volpe, jr. After the session McMahon praised Hoover and the FBI for "excellent work."

Among Government departments concerned with atomic security and distribution of atomic knowledge, the State and Defense Departments had "no comment." A Defense spokesman pointed out that it had no connection with development of the bomb except that General Groves was an Army officer.

Comment by General Groves

At Norwalk, Conn., General Groves, now a Remington-Rand vice president, said in a statement reported by the Associated Press:

"Fuchs was at Los Alamos as a member of the British mission which worked at Los Alamos during the development of the atomic bomb. He was not the head of this mission, nor was he one of the top members, but he was in the next rank. He had an important and responsible position.

"In this position he was necessarily afforded access to a great deal of information both as to our development and future possibilities and proposed developments. Like all other members of the British mission, his responsibility, discretion and loyalty were vouched for by his own government."

Members of the Appropriations subcommittee said Hoover told them the British certification of its representatives was accepted. This was confirmed by other sources, who added that no additional security check was required here on scientists cleared by the British.

Here Almost Three Years

The Atomic Energy Commission, in a statement yesterday, said Fuchs was engaged in development of the atomic bomb here from December, 1943, until June, 1946, first in the gaseous diffusion process in New York. He went to Los Alamos in December, 1944, with the British team assigned to weapons work and "had access to a wide area of the most vital weapons information." Fuchs returned to England in June, 1946.

In November, 1947, the AEC statement continued, Fuchs visited this country as a member of the British delegation taking part in discussions on declassification of information. He visited the Argonne laboratory at Chicago during that time.

Congressional opinion, while unanimous in stressing the seriousness of Fuchs' revelations to Russia, was divided on measures calculated to prevent a repetition. Although some members spoke out for tightening security regulations and further limiting future exchange of information with other nations, others disagreed.

"No Security in Secrecy"

Among these was Representative Chet Holifield (R., Calif.) who said:

"I trust it will not be used as an argument against future cooperation and collaboration between United States, Canadian and British scientists in the field of atomic research and development.

"This breach of trust should again emphasize the fact that there is no security in secrecy. The only real security is to maintain our superiority in the field of defensive and offensive weapons."

Trygve Lie Impressed By 'Creative Spirit'

Lake Success, N. Y., Feb. 3 (U.P.). United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie today paid tribute to the "bold and creative spirit" behind the proposal of Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) that the United States offer a 50-billion-dollar aid program in exchange for world agreement to ban the hydrogen bomb and other atomic weapons.

Lie told a news conference he was intensely interested in the hydrogen bomb issue, and probably would make some suggestions "in due time" on how the U. N. might promote international agreement to outlaw the frightful new super-bomb.

they feel can be divulged without in any way harming national security. What they ask for is information on the various arguments that have surrounded the issue since it first came up for intra-Administration debate early last fall.

Also, they want information on the considerations involved in delivering the weapon, defending against it, its military potential—in our hands and in the Russians'—and most particularly, its implications as seen by the Government on American defense and foreign policy.

It is further asserted—and yesterday's disclosure of the huge haul of secret data by the Russians from British scientist Karl Fuchs seems to give point to the argument—that reliance on "security procedures" for protection is a very weak shield.

If the essence of the atom bomb secrets escaped while the project was under the tightest controls of the Army, during the Manhattan Engineering District era, "security procedures" seem fairly pointless.

It is argued, at any rate, that a complete attempt to black out anything remotely connected with atomic matters and the H-bomb is bound to hurt more than it helps.

This newspaper, editorially, has proposed a compromise procedure to meet needs for security as well as for information.

It noted that the same sort of problem was raised by the atom bomb. It recalled that a solution, accepted by the public as wise and proper, was found by giving absolutely complete information to a small but distinguished group of citizens whose integrity and judgment commanded national respect.

That group, the Acheson-Lilienthal committees, was able to accomplish two important results:

First, it was able to disclose, without any damage to security, a sufficient number of solid facts to permit intelligent public debate.

Second, from those and other facts, it was able to propose an approach to the problem of international atomic control. That approach was so sound as to have been accepted, with some modifications, not only by the American people, but also by the entire membership of the United Nations, Russia and its satellites excepted.

So The Washington Post has asked for the creation of a sort of national Kitchen Cabinet "for the purpose of exploring and then explaining the implications of the H-bomb decision."

To complete this summary of the present state of affairs respecting the H-bomb, it must be reported that so far there has been no indication by the Administration of plans to make more information available to the public or to a more limited group.

Asked when, or whether, more information would be forthcoming, AEC Chairman Lilienthal this week spread out his hands and said he simply did not know.

The White House has ordered all persons connected with the H-bomb project in any way to give out no information whatsoever and, in fact, not to discuss it at all.

The President himself, at his news conference this week, gave a fairly positive indication that the press and public could not expect further news beyond that contained in his initial statement that he had authorized H-bomb work to proceed.

And that, as of this moment, is how the situation stands — or rather, teeters.

Dr. Fuchs Held in London Jail

in London and Washington left open the question of whether there was any direct connection.

Fuchs was spirited into the Bow st. building this morning and was taken before Chief Magistrate Lawrence Dunne in a little-used courtroom on the third floor. Dunne had been called in especially. As chief magistrate, he hears only the most important cases.

Court officials said later the only evidence presented was that of Scotland Yard Inspector Leonard Burt, who told of the circumstances of Fuchs' arrest. The prosecution was represented by Christmas Humphreys, chief prosecutor for the London area. The proceedings took less than 15 minutes.

Fuchs spoke only a few words in court. At preliminary hearings in Britain, no plea of guilty or innocent is required. That will come next week.

Told to Be Ready Friday

Humphreys, who has appeared in many secrecy act cases for the government, said he would expect Fuchs to have a lawyer hired and ready for the trial next Friday. Dunne told Fuchs no delay in the trial would be granted "unless there is a very extraordinary reason."

Fuchs had been arrested at Shell Mex House in London, headquarters of the Ministry of Supply. Burt, commander of Scotland Yard's special section, made the arrest personally.

At the hearing Burt testified:

"He (Fuchs) asked to see a Mr. Perrin of the atomic research, who came to the room. Fuchs said to him: 'Do you realize the effect of this at Harwell?' Perrin replied to the effect that he thought he understood."

Harwell, 55 miles southwest of London, is the site of the government's atomic research laboratory, and Britain's only functioning atomic research station. Its piles can produce both plutonium and uranium 235, atom bomb materials, but not on any large scale. The Ministry of Supply says Harwell's emphasis has been on use of atom science in biology, medicine, industry and power.

Fuchs was not represented by a lawyer today. However, he is known to be a man of means and the court probably will not have to appoint one for him.

Fuchs Has No Questions

The scientist, tall, dark and balding, told the magistrate he had no questions to ask Burt. He asked only that the police return his glasses and his money, taken away when he was arrested. Burt agreed.

Associates of the scientist professed amazement at the arrest. Some said it might slow up work at Harwell.

His neighbors said Fuchs, unmarried, lived quietly alone and did his own housework in the little house he called home for the last four months.

"He seemed very pleasant, but quiet and reserved," a neighboring housewife told a reporter. "Neither my husband nor I saw him, except to pass the time of day, and we don't know if he ever had visitors."

Fuchs came to England as a student in 1933 and stayed to become an instructor in physics. His father is a college professor in the Soviet zone of Germany.

The scientist was naturalized in Britain in 1943. His full name is Klaus Emil Julius Fuchs.

On the Ministry of Supply payroll he is listed as a "deputy chief officer in research establishments." There are 24 civil servants with this rating. They get from £1600 to £1800 ($4480 to $5040) a year.

Campaign Opens

Parliament Dissolved For Election

London, Feb. 3 (AP).—King George VI in a proclamation dissolved Britain's Socialist-controlled Parliament today and cleared the way for the February 23 general election.

The act dissolving the 4½-year-old Parliament officially set off the contest between Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor Party and Winston Churchill's Conservatives to capture a majority of the 625 seats in the new Parliament. Actually Britons have been deep in the election fray for weeks.

Labor held 390 of the 640 seats in the old Parliament. Its cabinet will continue to run the country until the new House is elected.

The record of the old Parliament and the 17-man cabinet chosen from it is the election issue. The Laborites say their nationalization of basic British industries so far has been a good program and should be carried further. The Conservatives say nationalization was wrong and costly, and should be cut back.

Both, however, favor going on with the existing huge welfare program—free medical care for all and the like. But the Tories say they can do it cheaper.

The formal campaign opens tonight.

The State Department yesterday disclosed the alleged reason—and guessed at the real reason—why the Soviet government wants Emperor Hirorhito tried as a war criminal.

The Soviet allegation was that the Emperor signed a directive to his generals in Manchuria to prepare and launch bacteriological warfare. The charge formed part of the 22-page Soviet note handed to Secretary Acheson on Wednesday, a translation of which the Department made public yesterday.

But the real reason for demanding the Emperor's trial, the Department said in an accompanying statement, was to distract attention from more than 370,000 Japanese prisoners of war who are still unaccounted for.

The statement mentioned "Soviet failure to repatriate or otherwise explain the fate" of these prisoners, and said an American note of last December 30 on the subject had produced "no reply, not even an acknowledgment."

Moreover, the statement recalled, the 11-nation Far Eastern Commission, including its Soviet member, decided on April 3, 1946, to exempt the Emperor from indictment as a war criminal.

This meant that a new vote by the commission would have been needed to try the Emperor, but the Soviet government never asked for one.

"That the Soviet government did not elect to do so but made these belated charges in a sensationalized manner, "the statement said," raises obvious questions about the real motive behind the Soviet note."

The Soviet note also called for the trial of four former high-ranking Japanese generals on the basis of evidence allegedly produced at the recent trials of Japanese officers in Khabarovsk, Siberia.

It said these generals had ordered the development of "enormous quantities" of plague, cholera, typhus and malignant anthrax bacteria for use in warfare, and branded them, with the Emperor, as "the chief organizers and inspirers of these monstrous crimes."

But, State Department officials said yesterday, the Far Eastern Commission had also recommended a time limit on trials for such offenses, and the Soviet member of the commission had assented.

On April 1, 1949, the commission recommended a June 30 deadline for investigations and a September 30 deadline for trials, "if possible," of two classes of alleged offenses: (1) violations of the laws of war, and (2) "murder, extermination, enslavement, deportation or other inhumane acts committed against civilians during the war."

The recommendations left Gen. Douglas MacArthur free, as supreme Allied commander, to set up courts for cases other than that of the Emperor, but until now the Russians have not asked for such action. The State Department made it clear yesterday it would reject the Russian demand, although it is not yet sure whether the United States will reply with a formal note.

Anti-Sub Game Set in Pacific

Toyko, Feb. 3 (AP).—The United States Navy will conduct "hunter-killer" anti-submarine exercises this year in the Pacific, where Russia's submarine program is expanding.

The announcement came today after the visiting United States Joint Chiefs of Staff had more Pacific strategy conferences with General MacArthur and his top aides.

Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, said the escort aircraft carrier Sicily and six destroyers were being sent to the Pacific to conduct the exercises.

Reports from Washington say the 12,000-ton Sicily will move to the Pacific in mid-April. The Destroyers will be transferred before September.

Sub Off California Not U. S., Says Navy

San Francisco, Feb. 3 (AP). — If submarines were operating off the Humboldt coast of Northern California last weekend, they definitely were not American, the 12th Naval District said today.

The Navy said the description of the reported submarine or submarines relayed by the Coast Guard at Eureka conformed with a German type captured by the Russians.

ments plan, then those that don't come in won't get the benefit of the reserve we shall set aside."

Hoffman said there was not a word of truth in reports that the United States had not wanted Foreign Minister Dirk U. Stikker of The Netherlands as chairman of the Marshall Plan organization in Paris.

"Of course," he said, "Mr. Spaak (former Premier Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium) was here and saw the President, and the President said he would be acceptable. But we had no nominee for the job.

"Dr. Stikker believes to the bottom of his toes that Europe must have much greater economic unity than now prevails. He is a fine man and a fine European, and the fact that he is there is our great hope."

Cave Found Under 22d Street . . .

The Washington Post

NATURAL FOR A BOMB SHELTER—Workmen begin repairing the subterranean traffic trap discovered yesterday under 22d st., at Q st. nw. A cave, 6 to 8 feet deep and wide enough for two automobiles, was found under surface by men seeking watermain leak

A tunnel 6 feet high, 30 feet long, and 15 feet wide discovered yesterday under 22d st. nw., just north of Q st., was laid by sanitary authorities to erosion created by a break in a 15-inch sewer line.

Dr. Dyar

Elwood Johnson, deputy director of sanitary engineering for the District, said dye poured into the hole showed up later in the sewage system. This gave rise to the theory that water from the line break had, over a period of years, washed the earth away.

Only a foot-thick cover of concrete and asphalt roadway lay between the tunnel and heavy traffic overhead.

Traffic on 22d st. nw., between P st. and Masachusetts ave. nw., was detoured yesterday while workmen tore up the paving preparatory to filling in the hole. A temporary surface will cover it so the section will be open to traffic Monday.

Meantime, northbound traffic was detoured to 20th st. Southbound traffic used 21st st. nw.

Water Department workmen uncovered the cavern yesterday when checking reports of a main leak. The tunnel, beginning on the west side of 22d street, extended east about halfway across the street.

The fact the street was repaved in 1942 cast doubt on one theory that the tunnel was dug by Dr. Harrison G. Dyar, a Smithsonian entymologist who died in 1928.

Dyar loved to dig tunnels. In 1924 he was quoted: "Everyone has his hobby; some men like to play golf, others like to do all sorts of things; I like to dig tunnels."

Dyar admitted digging a series of tunnels, the discovery of which led to stories of mystery, intrigue and romance — involving spies, bootleggers and Civil War underground operatives.

Dyar revealed he had dug tunnels from the rear of a house at 1510 21st st. nw., west and north as far as 2124 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Another tunnel was uncovered near 21st and P sts. nw. about 26 years ago. Dr. Dyar admitted doing the excavating. This site is only about two blocks from the site of the hole discovered yesterday but engineers believe that had the cavern existed at 22d and Q st., it would have been discovered during the 1942 paving operations.

Bulgar Regime Reported All USSR-Trained

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Feb. 3 (U.P.) Russia has moved into full control of Bulgaria. Some 500 Moscow-trained Communists are now in the new government, a reliable source said today.

The source, who recently returned from Sofia, said the death of Premier Vasil Kolarov two weeks ago had removed the last vestige of what was once the strongest independent Communist Party outside Russia.

The government formed last Wednesday by Vulko Chervenkov, following the death of Kolarov, puts the reins of power into the hands of Bulgarian Communists who have spent from 15 to 20 years in Russia, the source said.

These men, many of them Soviet citizens, returned to their homeland only after World War II.

Chervenkov went to Russia in 1925, and did not return until 1944. He was awarded the Medal of Lenin for propaganda work in the Soviet Union.

Houses at $16,500 Block Military's Public Works Bill

By The Associated Press

Objections to $16,500 houses for military personnel yesterday blocked Senate action on a bill authorizing five million dollars for military public works.

The objections were raised by Senator Douglas (D., Ill.) after Chairman Tydings (D., Md.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee had asked the Senate to approve the measure speedily and send it to the House.

Tydings noted that the Senate has had a military public works bill before it since last August 15. He said some of the projects, including a number for research and development purposes, were considered "urgent" by defense authorities.

Tydings introduced a substitute for the August 15 bill which cut about 100 million dollars out of the 600 million dollars originally sought by the Defense Department for public works for the Army, Navy and Air Corps.

After much argument, it was agreed to defer further consideration of the bill until Monday.

12-Day Strikes End in Chile

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla's Cabinet resigned today following settlement of strikes that beset Chile for the past 12 days.

Santiago and Valparaiso were without newspapers, however, and train service north and south of the capital were paralyzed by the two new 24-hour strikes that became effective just before a general settlement was reached.

Liberal and Traditionalist Conservative ministers were reported to have resigned to leave Gonzalez Videla in complete freedom to reorganize the ministries.

Santiago's transport system, other business that had been disrupted by the strikes were operating normally again.

The strike wave began January 22 when telephone and electric workers walked out to pressure Congress to pass a bill for improved working conditions and bonuses.

Bidault Gets Assembly To Suspend

Paris, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—Premier Georges Bidault tonight asked the National Assembly to suspend its meetings until next Tuesday because of the threatened collapse of his three party coalition government.

Bidault made the request after the Socialist Party voted to withdraw its support from the middle-of-the-road government and pull its five ministers out of the cabinet because of disagreement over a bonus to low-salaried workers.

But Bidault also announced the Socialist walkout will not force him to resign. He said he will replace the five Socialists in the cabinet with members of the other two big parties in the government.

The Assembly, by a vote of 423 to 182 supported Bidault's motion to suspend, with only the Communists voting against it.

Paris Reported Studying Plan To Recall Envoy to Kremlin

Paris, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—Informed sources today said France may recall its ambassador to Moscow as a result of Russia's "insulting" refusal to accept the French protest on Indo-China.

The protest against Soviet recognition of the Indo-Chinese Communists was presented Tuesday and returned Wednesday in the same envelope in which it had been sent. Soviet Ambassador Alexander Bogomolov curtly informed the Foreign Office Russia could not consider the protest.

Russia's action in rejecting the note without even pretending to study it was considered an "unprecedented insult."

Informed sources said the Foreign Office was considering the recall "for consultation" of Ambassador to Moscow Yves Chataigneau as a reply to the Russian challenge.

[The Associated Press reported that Britain has promised France "almost immediate moral support" in the East-West war of nerves in Indo-China, according to diplomatic sources in Paris.

[The informants say British support for the French-sponsored Emperor Bao Dai will be in the form of quick recognition. The United States also is expected to recognize Bao Dai soon.

[British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin conferred for an hour with French Foreign Ministry officials, touching chiefly on Indo-China and the effect of Moscow's recognition of Ho Chi-minh's government.

[At Jakarta, Batavia, roving United States Ambassador Philip Jessup said American recognition of Bao Dai would not indicate American approval of colonialism.

Store Sales Rise Here for Second Week

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington department store sales in the week ended January 29 increased 8 percent over the same 1949 week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported last night.

It was the second consecutive weekly rise and helped reduce a sharp decline in the first two weeks this year. For the four weeks ended January 29, local sales were reported only 5 percent below the year-ago level.

Regionally, the Fifth Reserve District showed an increase of 5 percent for the latest week and a drop of 6 percent for the four-week period.

Meanwhile, from another source came word that last years sales of Washington's independent retailers edged 1 per cent higher than in the previous record year. The Census Bureau said local nonchain stores in December showed no sales change from the same 1948 month.

Sales increases ranging from 7 to 15 percent were scored last year by these fields: food stores, drinking places, auto dealers and filling stations.

Big Mo Captain, Navigator Named Defendants As Court of Inquiry Opens, Inspects Vessel

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 3 (AP).—The battleship Missouri's commanding officer and navigator were named defendants today before a naval court of inquiry seeking to learn why the ship ran aground in Chesapeake Bay January 17.

Capt. Brown

They are Capt. William D. Brown of Frostproof, Fla., and Lt. Comdr. Frank G. Morris of New York.

After hearing one witness and admitting in evidence a dozen exhibits including the Big Mo's navigating and operating charts and logs, the court recessed for an inspection of the ship in drydock, then adjourned until Monday.

The court announced the weekend would be required for its members to examine the exhibits introduced by the judge advocate, Lieut. Comdr. Malcom J. Bradbury. The documents were produced by today's only witness, Comdr. George E. Peckham of Cresco, Iowa, the Missouri's executive officer. Some contain restricted information.

To Determine Responsibility

The court will try to learn the cause of and responsibility for the accident. It is finds offenses were committed or "serious blame incurred," it will make recommendations for further action. The court announced it will sit "with open doors until such time as information introduced might be bad for the United States Government."

Proceeding to the Norfolk Naval Shipyard at nearby Portsmouth, where the Big Mo was drydocked after she was freed from the shoal Wednesday, the court examined the 12-foot gash torn in the ship's bottom, and visited the bridge and other levels where certain officers were on duty when the Missouri grounded.

Among the exhibits is one showing location of the acoustic range which parallels the main ship channel in Chesapeake Bay just outside Hampton Roads. This paper accompanied another containing a request from the commander of the Norfolk Naval Base to Captain Brown to transit the range when he departed Hampton Roads for Guantanamo, Cuba.

Electronic Devices

The range consists of experimental electronic devices on the bay bottom, which are monitored by a naval ordnance laboratory at Fort Monroe, 1½ miles from the spot where the Big Mo ran aground.

Members of the court are Rear Admiral Milton E. Miles, commander of Cruiser Dvision 4; Capt. W. L. Field, chief of staff to the commander, Atlantic Fleet Service Force, and Capt. E. R. McLean, commanding the cruiser Columbus.

Counsel for Brown is Capt. Chester C. Wood, commanding the cruiser Albany. Counsel for Morris is Capt. H. H. Tiemroth, skipper of the USS Cadmus. Counsel to the judge advocate is Capt. E. W. Shanklin, skipper of the gunnery training ship Mississippi.

Refugees Confirm Vice Consul's Escape

New Delhi, India, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Refugees from China's Sinkiang Province confirmed today that American Vice Consul Douglas MacKiernan had escaped from the Chinese Communists, but said he would have a difficult time trekking across the ice-bound Himalayas towards India.

They said 54 of a party of 750 Chinese refugees had died in the blizzard-swept mountain passes before they reached Kashmir in January.

Gambling And Crime

It is hard to see how any survey of crime and its causes in Washington can be complete without a thorough investigation of gambling. We thus regret that the House District Subcommittee looking into law enforcement here has decided to forgo any "special emphasis" on gambling. There would be no need to "subordinate homicide and rape," as the subcommittee's counsel, Hyman Fischback, fears might be done in case gambling is taken up. The District has a high number of crimes in each of these categories, and anything that can be done to focus attention on the causes will be of help. But gambling is by no means unrelated to such crimes, for gambling invites gangsters who themselves are the perpetrators of other serious crimes.

Recent news stories have told of the large-scale robberies of District gamblers unreported by police; of accusations that members of the Police Department have been taking payoffs; of an attempt to intimidate a Government witness in the gambling trial, of an effort to bribe the jury in that trial. What graver danger to law enforcement could there be than the threat of bought juries? In short, is all this not evidence enough that the toleration of organized gambling is part and parcel of the composite of serious crime in Washington? We hope that the subcommittee will reconsider and will ask for enough money to include gambling in its general probe. For it now is apparent that the people of Washington cannot rely on the Commissioners to bring them the facts about the way gambling and the problems of law enforcement are intertwined.

Fresh Approach

It will be easy for the "realists" to dismiss as impractical idealism the fresh approach to the world crisis proposed the other day by Senator Brien McMahon. Why not, he asked, spend 50 billion dollars over the next five years—two thirds of what would otherwise be expended over the same period for armaments—and devote it to economic aid of the whole world, including Russia, and to peaceful development of atomic energy. In return, he would ask for general acceptance of an effective plan of atomic energy control and for a proportionate contribution by other countries of the sums which they would expend for armaments.

The proposal will be shattered at once, it can be said, on the rock of Soviet resistance. People will say you cannot buy peace. But these objections do not make constructive thought any less a responsibility of statesmanship. The world has desperate need today for bold and imaginative ideas to wrench it from the whirlpool into which it is descending. "This is a time," as Senator McMahon observed, "for soul-searching, for Nation-wide and world-wide debate, and for the launching and maintaining of that moral crusade for peace which alone can save us and lead mankind along the righteous paths of security, abundance and liberty."

Senator McMahon's proposal affords at least a signal to the world that morality and conscience are not dormant in America. It is heartening that an idealistic expression of this kind should have come from Capitol Hill. It echoes sentiments and will evoke response among men entrusted with executive responsibilities in the United States Government. In its intent and in its recognition of the imperative importance of a departure from the sterile formula of reprisal and counterreprisal in the cold war, it represents, perhaps, man's only hope. If only because he has pointed a finger in the right direction, Senator McMahon has earned commendation and gratitude.

Economic Indicators

The Joint Committee on the Economic Report has been provided with a very useful booklet containing charts showing changes in prices and employment, production and business activity, national income, industrial earnings, money supply and other data. The purpose of these graphic presentations is to give a concise picture of current economic trends. Heretofore the material contained in the report has been compiled solely for the use of the Council of Economic Advisers and executive officials. However, Congress has authorized monthly publication of the data for sale to the general public, under the title of Economic Indicators. It should be extremely useful not only to members of Congress, but to businessmen, farmers, the press and all citizens seeking information about changes in economic conditions. For, as Senator O'Mahoney, chairman of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report says, Economic Indicators makes it possible to obtain "a quick picture of current economic facts without having to go through voluminous and specialized documents."

Congress And Legion

The American Legion has launched a frontal assault on the Hoover Commission recommendations respecting veterans' affairs. As so often happens when logic is lacking, the Legion overstates its case, substituting vehemence for argument. The Hoover Commission recommendations, it declares in a broadside, make veterans "the targets in a vicious attack" and amount to "another knife in the backs of the men and women who have honorably served their country in time of war at serious sacrifice to their own personal welfare." It is no disparagement of the service and sacrifice of veterans to say that this is plain tommyrot. Any veteran who stops to think about it must know that the Hoover Commission was not vicious and was not attacking his rights in any way.

The Hoover Commission, after a careful, disinterested study, came to the conclusion that veterans would get better, more efficient treatment from their Government if certain operations at present conducted by the Veterans' Administration were delegated to specialized service agencies performing the same operations for nonveterans. Construction operations would be placed in the Interior Department along with all other construction activities of the Federal Government. Operations relating to GI housing loans would be handled by the Federal Housing Authority. Veterans' hospitals would be brought within a united hospital administration to make more hospitals available to veterans and to avoid waste and duplication in services and facilities. A Veterans' Life Insurance Corporation would be created to take care of all functions relating to Veterans' Administration insurance policies. Nevertheless, control over all veterans' programs would be retained by the Veterans' Administration, and this agency would continue to be the service center for all veterans' claims and interests. The commission does not propose to curtail a single one of the benefits accorded veterans. It proposes merely a reorganization of functions designed to promote economy and efficiency.

The Hoover Commission proposed, in addition, an exceedingly modest modification of the system of veterans' preference in the civil service—a system that ought to be abandoned completely because it gives veterans dubious benefits at the cost of corrupting the whole merit basis of Government employment. But the Hoover Commission did not recommend abandonment of veterans' preference. It recommended merely relaxation of the rigid "rule of three" to permit selection of a nonveteran better qualified for a particular job than the veteran put at the head of the eligible list by virtue of his veterans' preference points—and then only when "adequate reasons" dictate such selection. And the Hoover Commission recommended at the same time an aggressive "Nation-wide recruiting system to place veterans in Federal positions."

The American Legion's assault on these recommendations looks less like a defense of veterans' interests than like a defense of its own power as a manipulator of the Veterans' Administration. The broadside issued by the organization's national headquarters says "every Legionnaire, every post . . . should . . . contact your Senators and Congressmen . . . and do it in such a forceful manner that they will know you mean what you say! . . . The time for silk gloves is past. Now is the time to take off the gloves . . . use brass knucks if necessary."

Well, now is the time for the Congress of the United States to tell the American Legion to quit that kind of talk and take off those brass knucks. The Legion has been using brass knucks to influence legislation much too long. Now is as good a time as any for Congress to make it plain that it doesn't yield to that kind of intimidation. Now is a fine time to call the Legion's bluff. If Congress will do so, it will discover that those aren't brass knucks at all; they're just a dime-store imitation.

Hirohito

The State Department has provided the background of the note handed in by Ambassador Panyushkin demanding the trial of the Emperor of Japan as a war criminal. It is a reply to a Far Eastern Commission policy decision which was arrived at 4½ years ago! At that time the Japanese Emperor was exempted in a decision to arraign Japanese war leaders. In the meantime General MacArthur, aided by the State Department, has been pressing for the repatriation of the 370,000 Japanese prisoners still detained in Soviet territory. The State Department suggests that the new request about the Emperor derives from this pressure upon Moscow, and the implication is thoroughly justified.

Russia's proposal, of course, will be rejected, as the Russians no doubt have anticipated. Although Hirohito retains no vestige of power, and although his present position is not dissimilar to that of his ancestors in the reign of the shoguns, he is nevertheless venerated as the living symbol of national unity. Just as his authority made possible the surrender, so his existence has made easier the work of the military occupation.

The wisdom, then, of resisting the clamor raised after the surrender for the trial and condemnation of Hirohito by some Americans, inflamed by the propaganda and the experiences of war, has been abundantly proved. The artificial renewal of this clamor by the Russians at this time will not help the Communist cause in Japan. However, Japan is nowhere near the top of the Kremlin's international agenda. But doubtless Moscow has taken all that into calculation.

At the same time the application of the principle of command-responsibility in justification of the condemnation and execution of various Japanese military and naval leaders has left the occupation authorities in a logically and morally weakened position. For if those in authority are to be judged guilty of all the crimes of all their subordinates, then, under such reasoning, it seemed almost necessary to conclude that Hirohito, to whom every Japanese soldier and sailor acknowledged allegiance and submission, was guiltiest of all.

Russian Riddle

A review of the fast and furious steps that the Russians have taken of late seems to justify the feeling that the Kremlin has entered upon a military phase in its aggression. That does not necessarily mean war. It means an intensification of the spurs to insurrection. The greater danger, it must be emphasized again and again, lies in Europe, because Europe is the theater capable of giving the Russians immediate and the most profitable advantage, and presents, moreover, the only threat to the Soviet position. For this reason it is our conviction that what the Russians are doing in Asia is simply aimed at throwing dust in Western eyes, at executing a gigantic feint in order to pin down Western activity while moving in Europe. Russian maneuvers in Asia are devilishly clever, for the Western powers are bound to respond and to have their general policy affected in the process.

Let us begin with the Mao-Stalin talks. Mao Tze-tung is being kept in Moscow so as to pursue negotiations the like of which is the chaffering in an Oriental bazaar. The leaks may or may not be part of the game. For instance, there is the report that Mao will give the Russians half a dozen ports on the China coast, notably Tsingtao. Whether the Westerners turned this reported sell-out to psychological advantages in China is somewhat doubtful. What is clearer is that the report bemused Western chancelleries. So did the news that Moscow, where a few days ago Premier Hatta was being called every name in the calendar, has recognized Indonesia. This recognition, of course, is merely the cover for their diplomats to sow sedition in the richest treasure house of Asia. Another move, which has put the French into a tizzy, is the recognition of the Ho Chin-Minh regime in Indo-China—one of the most blatant challenges to a friendly power, viz, France, in diplomatic history. By this means the Russians have successfully arrested any French desire to recognize Mao Tze-tung. Perhaps, too, they hope to get the Western powers bogged down in a new military intervention on the side of the Emperor Bao Dai. What needs to be done in Indo-China beyond the recognition that Secretary Acheson has foreshadowed requires the most careful weighing of all the factors in our world strategy.

Meanwhile, with the Mao-Stalin negotiations creating a swirl of speculation throughout the world, the recognition of Peking accorded by Britain and India, is stalemated. At least this is the current report. India has not yet had a reply to the recognition proffered by Nehru, and the Indian Foreign Minister must be feeling chagrined, to say the least. Peking's silence seems almost contemptuous. In more or less the same boat are the British, for their recognition is hanging fire, too; and the indications are that Peking won't accept recognition till certain conditions have been satisfied. Mao is content to keep the British on tenterhooks, and this in itself must be a satisfaction to the xenophobic group he heads. Only in respect of the United Nations has the Peking regime behaved with any sense of diplomatic decorum. While the Russians are executing maneuvers at Lake Success solely with the view of impressing Mao in Moscow that "Codlin's the friend, not Short," the Pekingites have filed their credentials, and named their man to take the place of the Nationalist representative.

But all this activity appears to be more in the nature of flourishes to dazzle, deceive, divert, and embarrass. What is going on in Europe should hold the spotlight. What bothers the Russians most? Clearly the sturdy defiance of Marshal Tito, and the creeping spread of Titoism in Hungary, Poland and eastern Germany. Thus the squeeze on Tito is noticeably developing; the Russians are getting nasty again in Berlin; and all the signs show that another effort is brewing to yank Finland back of the iron curtain. Everything else, it seems to us, is camouflage for aggression in these places, and the Western World in the next three months will have need to brace itself for a warming up of the cold war.

SONNET ON AN OLD PATTERN

What is there, then, more greatly to regret
Than that the teeth of time should gnaw us down?
And who may meditate without a frown
The certitude life's golden sun must set?
It might be well if we could quite forget
What all must share with emperor and clown:
Then might we see imperial summer's crown:
Tarnish with autumn's rust, and have no fret.
But since the tyrant fact grants no reprieve,
Since all endure cold dissolution's test,
We list the beauty that is ours to leave,
Claiming no title to the rich bequest
And pleased if we may but a little grieve:
Forgetfulness denied, we face the west.

"Bridgework"

I have read your editorial of January 29 on the Anacostia bridges and I quite agree that it would be wise to ask for reconsideration by all agencies concerned in the hope that the best solution may be found, though I definitely disagree with your view that the well considered plans for the Anacostia Recreation Area on which so much money has already been expended may be scrapped. Certainly the Nation's Capital should not be without such a facility for major sports events with its planned road system and parking areas and possible railroad siding. There is no other area left so well adapted and it should not be sacrificed to satisfy the sudden whim of anybody.

Entirely apart from the recreation area, we could hardly find a longer or more expensive crossing than the proposed East Capital st. bridge. Isn't it time for The Washington Post and the citizens to join in stopping this continual selection of the most expensive solution of our traffic problems?

The present highway plan, to the formulation of which successive engineer commissioners have been a party and which has had at least the silent assent of the District authorities for about 15 years, contemplates a balanced and well distributed system of bridges, with one crossing at Massachusetts ave. on a mapped street which has been recognized for many years along with additional more northerly crossings, including the Washington-Baltimore parkway connection, all of which will give us ample service in line with our comprehensive plan. It is not a question of choice between the East Capitol st. bridge and the Massachusetts ave. bridge; but, according to the Highway Department's own report another bridge will be needed between Pennsylvania ave. and 11th st., even if the East Capitol st. bridge is built.

No one of these crossings can be considered as serving exclusively local or exclusively through traffic, and each crossing must be related to other existing and proposed crossings. They are all a part of the comprehensive plan, which should be changed only for good and sufficient reasons related to the plan as a whole. The plan also contemplates improvement of highway approaches to existing bridges. All of these developments can be cast into a capital expenditure program, taking into account Federal and District funds which can be made available without pyramiding capital outlay in any one year.

Editor's Note—In no sense did we call for scrapping the plan for the Anacostia Recreation Area. It is our understanding that the East Capitol st. bridge, though it would interfere somewhat, would not upset that plan drastically. What we did suggest was that proposals for moving the projected stadium to the site of the National Training School for Boys be considered.

Jaywalkers

The Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board is extremely indebted to The Washington Post for its excellent series of pictures showing pedestrian violations.

I read with great interest the January 29 letter by Mr. William D. Johnson in which he stated the unposed shots of jaywalking pedestrians were interesting but that he favored similar pictures of law-breaking motorists.

This suggestion certainly has unquestioned merit but perhaps Mr. Johnson does not realize that 70 percent of all the District's traffic fatalities are pedestrians and that is why we join with the traffic officials in thanking The Washington Post for its splendid effort to reduce this type of traffic death.

It may sound corny to refer to the value placed upon a picture in comparison to the printed word, by the Chinese, but I know of no better way to say you are doing a grand job in your daily feature showing errors committed by pedestrians and drivers which, in all too many cases, lead to street and highway traffic accidents.

Decentralized Building

The question of the best highway plan for Washington and the metropolitan area should also consider the problem of decentralization of the Government agencies in this Capital City. Congress should put a stop to construction of future Federal departmental buildings in the center of this city such as the GAO Building and should adopt a program for location of a future building center, within the District of Columbia where existing and future arterial highways will be available to provide access from the future center to all sections of the District of Columbia and Maryland. The traffic congestion caused by traffic between the Pentagon and other Federal buildings in Arlington and the District of Columbia, through the center of the city, is a mistake we can not afford to forget. Such a location is found in the area containing about a thousand acres, mostly vacant property, between the Anacostia River and Bladensburg rd.

Interstate truck traffic should be kept out of the city by construction of the proposed bridge over the Potomac River from Alexandria, a highway over Southern ave. and a highway on the right-of-way of former WB&A interurban electric car line to Baltimore, Md.

The Hydrogen Bomb

It seems to me that President Truman, in making his fateful decision regarding the hydrogen bomb, has overlooked the following basic principles:

1. Genuine peace is not based on fear. It cannot be achieved by scaring other nations or threatening them with extermination. It can only be achieved by patiently and imaginatively trying to remove the causes of fear and create an atmosphere of confidence and tolerance. Will the hydrogen bomb—or any bombs for that matter—remove the causes of fear?

2. Genuine peace will not be achieved by developing "super weapons." The possession of such weapons is but an open invitation to other nations to develop "super-super weapons."

3. There can be no genuine security for one nation if its neighbors or other nations feel insecure.

4. Genuine peace will not be achieved if we lose sight of the principle that the ends never justify the means. Human dignity and individual liberty will not in the long run be strengthened by the use of a weapon which could wipe out a city the size of Washington in a single blow. It may be said that the above principles would be fine if only the Kremlin would accept them, but I know of no way of getting anybody else to accept them unless we practice them ourselves.

Morally, I feel that there can be no doubt that before this new and atrocious armaments race is started, both parties are obliged to try negotiations. To say that the Soviets should first advance such a proposal is of no avail. If the obligation exists for both, neither party can be excused from going ahead. That the Soviets refused to accept the Baruch plan has nothing to do with the present situation. We might not have been willing to accept the Baruch plan either, if the location of our plants were unknown to the Russians.

Politically, it should be clear by now that this thing cannot go on and on. We cannot indefinitely expand the part of our national income devoted to defense. We cannot indefinitely expose the world to the danger of mutual suicide. We cannot indefinitely go on with a foreign policy of necessary and insoluble contradictions. It should be clear also that no partial approach, such as the Baruch plan, will do. What the world needs is an all-around political settlement combined with an agreement on general and enforceable disarmament. I for one cannot see when a better opportunity for attempting such a settlement shall present itself than now, when all nations concerned have the feeling of standing at the crossroads.

To me there is no real leadership in terms of outwitting another in destruction. This way of thinking is to me a cowardice and a shame. It is better to take a chance for belief in humanity, and a hope for understanding, and the burden of expenditure of everything for a better life for the peoples, and lose, than to throw away those principles we know are eternally right for those we know are eternally wrong.

I do not believe in miracles, but I do believe in human response to real human courage and faith and hope and love. This is a third alternative—the alternative of risking for the way of peace and uprightness what we seem willing to risk for the way of armament.

Good Old Days A La Mode

By Malvina Lindsay

Political Nostalgia

I HAD fully decided to go to the Lincoln Day box supper Monday night instead of the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner February 16, the reason being, not politics, but $98. As one of the many Americans bankrupted by $10 banquets, I was ripe to fall into the lap of the Republican Party on the $1 chicken dinner issue—even though I had to pay a $1 entrance fee to partake of it.

Why, this dollar meal issue, I told myself, could easily sweep the Republicans to victory in 1950 on the dining club vote alone! I should begin at once to mend my political fences.

Then, too, the box supper idea fascinated me. In no field is my devotion to the good old days so ardent as in politics. Here was a chance to retreat from the H-bomb to the time of Taft or even of McKinley. But wait! After all, the Democrats at their swanky $100-plate affair, were having some "belles of democracy." Likely as not they would be antebellum belles!

Now nothing stirs me, and millions of other Americans, including all those who attend costume balls like an antebellum belle in crinoline with a curl over her shoulder. If the Democrats were to offer this inducement to return to the mid-nineteenth century, I might think twice before becoming a Republican.

YET—I HAD never been a Southern belle, but I had been to box suppers. The thought of their homespun atmosphere brought a lump to my throat. Of course the Republican women weren't going to come with shoe boxes covered with pink crepe paper and filled with home cooked dainties. Just the same I visioned us all sitting around in pairs chummily eating our fried chicken with our fingers. Everyone naturally would be in his or her one Sunday outfit—no mink capes or orchids. Then after the supper and the speeches I assumed we'd all play "Going to Jerusalem" or "Post-office."

In view of recent perorations on policy by Old Guard members of the Republican National Committee, I had built high hopes on just such an early American event. But now, from what I hear, radical elements in the party are taking over with a lot of new fangled ideas.

There are to be Hollywood entertainers! A smart, slick master of ceremonies. A high-toned jazzy orchestra from New York. Contraptions called loud speakers to amplify music and speeches. Door prizes including a lot of electric gadgets, maybe even a deep freezer! And the suppers will be put up assembly line fashion by airline caterers.

What is more, Uline Arena will be electrically illuminated—no coal oil or gas lamps—even though some Congressmen on the arrangements committee have always opposed extending rural electrification. There will be hordes of photographers, radio and television men with paraphernalia obscuring the vision of the common man. The proceedings will be broadcast and televised throughout the United States, even possibly the world, in spite of those Congressmen present who have been proclaiming we should have nothing to do with foreigners.

DOES THAT sound like a simple box supper of the good old days of fundamental Americanism? That's the trouble with politicos. They always want to have their cake and eat it.

Of course I can still pay my $100 (or can I?) and go to the Democrats' party, where there should be at least one good rousing scrap to bring back the good old days. But I wonder if I wouldn't see there a lot of folderol that would make Jefferson turn his back, as he did on the snobbish Irish dandy Tom Moore, and that would cause Jackson to—well never mind.

Anyway I haven't yet given up entirely on the Republicans. There are still the speeches. Time may march on, but not political oratory. Even if my fried chicken should come in cellophane, I'm still willing to bet I'll hear somebody call for a return to the Smoot-Hawley tariff, if not the Payne-Aldrich one. I might even hear something about the full dinner pail. And in such a setting someone may remind us "America's present need is not nostrums but normalcy." Even if everything else fails, the "old-fashioned virtues that made America great" will be triumphantly indorsed.

I admit there's a chance the Republicans may let me down even on this and come out with some new fangled ideas about how to meet our stupendous problems of 1950—instead of those of 1910. If they should, that would be worth a lot more than $2.

Interracial Athletics

Congratulations are in order for Tom Clayton, athletic director of Gallaudet College; Tom Hart, wrestling coach of Howard University, and the athletes of the respective institutions for the splendid intercollegiate wrestling event at Gallaudet College on January 28.

Except for the unique nature of the sports event in the Nation's Capital, no special citation would have been in order. It is my hope that this will indeed be the forerunner for establishing athletic relations in wrestling and other sports in the District's colleges and universities with Howard University.

Michigan Politics

By Marquis Childs

Governor Williams' Reelection Fight

LANSING, Mich.—Of the Democrats swept into office in the surprise victory of November, 1948, one of the most interesting is the youthful looking Governor of Michigan, G. Mennen Williams. Williams is now getting set to run for reelection in the campaign this fall and his chances in this normally Republican State seem fairly good.

Childs

His critics say wryly that he has spent most of his time getting reelected from the first day he took office. But one of the penalties of the ridiculous two-year term, which prevails in many States, is that the Governor before he has scarcely warmed the chair of office must begin to think about his political future. In a State of the wealth and diversity of Michigan, with the vast new burdens imposed on government, this must put a premium on inefficiency and politicking.

One thing Williams undeniably has, and that is charm. He looks like a blend of Li'l Abner and Gary Cooper. And the friendliness and naturalness so widely advertised in his campaign are qualities he has distributed even more liberally during his first year in office.

Williams estimates he has traveled perhaps 75,000 miles in the State in that year. He has constantly been broadening his base and particularly with the farmers whose contribution to the economy of the State has been overshadowed by the mass production of Michigan's world-famous auto industry.

One thing Williams speaks most proudly of is his drive last fall to save the apple growers of the State from economic disaster. As he tells the story, every possible outlet, including the Federal Government, was prevailed upon to take a part of the bumper apple crop.

While Williams' election might be discounted as a fluke in an abnormal year, Michigan Republicans are aware that today he must be taken more seriously. The GOP candidate considered most likely to defeat him is Harry F. Kelly who served two terms as Governor from 1943 to 1947. Another Republican candidate is Fred M. Alger, jr., now Secretary of State, member of an old and wealthy Michigan family.

Kelly is said to be interested in the Senate seat now occupied by Michigan's most distinguished son, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg. Vandenberg's term expires in 1952, and he said when he ran in 1946 that he would under no circumstances be a candidate for reelection.

In recent months he has been convalescing from a major operation. The convalescence has not been as rapid as had been expected and there is speculation here that Vandenberg may decide to retire before his term has expired.

In some printed reports this speculation has gone a step further to suggest that Vandenberg would like to see his son, Arthur, jr., named to his seat should he decide to retire. Arthur, jr., is now in Brazil, where he is directing the extensive development program of Nelson Rockefeller in South America.

Much of the speculation on Vandenberg and a "deal' for the Senate seat is based on the assumption that Michigan will go Republican again in the fall. Williams is the fourth Democrat to be elected Governor since the start of the New Deal in 1933. The preceding three were one-term Governors coming in on Roosevelt landslides.

Beyond doubt, Williams owes a debt of gratitude to organized labor for getting out the pro-Truman vote. But if the labor tag is too obvious, he is not likely to be reelected in a year without a Democratic President at the head of the ticket. There are just about as many small-town and farm voters as there are city voters.

It is not easy to broaden the base of support in a State which, to all intents and purposes, has had one-party politics for so long. The Democratic Party was a collection of amiable politicians willing to take the left-overs from the Republican table. Williams has tangled with these easygoing regulars in an effort to put backbone into the party.

At the same time he has had to hold off the too eager embrace of his labor admirers in Detroit and the other motor cities. If he can strike a proper balance, hold the support he has and win over at least some of the farmers he may be Governor again.

The Republican Legislature is coming back in March and that means more combat. "Soapy" Williams is 39 years old. He says frankly and with his engaging grin that he likes the job of Governor. If boundless energy and good will can bring it off, he may be reelected. And in so doing he may start a real transformation of his party in this State.

Baby's Life Saved by a Breath . . .

of the Production and Marketing Administration, said that "actually few potatoes will be destroyed." Instead, they will either be used as fertilizer—spread over the ground on which they grew, and then plowed under—or fed to livestock. Of course, he said, some might just rot.

Before they are thrown out, the Government will spend 1 or 2 cent a bushel for blue dye to soak them. Brannan admitted it will take a lot of blue dye to discolor 40 million bushels of potatoes.

The dye is approved as edible by the Pure Food and Drug Administration. Agriculture inspectors won't allow blue potatoes to be sold.

Destruction Not New

When asked why it wouldn't be cheaper to just leave them in the ground, Smith replied that they had to be dug so the Government could buy them.

Brannan pointed out that destroying potatoes isn't a new performance. An estimated 45 million bushels of the 1923 crop, he said, were disposed of as "livestock feed on the farm and other local disposition. Some 7,500,000 bushels were left in the ground."

"These totals represented about 12 percent of the 1928 crop, and farmers had to absorb all the losses involved," Brannan added.

While Brannan was ordering the spuds destroyed—they total about 15 to 20 pounds for every man, woman and child in the United States—the potato scandal was the subject of extended congressional debate.

Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) called for immediate removal of all Government price supports for potatoes.

The "multi-million-dollar" losses on potatoes have given a "very dark eye to the entire farm program," Lucas said. He added that there are "no controls whatsoever" upon planting or marketing of potatoes now.

Anderson Agrees

Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D., N. Mex.) agreed. He added that unless a law to hold down planting and marketing is enacted soon, Congress may yank all supports from under spuds.

But the Agriculture Department wasn't waiting for Congress to make up its mind. In accordance with the Agriculture Act of 1949, it announced the 1950 program for supporting potato prices.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics already has estimated that the 1950 acreage will be within 1 percent as large at this year. Potatoes will be supported at almost the same high figure that existed this year—only 9 cents less. This year's potatoes are now being bought by Uncle Sam at about $1.25 a bushel.

It is too late for Congress to amend the law to stop supports on part of the 1950 crop. New potatoes are already coming to market from the South.

Action Delayed On Hatch Act

the Senate plan the Civil Service Commission will find itself in the position of having to suspend or discharge Federal employees in every state except Maryland and Virginia for activities that will be "perfectly lawful and proper" in those two states.

Main purpose of the bill when it first passed the House was to let the Civil Service Commission apply to Hatch Act violators penalties less severe than the present mandatory discharge from Federal employment. This was revised by the Senate to include a 60-day payless suspension as the minimum penalty, and other changes, and the bill was enlarged by addition of the local politics section.

The local politics section applies to two kinds of communities: (1) Those in the immediate vicinity of the Nation's Capital where at least 10 percent of the voters are employes of the Federal or District government, and (2) In other communities where 50 percent of the voters are Federal employes.

On a Party Basis

In both kinds of communities, the local participation could be on a party basis, in contrast with the present system that requires such local activity to be "nonpartisan."

One feature of the Senate-approved plan is that it takes the supervision of local political activity out of the hands of the Civil Service Commission, without saying what agency is to take over this chore. Officials believe it would be up to individual agencies to handle it.

Officials predicted employes would have to learn how the new plan would work by taking their own chances with it. These officials said they can see no way for an individual to play an active party role at the county or local level without being in party politics at levels banned by the Hatch Act. They said, it would be impossible for a Government employe as a party candidate for a county board position to speak at a party rally with other candidates for State or Federal office without being in party politics "all the way."

Mann Leading Advocate

The "local party politics" plan was sponsored by Virginia and Maryland senators, after it was initally presented in open Senate hearings. Harrison Mann, Arlington County Democratic chairman, took the lead in presenting it with support of Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) and others.

Senator Stennis yesterday took issue with a protest there have been no public hearings on the plan. There were two hearings, he said. Only Civil Service Chairman Mitchell testified in opposition to it, he said.

Non-partisan leaders in Arlington have taken the lead in protesting the plan. They see it as a blow at their organizations for the benefit of the dominant Virginia Democratic organization.

Senator Stennis said the transcript of the hearings was not printed, and is not available for public inspection because members of Congress and other participants have not gone over it to correct their remarks. The hearings were held last April and May.

Fair Practices Code Offered Grocery Trade

By The Associated Press

The Federal Trade Commission proposed yesterday a voluntary code of fair trade practices for the grocery industry.

The agreement would pledge 600,000 retail food stores, 6000 wholesalers, and 50,000 manufacturers to abstain from a long list of "unfair methods of competition and other unlawful trade practices and abuses."

The plan was presented to an FTC-sponsored conference of more than 100 representatives of the industry. Almost all the national associations in each branch of the industry and by most of the State retailers' organizations were represented.

The majority of speakers voiced general support of FTC's aims, although some declared the agency itself should enforce more energetically the existing laws against "predatory" practices.

FTC Commissioner James M. Mead, former Senator from New York, asked the industry to study and suggest improvements in the tentative code, saying that a meeting would be called later to draft a final document.

"Businessmen generally want to compete fairly, but some are unwilling to abandon unfair practices when they feel they must compete with unscrupulous competitors," Mead said.

"We think that problem can be overcome if all will agree to make a simultaneous start on living up to a specific code, wiping the slate clean of past offenses."

The proposal does not mean that the commission is "going soft," Mead said. It still expects to enforce fair trade provisions of the Robinson-Patman Act, but hopes to cut down the number of cases by enlisting voluntary cooperation.

The suggested code would prohibit price discriminations granted by manufacturers or wholesalers, whether through discounts, rebates, refunds or other special favors. It would bar unfair brokerage arrangements and the giving of special services or advertising to help favored customers.

Other rules would forbid such things as the use of "loss leaders" to mislead buyers, selling below cost to hurt competitors, offering reductions from fictitious prices, offering inadequate supplies at bargain prices as a lure to customers, and using "false or deceptive" selling methods.

The majority of those present represented independent retail groups, but both the country's largest food chains had representatives on hand—the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., and Safeway Stores, Inc.

Choking Baby Revived by Girl's Breath

While a mother screamed in fear, a hospital telephone operator blew and puffed in the face of a week-old infant yesterday, and apparently saved it from choking to death.

The child is Lee Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall L. Lucado, 1490 Newton st. nw.

The rescuer was Mrs. Martha Sutton, 21, who lives in the same rooming house, and is an operator at Doctors Hospital.

Mrs. Lucado, who is 30, later told police she was feeding the baby boy water in her kitchen, about 11 a. m., when he suddenly choked and seemed to have stopped breathing.

Her screams attracted Mrs. Sutton, who was in a bathtub on the same floor.

She ran to the kitchen, she said, and began to blow and puff into the infant's face. Finally, she said, he opened his eyes, moved his arms, and began to breathe.

Mrs. Sutton, who had not met the Lucados previously, said she "remembered my mother doing that," and "I just tried it." She said the puffing and blowing might have been anywhere from 2 to 10 minutes. Mrs. Sutton said she has not had expert medical training but took a nurses' aide course at Kanawha Valley Hospital, Charleston, W. Va.

New Housing Bill Called All American

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The Administration's new housing bill is the "private enterprise" solution, David L. Krooth of the National Housing Conference, Inc., told Congress yesterday.

Krooth testified before the House Banking and Currency Committee which is currently holding hearings on the new program, including cooperative housing, for "middle income" families.

Persons in the "middle" bracket are not eligible for public housing because their incomes are too high, Krooth pointed out, adding:

"They can't afford new housing that is being built for rent or sale, nor is there an adequate supply of existing houses available to them at prices they can afford. Therefore these families must look to additional production of housing to meet their needs."

He said the Administration measure combines "good old American principles of initiative and self-help, with the economies of large-scale development and better private financing."

Another witness in favor of the measure was Frank Ketchum, general counsel for the Congregational Christian Churches of the United States.

Senate Passes GI Justice Bill

By the United Press

The Senate yesterday passed 62 to 9 a bill to establish a single system of justice for all the armed services and give accused GIs a better legal break.

The measure now goes back to the House, which approved a somewhat different version last year. Seven Republicans and two Democrats voted against it.

Final action came after the Senate shouted down a series of changes by Sen. Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) to remove military courts from control of commanding officers. The measure creates a uniform code of justice for the Army, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard. The code was drafted by a special Department of Defense committee. Heretofore the services all have had their own justice systems.

The committee was set up as a result of widespread criticism that military courts were too harsh and discriminated in favor of officers and against ordinary GIs.

The new code would afford more protection for servicemen by requiring that fellow enlisted men sit on general and special courts martial. In addition, the military courts would be partly removed from domination by commanding officers by a provision barring censure or reprimand of a court martial by the convening authority.

The bill would also assure the right to counsel at pre-trial investigations, provide special courts martial for officers, and set up a final appeals tribunal within the Defense Department as a court of last resort.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn., sponsor of the Senate version, said it so simplified legal justice that a civilian lawyer could handle any case during any stage.

Chrysler, Union Open Strike Peace Parleys

Detroit, Feb. 3 (AP).—The Chrysler Corp. and United Automobile Workers (CIO) will open peace talks Saturday in the hope of ending a 10-day strike that has idled more than 130,000 workers.

Both sides agreed to a joint meeting at 10 a. m. EST at the request of Federal and State mediators.

Most of Chrysler's 106,000 employes and more than 30,000 in supplier plants were idled when the UAW-CIO walkout occurred January 25.

proposed to raise another 400 million dollars from lower exemptions and higher rates on estates and gifts. He said these are now far out of line with income taxes and "no other method of raising this additional revenue would have less serious effects on the economy."

The committee sat nearly all afternoon questioning Snyder and then Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.) announced 10 days of hearings, starting Monday, on loophole plugging. He said the committee next will spend about a week hearing testimony on excise tax cuts. He said adjustments in estate and gift taxes and corporation rates will be heard last.

Doughton said he will try to avoid extended hearings "in view of the widespread interest in tax legislation and the interest of industries that may be affected by excise tax reduction in prompt action."

Here's how Snyder proposed to cut excise taxes:

Retail taxes on furs, luggage, jewelry and toilet preparations, reduced from 20 to 10 percent.

The tax on baby oils, powders and lotions would be eliminated entirely.

Long distance telephone and telegraph tax, cut from 21 to 15 percent.

Tax on railroad, bus, airplane and other passenger transportation, cut from 15 to 10 percent.

Eliminate entirely the 3 percent tax on freight charges.

Under questioning, Snyder conceded other excises should ultimately be reduced, but warned the Treasury couldn't bear a further revenue loss at this time. He said those he listed are "the most urgently needed."

The proposed 10 percent tax on television sets would simply extend the present tax on radios to the new field, he said.

Representative Herman P. Eberharter (D., Pa.), told Snyder he was particularly disappointed that no cut in local telephone rates was proposed and Representative John Dingell (D., Mich.), served notice he will work for "complete elimination or the greatest possible reduction in excises."

Detailing the Administration's proposed loophole plugging, Snyder recommended a cut in the depletion allowance for oil and gas wells from 27½ percent to 15; sulphur mines from 23 to 15 percent, and for non-metallic minerals, from 15 to five percent.

He asked that income derived by educational institutions from "the operation of businesses which are clearly unrelated to their primary functions" be taxed at regular corporation rates.

To eliminate the "abuse" of using "so-called charitable foundations or trusts . . . as a cloak for controlling businesses," he suggested that such trusts or foundations be required to pay out substantially all net income within a specified period after the close of every taxable year.

Representative Noah Mason (R., Ill.) and later Chairman Doughton asked Snyder why he didn't recommend taxing income of cooperatives and "close other loopholes." Snyder replied that the Administration felt farm cooperatives "are tied up with the over-all farm cooperatives."

Doughton asked why no proposals were made to tax income of building and loan associations and mutual loan associations, when derived from 'a competing business." Snyder said he "had no objections" to the committee plugging any loopholes it could find.

No Guess on Balanced Budget

Under further questioning Snyder declined to say when he thought the budget could be balancer, but commended a proposal put forward by Representative Wilbur D. Mills (D., Ark.) to wipe out part of the deficit by giving corporations only six months, instead of a full year, to pay their taxes. Snyder said he approved of the idea as a "tax reform," but said it wouldn't raise any more revenue.

In recommending a new 42 percent rate on big corporations, Snyder argued that corporate profits and dividents have "increased substantially" since the 38 percent rate was adopted in 1945. In view of the "strong position of large corporations," he said the tax wouldn't adversely affect the economy.

Actually, he said, only 10 percent of all corporations would be affected, while another 15 percent, (those earning between $25,000 and $120,000) would have their taxes reduced by repeal of the old "notch" rates.

Incentive to "Risk-Taking"

As a further incentive to business "risk-taking," he recommended extension of the period for offsetting losses against profits of subsequent years to five years, with a one-year "carryback."

And to implement the President's "Point Four" program he proposed placing foreign branch operations of American companies on an "equal footing" with foreign subsidiaries, by allowing postponement of tax on their income until it returned to the United States.

Here are the Administration's proposed changes in excise tax rates:

Tax	Present rate	Reduced rate	Estimated annual loss (Millions)
Transportation of property	3%	....	$310
Transportation of persons	15	10%	75
Long - distance telephone and telegraph	25	15	120
Retail excises:
Furs	20	10	25
Luggage	20	10	35
Jewelry	20	10	80
Toilet preparations*	20	10	50
Total			$595
Increase from including television in present manufacturers' excise tax on radios		10	40
Total revenue loss			$655

4 Churches Back Teen-Age Program

Four downtown churches have pooled resources to provide a Saturday night canteen for teen-agers at the Boys' YMCA, 1732 G st. nw.

Each Saturday night about 40 high school age boys and girls, who call themselves the "Saturday Niters," meet at the Y for games and dancing from 7:30 to 11 p. m.

Cooperating are Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw.; Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw.; New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, 13th st. and New York ave., and First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw.

All the churches have weekday programs for children and young people who live in the downtown area.

They found, however, that there was need for a recreational program on Saturday nights which, working separately, they could not meet adequately. As a result, an Interchurch Recreation Committee was formed and the canteen launched early in December.

Twelve volunteer workers, three from each church, act as leaders for the program. The churches take turns in furnishing refreshments.

The "Saturday Niters" may play games, go for a swim, see a feature movie, or dance. On several nights, they have had special entertainment.

Recently they formed a program committee to work with the adult advisers in organizing special activities for the canteen.

Visiting Missionaries Greeted by Truman

President Truman yesterday greeted 24 fellow Baptists in his White House office as part of the observance here of World Mission Week.

The delegation consisted of missionaries who serve in China, Argentina, Nigeria, Burma, Japan, Belgian Congo, Hungary and the United States. They have been speaking this week in Baptist churches of the area.

Introducing the missionaries to the President, Dr. Edward H. Pruden, pastor of the President's church, the First Baptist Church, declared:

"This is the fifth annual World Mission Week in which we have tried to make the people of Washington conscious that missionaries are ambassadors of good will to every nation. They are a powerful influence in creating that reservoir of good will which may prevent another world conflict."

In the group were three American Indians who minister to their own people: the Rev. David Owl, a Cherokee, is pastor on the Seneca Reservation near Buffalo, N. Y., and the Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Hancock work with the Choctaw Indians in Oklahoma.

In meetings during the week, the Rev. Isama Chiba, native Japanese pastor, said that although 23 of the 53 Baptist church buildings in Japan were bombed in the war, membership has more than doubled.

A medical missionary in Nigeria, Dr. Harold B. Canning, warned: "There is the greatest hatred for white people today that Africa has ever known. We can change this feeling if we missionaries get there first and in sufficient numbers."

End Vatican Representation, Lutheran Council Urges U. S.

Minneapolis, Feb. 3 (AP).—Termination of United States diplomatic relationship with the Vatican was urged today in a resolution adopted by the National Lutheran Council, in annual meeting.

"The resignation of Myron Taylor as personal representative of the President at the Vatican reminds us again of the impropriety of such representation," the resolution stated.

Another resolution condemned "the persistent efforts of the Hungarian government to dominate and control the life and work of the churches" and called the continued imprisonment of the Lutheran Bishop Lajos Ordass of Budapest one of the most flagrant instances of religious persecution."

Jewish Studies

Course Given In Chasidic Mysticism

A course in the foundations of Chasidic mysticism will be one of the features of the second semester of the College of Jewish Studies, which begins Monday.

Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, dean of the school, said the course is being offered by popular request because of the growing interest in mysticism and the sources of morals and ethics.

In addition the college will offer courses in American Jewish sociology, American Jewish history, college Yiddish, principles and practices of Judaism, Jewish prayers, great Jewish books, Talmud, Hebrew, and modern Israel.

Organized two years ago, the college meets in the evening at the George Washington University Hillel Foundation building, 2129 F st. nw. It is open to high school graduates of all faiths.

J. R. Young to Dedicate New Boys Clubhouse

Commissioner John Russell Young will cut the ribbon and deliver the keynote address at dedication ceremonies at 2 p. m. Sunday for the new Metropolitan Police Boys' Club No. 5.

The new clubhouse, the eighth, will be at 1001 K st. se. in the building formerly occupied by No. 10 Engine Company of the Fire Department. The building has been redecorated and is now worth about $165,000.

Inmate Stabbed by 'Pal'

Baltimore, Feb. 3 (AP).—A man serving 18 years for second degree murder was stabbed in the chest today by another inmate at Maryland Penitentiary.

Col. Edwin T. Swenson, prison warden, reported James Harding, 20, is in critical condition. His assailant, 23-year-old William Ligons, was put in solitary confinement. Colonel Swenson said they got into an argument in the prison shoe shop and Ligons attacked with a pair of shears.

Calvary Schedules Youth Week Service

More than 1000 young people are expected to attend a service marking the close of Youth Week at 8 p. m. Sunday at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw.

Speakers will be the Rev. Howell Wilkins, Delaware Methodist minister, and David Ritchie of the American Friends Service Committee, Philadelphia. The service is sponsored by the Washington Federation of Christian Youth.

Episcopal Laymen To Present Program

Twenty-two laymen are meeting with the vestries and lay leaders of the parishes and congregations of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington to give them a "package presentation" of the church program.

Record Gas Tax Returns

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3 (AP).—Gasoline tax collections in Virginia in 1949 aggregated $43,819,782.44, an all-time high, the State Division of Motor Vehicles reported today. The figure exceeded the 1948 collections by $3,976,491.74. The gallonage last year was 730,021,199.

Lewis Answer On Coal Truce Is Due Today

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Will John L. Lewis accept the President's proposal for a 70-day fact-finding soft coal truce?

The leader of the United Mine Workers' 400,000 soft coal diggers will come up with his answer today, a few hours before the 5 p. m. deadline set by Mr. Truman earlier in the week.

Should John L. accept the proposal—which provides "normal" production during the period in which a three-man board investigates the coal contract dispute and makes its recommendations for a solution—a coal shortage crisis will be averted. Seventy days of "normal" five-day production would bring up enough coal to carry well into next fall, even should the fact-finders fail to settle the controversy.

What will happen if Lewis rejects the White House proposal?

Mr. Truman is then likely to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, which provides an injunction-enforced 80-day cooling-off period, during which the union involved must resume its normal production activities. However, there is a question in the minds of some Government labor officials as to whether the angered miners would return to the pits, despite any punitive court measures that might be taken against the UMW.

Should such a crisis arise, Congress itself would have to cope with the problem.

Meanwhile, the United States Steel Corp. announced that its own coal-producing subsidiaries have wired the White House an acceptance of the President's proposal, following up the earlier acceptance of the Northern and Western operators. Southern producers last night added their approval to the truce.

Coal Strike Ordered, Union Official Reports

Taylorville, Ill., Feb. 3 (AP).—A United Mine Workers committeeman for this area said tonight UMW members in coal mines across the Nation have been ordered on strike Monday.

A source close to Illinois operators gave a similar report. He said the UMW had sent telegrams to local leaders with instructions for the men to leave the pits Monday.

The UMW committeeman, who asked that his name be withheld, acknowledged such a telegram was received here.

Electricity Rationed, Coal Shortage Blamed

Pittsburgh, Feb. 3 (AP).—Duquesne Light Co. today rationed electric power to large industrial customers using electric furnaces. A coal shortage was blamed.

Steel companies immediately felt the effect of the order limiting use of furnaces to hours when peak demands are not being made for power.

The utility firm has reported its coal supplies have been skimpy as a result of the current "no contract no work" miners' strike.

United States Steel Corp. said it had four furnaces in the area whose melting operations would be curtailed. Crucible Steel of America said its electric furnace melting operations were cut at Midland, Pa.

A Duquesne Light spokesman said electric furnace customers will be off the power lines during the daytime hours from 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. on weekdays until further notice.

Bill Lifts Limit On Insured Bank Deposits

By The Associated Press

A bill to increase Federal insurance of individual bank accounts from $5000 to $10,000 was approved yesterday by the Senate Banking Committee.

The increased coverage is the chief feature of legislation amending the Federal Deposit Insurance Act. The bill also provides for rebates to member banks on assessments they pay to finance the system.

Chairman Maybank (D., S. C.) told reporters the bill was recommended unanimously by the committee after the adoption of some amendments.

He said he thinks it has an excellent chance of being passed by the Senate.

One of the main amendments would require the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) to pay simple 2 percent interest on loans it obtained from the Treasury and the Federal Reserve System for its initial capital.

These loans totaled 289 million dollars and now have been repaid. Maybank said the interest payment would amount to about 98 million dollars.

The present assessment rate on insured banks of one-twelfth of 1 percent of insured deposits would remain unchanged under the legislation.

Evangelist Talks Set

Waltham Plant Suspension Blamed on RFC

Waltham, Mass., Feb. 3 (AP).—The 100-year-old Waltham Watch Co.—oldest in the Nation—shut down today amid charges the American watchmaking industry was being "sold down the river."

A company representative and labor union leaders joined in denouncing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for refusing to extend the firm two million dollars in working capital.

At the same time, they called the closing a blow to national defense. The Waltham plant was wholly converted to war work in both World Wars—turning out a major share of military timing devices such as those used on bombs and torpedoes.

The shutdown threw 1200 out of work—costing this city a weekly payroll of about $47,000.

Walter Cenerazzo, head of the Independent Watch Workers Union, charged the dumping of Swiss watches on the American market at low prices was ruining the industry.

Assailing the Adminsitration for failing to check Swiss watch imports, Cenerazzo said:

"In 10 years more than 100 million watches have been imported into this country. We only have a population of 150 million."

Employment in the American jeweled watch industry, he said, has fallen more than 3100 in 14 months.

Daniel J. Lyne, Boston attorney who was named a trustee and helped reorganize the Waltham company a year ago, charged:

"The RFC evidently is out to sell the firm down the river."

"You can't set off an A-bomb or an H-bomb unless you have precision workers to make the fuses," he said in a statement. "The only other places where these workers can be found is in Switzerland, which in 24 hours could be inside, instead of outside, the Iron Curtain."

The Waltham company has been in financial difficulties during a good part of its century-long history. Twice it has been bankrupt.

Only a year ago the plant shut down for four months until the RFC came to the rescue with a six-million-dollar loan.

The RFC broke the loan into three parts—three million dollars to pay off debts, two million dollars for new equipment and one million dollars for working capital.

The latest financial crisis developed when the RFC refused to allow the company to use the two million dollars earmarked for new machinery as working capital.

Church Services Set for Lisner

Beginning Sunday, services of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church will be held in Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H sts. nw.

The church will meet in the auditorium while its new $893,000 building is under construction at 13th st. and New York ave. nw. Church offices are at 1406 G s. nw.

Church school for beginners through intermediate classes will meet at 9:30 a. m. at Western Presbyterian Church, 1906 H st. nw.

Phone Talks Move Over To Subsidiary

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service concentrated its attention on Western Electric Co., manufacturing subsidiary of the Bell System, in hopes of finding a peace formula for the telephone industry, threatened by a strike next Wednesday.

William N. Margolis, conciliation trouble-shooter and a veteran mediator of the six-weeks' phone strike in 1947, conferred yesterday in New York with Western Electric officials in the dispute involving 13,000 WE installation men, affiliated with the CIO Communications Workers of America.

The installation workers, including several hundred in Washington, plan to walk out Wednesday in a demand for higher wages and other benefits. Telephone operators, maintenance men, and clerks, here and in other cities, have already announced they will respect the WE picket lines.

Margolis yesterday referred to the WE contract controversy as a key dispute in the series of disputes involving Bell System companies, including the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and affiliates of the Communications Workers.

In Washington, CWA Division 50, representing the operators, and Division 36, representing the plant employes, will meet with C&P officials Monday for their third contract negotiations session.

Strasser in Appeal

Bridgetown, Nova Scotia, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Dr. Otto Strasser, one-time leader of the anti-Hitler Black Front in Germany, today appealed to President Truman for help in his efforts to return to Germany. He was exiled more than 16 years ago by the Gestapo.

Hoyas, GW Play NYU And Carolina At Armory

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Georgetown and George Washington, bitter rivals only a week ago, team up to present the third college basketball double-header of the season tonight at the National Guard Armory.

In the first game at 8 o'clock, the Hoyas, 68-66 victors over G. W. in their last start, entertain New York University.

G. W. tackles North Carolina in the second game. The winner will be assured of a Southern Conference tournament spot.

N. Y. U. brings a 6-5 record here on its first road assignmert of the season. The Violets have the dubious distinction of having dropped decisions to Holy Cross, the Nation's No. 1 team; Vanderbilt, Southeastern Conference leader, and Oregon State, second in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Joel Kaufman, 6-foot 3-inch forward with a 14.2 scoring average, is the Violet whom Georgetown must watch, along with Abe Becker and Bob Derderien.

Playing his first game with N. Y. U. will be 6-foot 6-inch Mel Seeman, a rebound artist, who recently transferred from Syracuse.

The home-grown Violets will feel very much at home here. Georgetown has eight players who hail from the Greater New York area, G. W. has six, and even North Carolina has three.

However, the Hoyas' hotshot is a Jersey City senior, Tommy O'Keefe, who scored 19 points in pacing his team over G. W.

North Carolina comes to town boasting a 9-3 conference record with eight games to go. A victory tonight would assure it of a .500 season, good enough for a tournament berth. G. W. has won 7 out of 10 with five games left.

Nemo Nearman, 6-foot 6-inch Tar Heel center, is the lad who has given his foes the most trouble on his team. But thanks to the defensive play of G. W.'s 6-foot 5-inch center Ace Adler, from Brooklyn, the Colonials haven't experienced much difficulty with Nemo.

Adler has held the Tar Heel to 19 points in their last three meetings, G. W. having won two of them. The Colonials whipped Carolina, 54-44, earlier this season.

Terps Lose Again, 69-56, To Carolina

Maryland's Terps lost a 69-56 Southern Conference decision to North Carolina U. last night at College Park.

The Terrapins, leading 6-1 after the first five and one-half minutes, held a slim 9-8 advantage at the six and one-half-minute mark. North Carolina took over at that point, however, and went into the lead to stay.

Carolina's widest margin was a 44-30 edge at halftime.

Dick Patterson of North Carolina was the game's high scorer with 17 points, followed by teammate John Tsantes with 15.

Best man among the College Parkers was Lee Brawley with 12 points. Frank Armsworthy put in 11 for Maryland.

The defeat was the Terrapin's fourteenth against three victories. Their Southern Conference record is 2-8. North Carolina has an overall mark of 13 triumphs and 8 losses. The Tarheels have won nine and lost three in the Conference.

In a preliminary game Longwood Prep defeated the Maryland Frosh, 53-44. Roy Rheault paced Longwood with 14 points.

Greenberg Feels Tribe Is Cinch If Detroit's Favored

Cleveland, Feb. 3 (AP).—Hank Greenberg took a couple of sideswipes today at the baseball team he used to play first base for, the Detroit Tigers.

"I see where many of the experts are picking Detroit to win the pennant," said Hank, now general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

"That's perfect. It makes me feel great.

"If the Tigers are favorites, then we're a cinch. We were better than they were last year, and I think we're much better than they are right now.

American Romps, 80-58

American University subdued Lynchburg College, 80-58, last night at the A. U. gym and moved into a second place tie with idle Hampden-Sydney in the Mason-Dixon Conference.

Six foot, 6 inch Ronnie Garshag and 6 foot 4 inch Roy Ishman were a head taller than any of the visitors and controlled the backboards with ease for the Eagles.

The A. U. regulars built up a 61-33 lead midway in the second half and bequeathed it to the second and third stringers. Lynchburg finished fast by scoring the last 10 points.

A. U. has a 6-1 conference record compared to 4-5 for Lynchburg. The Eagles are host to Drexel Tech of Philadelphia tonight at 8:30.

'He May Be Another Feller'

Rickey Sees No Evil in Bucs' $100,000 Deal for Schoolboy

Brooklyn, Feb. 3 (AP).—There was nothing shady about the deal in which the Pittsburgh Pirates signed an 18-year-old schoolboy pitcher for $100,000. That's what Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said here today.

In an unprecedented transaction, the Pirates this week secured the services of young Paul Pettit of Lomita, Calif., by buying his contract from the boy's agent.

"What is wrong with it?" Rickey asked. "I see nothing for anybody to question. I have no reason at all to doubt the statement of the Pittsburgh club that it did not start negotiations until the boy had graduated. As for dealing with an agent — who else was Hamey (Roy Hamey, Pittsburgh general manager) going to deal with? This agent had the boy all tied up.

"On the boy's part," Rickey continued, "he has a perfect right to have an agent. I have no objection. It was no evasion of the high school rule if the club did not negotiate ahead of time."

Under the rules, no major league club can negotiate with a high school boy until he or his class has graduated.

Rickey predicted a bright future for Pettit.

"He may turn out to be another Bob Feller," he said. "He's absolutely in the same class. Right now he has everything that Feller had when he was signed by Cleveland. He has the size, speed and other attributes.

"You condemn the $100,000 that was paid for the boy, but some day you may wonder why some club didn't raise the bid to $200,000. This fellow required no expert scouting. Everybody could see he was great.

"As a high school pitcher, the kid simply was out of this world. Nobody could get a hit off him. That's all."

Rickey said he would have entered the bidding if all bids were placed in sealed envelopes.

Feerick Back in Form

Caps Renew Rivalry Tonight With Knicks at Uline's

The Caps have a chance to gain ground in the race for second place in the Eastern Division of the NBA when they meet the New York Knickerbockers tonight, 8:30, at Uline Arena.

The second-place Knicks currently have a 5½-game lead over the third place Caps.

Washington just finished its most successful western road trip of the season, having won four out of even. The Caps are buoyed by the return to form of Player-Coach Bob Feerick, an all-league choice for three seasons.

Feerick hurt his knee late last season, had it operated on during the summer, and was able to play only sporadically until the recent road trip.

In Denver, he played the full 48 minutes and in the last two games, Bob scored 30 points.

New York comes to town with only one victory in its last five games. It holds a 3-1 edge over the Caps in their season's series. The last game between the two, played in New York, saw the Knicks win, 73-72, amidst bitter wrangling and rough play.

Three Caps were ousted on fouls. Chick Reiser of Washington was fined $50 for arguing with the officials, and Jack Nichols, leading scorer of Washington, suffered a bloody nose.

Carl Braun is New York's leading pointmaker with a 14.4 average, followed by Harry Donovan with 11.5. In a 7:15 preliminary, undefeated Catholic Youth Organization meets the D. C. Cavaliers.

West Virginia May Pick Lewis

Morgantown, W. Va., Feb. 3 (AP). Line Coach Art Lewis of Mississippi State is among those "under consideration" for the post of head football mentor at West Virginia University.

A member of the university athletic council, who asked that he not be identified, confirmed tonight that Lewis definitely is in the picture.

He added, however, that the former Washington and Lee head coach and others who have been discussed for the job "are not necessarily applicants."

The university is seeking a successor to Dr. Dudley S. Degroot, who has resigned effective February 28 after two years here to become head coach at the University of New Mexico.

To date, the council member said, the only person actually interviewed for the position by a three-man council subcommittee is Irvin (Stretch) Howell, now an assistant at the university. He was before the subcommittee yesterday.

The spokesman said that Lewis, who then was at W and L., was seriously considered in the quest for a successor to Bill Kern at West Virginia two years ago. It is only natural, he asserted, that he thus would be subjected to at least preliminary screening again.

Hope Receives Sports Award

Bob Hope, who gets around, will receive the "Champion Sportsman of The Year" award from Harry Wismer, ABC sports director, on a Nation-wide radio broadcast originating here, at 6:30 p. m., today.

BOB HOPE

Hope was chosen over such sports figures as Doak Walker, Southern Methodist football star; Joe DiMaggio, of the New York Yankees; Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma University football coach; Leon Hart, Notre Dame's great end, and Joe Page, New York Yankees' relief pitcher.

Top Scorers Clash in Today's Interhigh Triple Header

Two of the Interhigh league's top three scorers will battle it out today as Eastern and Western tangle in the final game of a triple-header at Uline Arena.

Eastern's Jimmy O'Donnell tops the scoring parade with 56 points in three Interhigh games while Hal Weintraub of Western holds down the No. 3 spot with 44 points.

Central takes on winless Bell in the opener at 1 p. m. with Roosevelt-Wilson following and the Eastern-Western game is in the windup spot.

The Western-Eastern game will further clarify the race in the Southern division, where the two are now tied for the lead with Wilson at 2-1.

Chamberlain is just off the pace with a 2-2 record, while Tech and Central are virtually assured playoff berths in the Northern section with 3-1 records. Coolidge has a 2-2 slate for third place.

While Weintraub is the standout player on the Red Raiders squad, hitting as he does from all angles, O'Donnell is sometimes overshadowed on his team by little Franny Dyer, a superb ball handler and clutch player.

Dyer's long set shots, however, complement admirably the driving tactics of O'Donnell who scores most of his points in close to the bucket, on layups and taps.

Roosevelt led by Bill Smith and Ed Graham, with little Al Touma supplying the spectacular long shots, may surprise a confident Wilson squad led by the league's second high scorer, Jim Young, who has 50 points.

Central, with Franny Gleason, Terry Gregory and Jack Stringer all set to go, shouldn't have any trouble with a Bell squad that has yet to win in Interhigh competition.

LaMotta Unable To Floor Wagner, Wins by TKO

Detroit, Feb. 3 (AP).—Middleweight Champion Jake LaMotta began a tuneup for a June title defense by scoring an impressive ninth-round technical knockout over Dick Wagner of Portland, Oreg., here tonight.

Referee Clarence Rosen stopped the fight at 2:40 of the ninth round as Wagner was helpless before the onslaught of the Bronx (N. Y.) champion. Wagner, however, never did go down. A crowd of 11,440, paid a gross gate of $25,902.52

Wagner was fighting on his heart alone in the eighth round and LaMotta asked the referee to stop the fight but he refused.

When the ninth round got under way, LaMotta battered Wagner at will and when it became obvious that Wagner was out on his feet, Rosen stopped the bout.

Zaslofsky's 25 Pace Stags

Boston, Feb. 3 (AP).—The Chicago Stags, paced by the 25-point scoring of Max Zaslofsky, defeated the Baltimore Bullets, 98-91, tonight in the opener of the first National Basketball Association double-header staged at Boston Garden.

In the second game Boston whipped Anderson, 106-98.

The Stags trailed by a 21-20 margin at the end of the first period, but then got rolling and held a 50-44 lead at the intermission.

The Stags lost the services of Kenny Rollins, who was forced to retire in the second period with an injured ankle, but Frank Kudelka came in as his substitute to score 20 points while performing brilliantly on the defense.

Big Ed Sadowski paced the Baltimore attack with 20 points.

5 NCAA Violators Must Clarify Status

MEDFORD, MASS., FEB. 3 (AP).—Five of seven violators of the so-called NCAA sanity code have been asked for written notice that they now observe the rules, Chairman Clarence P. Houston of the NCAA compliance committee said today.

Houston, a Tufts College professor, said letters to Boston College, Villanova, University of Maryland, Virginia Military and Virginia Tech also asked information on scholarships awarded football and basketball players this school year.

He said a similar letter will be sent to a sixth violator, the University of Virginia, upon request. The other school cited for noncompliance was The Citadel, which has withdrawn from the NCAA.

Houston said in a statement: "The time is approaching when NCAA championship tournaments will be held. The compliance committee has been told that most of the colleges whose cases were discussed at the annual convention are now eligible for reinstatement."

[Editor's note: Dr. H. C. Byrd, Maryland president, said he had received a letter from the NCAA and intended answering it immediately, stating that Maryland was complying with the code.]

Skip Stahley Returns

Seattle, Feb. 3.—Neil (Skip) Stahley is returning to the University of Washington as backfield coach, Athletic Director Harvey Cassill announced today.

Stahley held the same position briefly in 1948, leaving to become head coach at the University of Toledo (Ohio). He has been head coach at the University of Delaware, Brown and George Washington as well as Toledo.

Reese Signs for $30,000

BROOKLYN, Feb. 3 (AP).—Peewee Reese, Brooklyn Dodgers' shortstop, today signed a one-year contract for what was believed to be $30,000. This would make him second highest paid player on the Brooks. Jackie Robinson reportedly is drawing $35,000.

Reese hit .279 last year in 155 games.

Kiki Cuyler Stricken

Harrisville, Mich., Feb. 3 (AP). Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, Boston Red Sox coach, was recovering today from a slight heart attack.

The 49-year-old former National League star suffered the attack yesterday while ice fishing at nearby Glennie.

Record High for Ennis

Philadelphia, Feb. 3 (AP).—Del Ennis, Philadelphia Phillies slugging outfielder, today signed his 1950 contract which is believed to call for a salary in excess of $25,000.

President Bob Carpenter declined to say what the 24-year-old slugger will receive. Recently, however, Ennis indicated he and Carpenter were only a couple of thousand dollars apart when he was holding out for $30,000. Ennis is said to have received around $15,000 last season.

Ennis' salary is said to be the highest ever paid any member of the Philadelphia National League Club

Montgomery Beaten by Aldo Minelli

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The old Bobcat ain't what he used to be and nobody knew it better than Bob Montgomery himself last night.

Making his first start since 1947 when he went into retirement, the former world's lightweight champion suffered a 10-round defeat at the hands of Aldo Minelli at Uline Arena.

The decision was unanimous and nobody disputed it. The only thing close was the fighter's weights. Montgomery weighed 145½, Minelli, 145.

Monty Wins Only One Round

Rusty as an old iron gate, Montgomery, a 3-1 favorite, was awarded only a round by Referee Charlie Reynolds and the two judges. The rest were Minelli's, a hit and run artist, by a mile.

Montgomery opened an old cut over Minelli's left eye in the first round, but little Aldo protected the wound neatly despite constant efforts by Montgomery to butt him. Aldo, one-time lightweight champion of Italy, scored with consistent body punches in the rounds.

Later, he peppered Montgomery with a two-handed volley to the head, staggering him in the sixth with two short uppercuts. There were no knockdowns.

Montgomery's best round was the ninth when he drove a hard right hand to Minelli's side. It shook up Aldo, but he weathered it in fine style.

Only 943 See Card

A cozy little gathering of 943 contributed to a net gate of $1139 to watch the Libert Athletic Club's production.

Herbie (Biff) Jones, southpaw Washington lightweight, scored a unanimous decision over Bobby Timpson, of Youngstown, Ohio, in the eight-round semifinal.

Jones, winning his ninth straight fight and his 14th in the last 15 outings, weighed 136, Timpson 134.

Timpson won the first three rounds, but Jones rallied and took charge in the fourth. He dropped Timpson for an eight count in the 7th round.

In a rousing heavyweight scrap, James K. Kimbell, of the Naval Air Station, scored a four-round TKO over Nelson Boggs of Zaltimore. Referee Ray Bowen halted the action after 2:14 of the fourth round.

Tex Newby, 147, Baltimore, decisioned Gene Harley, 145, in the five-round curtain raiser.

Team Wins 4th Match

Washington-Lee High of Arlington won its fourth rifle match in five outings, 1353-1313, over St. John's yesterday

Terp Boxers Face Strong Army Team

What appears to be one of the dandiest collegiate boxing shows in years takes place at College Park tonight with Maryland trading punches with Army's mittmen.

The West Pointers, boasting another of their usually fine boxing teams, have won two matches and dropped one, to Syracuse. The Terps opened their season last Saturday by battling The Citadel to a 4-4 stalemate.

The 130-pound scrap, involving Maryland's knockout specialist, Andy Quattrocchi and Army's Stan Scott, shapes up as a real thriller. Quattrocchi, with 15 knockouts in 19 college bouts, faces the runner-up for the Eastern collegiate 125-pound title in young Scott, who's now boxing as a 130-pounder.

In the welterweight division, Army sends Larry Lucas, unbeaten as a plebe last year and winner of all three fights this season, against Paul Kostopoulos.

Two members of Army's unbeaten football squad are also on the boxing team. Halfback Pete Monfore, the Eastern collegiate lightweight champion, tussels with Bob Smith. In the heavyweight class, Army End Bill Kellum scraps with Sophomore George (Baby Face) Fuller.

Barney Lincoln, Maryland 135-pounder, twisted an ankle in training this week and will be replaced by Al Salkowski for the tiff against Army's flash Juan Burciago.

Following the varsity bouts, the Maryland freshmen meet Fairfax High School. The varsity meet starts at 8:15. With many students away on mid-term holidays, more seats have been made available for the public. Tickets may be purchased at Fairway Sports Center, 1325 G st., or Ritchie Coliseum.

125 POUNDS—Al Glass, Maryland; Medon Bitzer, Army.
130 POUNDS—Andy Quattrocchi, Maryland; Stanley Scott, Army.
135 POUNDS—Al Salkowski, Maryland; Juan Burciaga, Army.
145-POUND—Paul Kostopoulos (Maryland) defeated Larry Lucas (Army).
155 POUNDS—Don Oliver, Maryland; Ken Herring, Army.
165 POUNDS—Bob Gregson (capt.), Maryland; Bill Harrison, Army.
175 POUNDS—Bob Smith, Maryland; Pete Monfore, Army.
HEAVYWEIGHT—George Fuller, Maryland; Bill Kellum, Army.

Dunbar Wins, 59-46

Armstrong Is Upset by Phelps, 57-51

Phelps threw the city series, Division 10-13, into a tangle yesterday by upsetting Armstrong Tech, 57-51, in an overtime game. It was the first loss in series play for the Techmen and dropped them into a tie with Phelps for the league lead, both with 3-1 records.

In the first game of the doubleheader at the Armory, Dunbar whipped Cardozo, 59-46. Frank Chase and James Cassidy paced Dunbar with 18 and 15 while Maurice Wills got 16 for Cardozo.

Phelps held a 49-45 lead with 30 seconds to go but Armstrong's Gene Lawrence broke through for two quick hook shots to knot the count at 49-all at the end of the regulation game.

However, Lawrence only prolonged the agony for Armstrong as Phelps came back strong in the overtime with Reds Freeman hitting for six out of six foul shots to provide the impetus for a Phelps surge

34 Cash In, 130 More on Consolation

Miami, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP).—The daily double at Hialeah Park today paid $1,653.30, second largest in the track's history.

Two longshots, Ringing Tune, $54.20, and Ground Fog, $34.40, completed the luscious double. In addition there was a consolation double of $30.90 paid to holders of tickets on Ringing Tune in the first race and Kilroy, a last-minute scratch from the second race. Kilroy, bleading while at the post, was ordered scratched by the stewards.

Hialeah's largest double was $2961, moulded by Firey Dawn and Bud's First in February, 1947. Thirty-four tickets were redeemed on today's double, while 130 held tickets on the consolation prize.

For the second time this week, a heavily Calumet-backed horse was disqualified by Hialeah stewards.

Bewitch, the queen of her division, went postward at 2 to 5 in the Zephyr purse. After finishing first by a length under Joe Culmone, Bewitch was set back and placed third for impeding S. D. Sidell's Allie's Pal at the eighth pole.

W. J. Walden's Fighting Fan, which had finished second, was placed first, and Allie's Pal was moved to second. In addition, Apprentice Jockey Joe Culmone, leading rider of the season, was suspended for 10 days by track stewards for foul riding astride Bewitch.

Apprentice Sam Boulmetis, who rode Allie's Pal, lodged the foul claim against Bewitch, which was making her lrst start following recovery from a slight injury.

Earlier in the week Calumet's Vigorous was disqualified from first and placed third. His rider, Ovie Scurlock, subsequently was suspended 10 racing days.

Georgetown, Eastern Play Benefit Games

The Eastern and Georgetown branches of the Washington Boys' Club Basketball Conference play a triple header today with all proceeds going to the March of Dimes.

The games, between the 80, 90 and 105-pound teams of the branches, will be played at the Georgetown Branch's gym at 2726 M st., nw.

The games will be at 10, 11:15 and 12:30. Dennis "Dinty" Moore, former star baseball player for Georgetown who was stricken with polio in last summer's record epidemic, will throw out the first ball at the 105-pound game and will also keep score.

There will be no admission charge. If you want to, just drop a little something in the container at the doorway.

Tilden Tops in Tennis

Big Bill Picked In AP Poll by Lop-Sided Vote

By Bob Myers

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3 (AP).—William T. Tilden II—Big Bill, the ultra-sophisticate of the world's tennis courts—was genuinely gratified that he had been named the greatest tennis player of the past 50 years.

He showed his delight in undisguised manner, hardly in keeping with some of the disdainful characteristics of the great Tilden of the golden '20s. He meant it when he said, "I am truly grateful for this honor."

But at the same time Tilden didn't hesitate to take issue with some of the findings of the 391 participants in the Associated Press poll which voted him this single distinction by overwhelming ballot.

His criticism was not with the choice of Tilden as the greatest. He offered no protestations over this decision. It was with the runner-up candidates' ratings that he differed—not directly, mind you, but in tabbing the other greatest of the past five decades, Tilden listed many who didn't make the first five.

In fairness to Tilden, it must be noted that at the time of this interview he was not aware of the personnel of the also-ran division. But anyone knowing Tilden would appreciate that these were his convictions, and a conviction with the old master was always something that man, beast or the august officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association could never, never budge.

Tilden got 310 votes out of 391. Rated far back, in order, were Jack Kramer, Don Budge, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody Roark and Suzanne Lenglen.

Tilden's nominees — behind Tilden — included Frenchmen Henri Cochet and Rene La Coste, little Bill Johnston, Don Budge, Fred Perry—he mentioned Francis T. Hunter and Vinnie Richards—and Ellsworth Vines. He flatly refused to pick one over the other; all, he said, were so tightly grouped separation was impossible.

He Takes Issue With Ranking of Other Players

The older stars came first. Then—whether by afterthought or intention, who can say?—came Jack Kramer, Bobby Riggs, and then unstinted but delayed praise for Ted Schroeder, Pancho Gonzales and others of the more modern era.

Tilden has been having grave personal problems, but he presented no picture of concern as he sat and talked most loquaciously in his small but gaily decorated little apartment in Hollywood.

Could Tilden in his prime have beaten today's Kramer and Company? Tilden chose to let that fall as a "let ball," but soon was explaining that he rather believed—just rather believed—that the older players could have trimmed the current players. He admitted the game had changed, certainly.

"Today we have attack, attack," he said, moistening the term with its equivalent in French. "Before, we had attack and finesse. I believe our attack, or power, when applied, was just as powerful, just as effective, as today's power. In addition, we had finesse. We had defense. That, I believe, would have spelled the difference."

Blair Rallies To Defeat St. John's

Montgomery Blair, behind the entire game, came from behind to hand St. John's its third defeat in 18 games, 42-39, last night at the Takoma Park Junior High School gym.

Ray Luckett put the Barons out in front for the first time when he broke the Cadet freeze in the last two minutes, raced down court for a layup and Blair led, 38-37.

Bill to Consolidate Nearby Areas Voted

In Virginia

Action Put Off On Amended School Bill

Richmond, Va., Feb. (AP).—The Virginia General Assembly disposed of the Russell County election contest today but was unable to complete action on amendments to the administration's 45-million-dollar school grant bill.

Early in the day there were indications the bill to make funds available to localities for school construction would be ready to go to the Governor late today. However, the House of Delegates was unable to give final approval to Senate amendments and postponed action until Monday after ordering the bill to be printed with the amendments in it.

The Senate Finance Committee amended the House bill to conform with a bill previously passed by the Senate. This morning the amendments sailed through the Senate by a vote of 34 to 1(with the lone dissent cast by Senator E. O. McCue, jr., of Charlottesville.

The compromise bill carries with it what in effect is a matchng requirement, however, which provides that the localities must furnish the money for land and equipment used in school construction.

The House dismissed the Russell County election contest brought by Mrs. Vera D. Gilmer, Democrat, against John W. Fletcher, Independent, by adopting a report from its Privileges and Elections Committee, 89 to 1.

"There was fraud in the election and there were some illegal votes cast," the committee report stated, but it was found that they were not enough to change the result in favor of Mrs. Gilmer.

Mrs. Gilmer filed the petition of contest for Russell's seat in the House on the charge that absentee ballots cast for her in last November's election were opened and ones for Fletcher substituted. The committee report said:

"The committee finds that if all the mail ballots which were cast in this election were deducted from the vote for John W. Flecher, this still would not change the results of the election . . .

"That although there was fraud in the election and some illegal votes cast, the same did not exist to such an extent that the will of the people could not be determined."

The committee's report also said "there is no evidence that . . . John W. Fletcher committed, advised or consented to the commission of any alleged unlawful, fraudulent or improper action in the . . . election."

Soldiers' Home Hospital Plan Set, Says VA

Veterans Administration definitely plans to put up a 500-bed hospital at Soldiers' Home here and abandon the Nevius Tract, VA Administrator Carl R. Gray has told Congress.

Gray told a House appropriations subcommittee of the agency's intention, adding that the 25-acre tract near Arlington Cemetery, Arlington County, Va., would be "declared surplus." His testimony was made public yesterday.

"It is my understanding some other agencies of the Government have a justifiable use for it," Gray said of the land VA purchased in court fight for $1,600,000.

The VA chief's remarks were in direct contradiction to a letter received last week by the Arlington County Board. In the letter Senator Robertson (D., Va.) stated that "VA has by no means abandoned its plans to build a veterans' hospital" on the Nevius Tract.

Briton Says Laborites Taxed Pants Off Him

London, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—The secretary of the Reading Chamber of Commerce complained today that Britain's Labor Government literally had taxed "the pants off of me."

G. Talfourd Cook said he took his trousers to the cleaners, only to have them seized by the Government because the cleaner had failed to pay his income tax. British law permits the Government to seize the property of "third parties" on the premises of tax-delinquent firms.

Cook had to pay about $35 at an auction to recover his trousers.

Election Test Case Launched In Montgomery

A test case was launched yesterday to determine whether State law supersedes a county act in conducting local elections in Montgomery County.

Col. Norman B. Ames, president of the county charter committee, filed suit in Circuit Court in Rockville to enjoin the board of supervisors of elections from holding a party primary in elections to the county council.

The suit followed closely on the heels of submission Thursday of an application of candidacy in a Democratic primary by Gerald D. Morgan, Bethesda attorney.

Ames, in his suit, challenged the validity of the State Lindsay Law which requires partisan elections of councilman. The law was passed in 1945, a year before Montgomery voters approved the election of a charter board.

Subsequently, the first County Council enacted a local law last May providing for nonpartisan election of the council.

The injunction suit argued that conduct of a partisan primary would result in "the waste and unlawful expenditure of county funds," which it estimated at approximately $15,000.

The supervisors of elections were ordered by Circuit Court Judges Charles W. Woodward and Stedman Prescott to show cause before 10 a. m. March 1 why the injunction should not be issued.

The board was asked on January 21 by the council to determine which law it considered binding on the elections to be held this fall. It is scheduled to meet on Tuesday, and, according to Clerk Ward W. Caddington, will decide whether to accept Morgan's bid for a candidacy.

Morgan said yesterday he will run for one of the at-large council seats whether the primaries are held on a partisan basis or not. A firm supporter of home rule, he has never before run for public office.

Indications are that supporters of the side that loses will eventually carry it to the State Court of Appeals for final determination before the September 11 primaries.

Man Dies, Woman Critically Burned In County Fire

Prince Georges County farm hand died last night and his employer was in critical condition after a fire that nearly destroyed a four-room house at Naylor, Md. yesterday.

Joseph Fleet, 40, the farm hand, was admitted to Casualty Hospital with second and third degree burns over his entire body. The blaze, according to firemen, started when an oil stove exploded.

Mrs. Louiso Harper, 45, his tenant farmer employer, also was admitted to Casualty with third degree burns of the chest and right arm. Firemen said damage to the home amounted to about $1500.

India Protests Clashes In Pakistan District

New Delhi, India, Feb. 3 (AP).—An Indian spokesman said today this country has protested to Pakistan over communal clashes in the Khulna district of Pakistan's East Bengal.

The protest urged immediate steps be taken to control the situation, which the spokesman said had been marked by deaths, rapings, looting and forcible conversions. The informant said 10,000 Hindus had left East Bengal because of "atrocities" and the exodus continues at the rate of 500 daily.

34,000 Homeless in Floods In Ohio Valley and Arkansas

Chicago, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Floods in the Ohio River valley and Arkansas had driven 34,000 persons from their homes today and a new threat developed near New Orleans as the Mississippi neared flood stage.

Four were reported dead in West Virginia.

As a six-day rain ended, the Ohio and its tributaries began falling, but more than 12,000 persons already had been evacuated from lowlands. In Arkansas the total of homeless was put at 22,000.

Late today United States Engineers ordered a constant patrol along 483 miles of lower Mississippi levees as the Nation's mightiest river began boiling up under the impetus of rain-swollen tributaries.

New Orleans was threatened if its levees broke.

Engineers said they were ready to open the Bonnet-Carre Spillway 18 miles north of New Orleans if the Mississippi rose much higher. It already has foamed to 19.2 feet at New Orleans, where the danger mark is 20 feet.

Opening the spillway would divert water to Lake Ponchartrain and thence to the Gulf, by-passing New Orleans.

Meanwhile, a new snow threat arose in Montana, where hardship and suffering were reported among isolated residents of 14 northern counties. Army "weasels" were sent to the scene and President Truman allocated $50,000 for relief in the area.

Clear, crisp weather over the Ohio Valley slowed the rise of rampaging streams.

Luxury Apartments Will Be 'Neighbors'

ROCK CREEK PLAZA, UNDER CONSTRUCT ION AT 16TH ST. AND PINEY BRANCH PKY.

bedroom units from $145 to $165, all unfurnished, with utilities paid.

Sixty of the Rock Creek Plaza apartments will boast balconies. The entire building will be air-conditioned, with individual room controls. A portion of the roof has been set aside for a roof terrace and garden.

FHA-Insured

FHA has insured both apartments' mortgage financining plans under Title VI, Section 208, of the National Housing Act, designed to spur rental housing Government guarantee of mortgages. Rock Creek Plaza has two mortgages, $4,913,000 and $4,984,300, both taken by Irving Trust Co. of New York.

Architect Holladay declared that Rock Creek Plaza was the largest postwar elevator-type apartment project in the number of separate apartments. In cubic content, however, he estimated that the 800-unit Quebec House at Connecticut ave. and Porter st. nw., would take top honors.

The 224-unit Park Plaza will cost an estimated $2,500,000, boasts two-bedroom, two-bath, balcony apartments renting for $150, putting it also in the luxury class. The proposed FHA rental scale for other units is: 67 efficiences at $90; 92 one-bedroom units at $120.

The structure, of modern design by Berla & Abel, architects, will be completely air-conditioned, have 100 balconies overlooking Rock Creek Park, and two tiers of basement parking for 180 cars.

Main entrance will be from 16th st., with a service entrance from Shepherd st. Poretsky and Pollin, builders, are veteran building firms with several housing projects completed in recent years. The only previous time they have combined to erect an apartment was in 1939, when the 72-unit Connecticut Gardens was built at 1915 Kalorama rd. nw.

Rules Fight Still Menaces Legislature

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 3 (AP).—Senators and delegates raced through brief sessions of the Maryland Legislature today, but recessed uneasily for the week-end.

The Senate Rules Committee appeared intact, but only after a short-lived walkout by minority leader Kimble (R., Allegany). He stormed out charging "cheap-time politics" in the morning, but announced by nightfall he would continue sitting with the group.

Kimble was still plainly unhappy with a committee decision to defer action on an Allegany County School Board measure he introduced.

And no one in the House was certain that the lack of skirmishing over its rules of procedure was any more than a truce. Delegates spoke among themselves of renewing the battle when they return Monday night.

Offer Tax Cut Bill

Three House Republicans introduced a tax cut bill that would outdo the relief Governor Lane has proposed for persons living on nominal pensions and investment dividends. But the minority had previously announced it would do so.

The disputed Kimble bill would reorganize the Allegany County Board of Education, require that two of its five members represent the minority party and that two be women.

Besides Kimble, Senate President Byrnes (D., Balto 5th), and Majority Leader Sothoron (D., Prince George's), make up the Rules Committee. Byrnes, as chairman, told Kimble the Allegany Bill would have to be deferred because no copies had been returned from the printer. Kimble insisted that it be taken up, nonetheless. He accused Byrnes and Sothoron of "damned small, cheap-time politics" in holding the bill.

Area Jury Bill Introduced; Decision on Legality Sought

By a Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 3.—The controversy over Rule 38, which has both houses of the Maryland General Assembly in a dither, was put in sharp focus today by a bill introduced by the Montgomery County delegation.

Under the constitutional amendment that provides for biennial 30-day sessions—of which this is the first—the only bills that may be taken up are those on fiscal matters, acute emergencies and the "general public welfare."

But House Rule 38, adopted at this session, gives the rules committee the right to look at all new bills.

Delegation Leader Anders R. Lofstrand said he hopes for a clear-cut decision from Attorney General Hall Hammond on whether the Montgomery bill would be constitutional before it is taken up for consideration by the House of Delegates.

The bill in question would increase Montgomery County's jury list from 200 to 300 persons and would increase the number of jury panels from two to three.

Is It Constitutional?

Lofstrand said that if the question of the legality of the bill is not settled now, "it might later be ruled unconstitutional, and anyone convicted by jurors selected by this method would have to be freed."

The Montgomery County Republican showed a letter from Attorney General Hammond which, he said, limits the legislation which the Assembly may consider during its current session. Hammond wrote:

"The meaning of general public laws, as distinct from public local laws, has been established for such a long period of time and with such clarity as to leave little room for doubt, in our opinion, that the practical equivalent, namely 'general public' when used in defining welfare is intended to mean legislation affecting the State as a whole, or a considerable segment thereof, as in contrast to legislation affecting a particular county, or portion thereof."

Four Bills Approved

Lofstrand said that four bills introduced by his delegation fall within the larger concept, and already have received favorable action from the house rules committee. He said they will be reported out as soon as they are printed.

These bills are one clarifying the bonding powers of a county; a constitutional amendment giving counties wider condemnation powers; a bill to aid handicapped children, and a bill strengthening laws on discharge of firearms.

Judge Matthews To Be Honored Tonight

A reception in honor of District Court Judge Burnita Shelton Matthews will be given tonight at 8:30 at the Carlton Hotel by the Women's Bar Association.

Justices of the Supreme Court are among those who have been invited to pay honor to Mrs. Mathews, first woman appointed to a Federal District Court, it was announced.

Slayer of 3 Children Committed to Hospital

John Steven Conner, 39, who shot his three children to death December 7 at their home, 123 Belvoir st., Alexandria, has been ordered committed to Southwestern State Hospital, Marion, Va.

Corporation Court Judge William P. Woolls ordered Conner removed to the State mental institution. Conner, West Point graduate and civilian engineer at Fort Belvoir, was found of unsound mind January 30 by a three-member sanity commission.

Civil Service Officials Deny Reports of Mass Faking in Job Tests

The Civil Service Commission yesterday flatly denied that there had been mass faking on its competitive tests. It described reports of such skulduggery as "greatly exaggerated." The commission released these figures to back up its report:

That there had been only 17 cases here in the past year where it had been definitely proved that applicants for Civil Service jobs had other persons to take tests for them.

In all cases, both the applicant and the person who took the exam were punished. Government employes involved were fired, and applicants were barred from the Federal service for at least two years.

The reports of mass fakery stemmed from the recent general clerical test. In one large clerical agency here there were rumors of war service people hiring so-called exam professionals to take the test so they could obtain permanent Civil Service status. The commission has been investigating the gossip for the past month.

Up to this time, the commission's investigators have unearthed very little evidence to support the reports. This is the box score:

A total of 33,000 persons here took the clerical tests. A check turned up only 28 "suspicious" cases—cases which handwriting experts thought should be investigated. The inquiries have been completed on 16 of the cases and the applicants involved in every single one of them have been cleared. The remaining 12 cases are still being investigated.

Furthermore, there have been reports that lists of Civil Service exam questions have been stolen from either the Government Printing Office or the commission and sold to applicants.

GPO and commission official both contend the reports are untrue. They have met twice in the past week to discuss the matter. The exam questions are printed at GPO by its security staff. No one person there handles the entire question list.

The reports of exam fakery come up frequently. They make for extra precautions by all concerned.

JOBS: The State Department has openings for a sizable number of Grade 3 and 4 stenographers, $2640 and $2875 starting salaries. Status isn't required for the permanent jobs. Make application in Room 111 of the Walker-Johnson Building, 1734 New York ave. nw.

REPORT: Employes of the Army Medical Library here have heard their agency may be transferred to the Public Health Service. Officials say the matter has been discussed but no final decision has been reached.

CENSUS: Roy Victor Peel yesterday was nominated by the President to be director of the Census Bureau. A professor of Government at Indiana University, he's among those who were considered for appointment as chairman of the Civil Service Commission. Peel, who is 53, served in the United States Information Service abroad during the war.

Philip Hauser will return to the Chicago University faculty. He has continued to carry on a Saturday class at the university for the past six months while he served as acting director.

U.S. Colleges At Saturation Point, Says Dr. H.C. Byrd

Maryland U. Head Holds Schools Must Admit Students More Selectively

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

America has "reached the saturation point" in the number of its institutions of higher learning, and colleges and universities must become "more selective" in the students they accept.

This advice was given yesterday by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland.

Byrd said the business of education "is getting so expensive that it is impractical to start new institutions, even with State appropriations and endowments." The expense, he said, already "has forced some small colleges to the wall."

On the other hand, he told The Washington Post, larger numbers of children than ever before are going to high schools; many people are going to college under terms of the GI bill and will want their children to have college education. We now have "the biggest crop of babies in our history," the public schools are "crowded to death" and there are larger and larger demands on univeristies, he added.

"My own judgment," Byrd said, "is that it isn't going to be a question of the universities looking for students, but a question of finding some way to handle the students who want to use the universities."

Byrd made these statements as his $14,408,953.11 budget for the 1550-51 fiscal year was under consideration by the Maryland General Assembly.

He said he has "no long-range plans" for widespread expansion of the university's facilities. "The people of the State control that," he said, "and what they decide will be done long after I am gone."

The Maryland University prexy declared "I personally don't care if it (the university) doesn't ever get much bigger."

He said that plans now underway will provide for a campus capacity of 10,000 undergraduate students, but emphasized that this is not a realistic figure of the number of persons now using the university's facilities.

"We will register 25,000 this year," he said. Included in this number will be part-time students, those who receive extension service, and those in graduate schools.

Byrd foresees these coming trends in education:

"We're going to be faced with better high schools, which even now are raising their standards and are producing much better qualified students.

"There is a growing trend in junior colleges, and the time probably will come when most students will prefer to use these and only come to the universities in their junior year.

"The big question will be whether, with the junior colleges, the big universities can handle the growing load of new students," Byrd said.

Roberts Draws 5 to 15 Years for Drug Conviction

Wife Is Sentenced To Shorter Term; Ironworker Gets 10-30 Years for Rape

James M. (Jim Yellow) Roberts, a leader in Washington's drug underworld, was sentenced yesterday to serve from 5 to 15 years for narcotics law violations.

His wife, Evalina, 24, for whom Roberts asked a "break" got off with 16 months to four years in prison.

Judge F. Dickinson Letts of District Court listened patiently to numerous defense motions challenging the validity of the convictions and then imposed sentence.

Before the judge sent him to prison, Roberts had his say. He repeatedly proclaimed he was "innocent" and that the Government's case against him was false.

Seeks Break for Wife

"It never even happened," Roberts said. "I have only one thing to ask your honor. If you can find in your heart, give my wife a break."

Judge Letts then reminded Roberts that twice before he had been convicted of narcotics laws. Because of this record, said the judge, he could have sent Roberts to prison for well over 20 years.

Mrs. Roberts had no prior criminal record, said the judge, who termed sentencing her an "unpleasant duty."

The offenses against the couple included the illegal transfer of both cocaine and marihuana. A Federal undercover agent was sent into the Roberts residence where he made the case while posing as a friend.

10 to 30 Years

In another District Court sentence, Hugh G. Mincey, 33-year-old ironworker, was sentenced to serve from 10 to 30 years in prison for raping a 4-year-old girl, whose body was torn and bruised by the attack.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough said:

"The child was terribly abused. The jury did not impose the death penalty. There is nothing for the court to do but impose the maximum sentence under the law.

Mincey, father of four children, denied the rape. He said that he merely spanked the child after she walked into a lavatory where he was seated and cursed him.

Miss Laura J. Munro, 23, received from one to five years for participating in two pocketbook snatchings.

Russel L. Broadus, 36, received from 3 to 10 years for housebreakings and larceny of more than $1000 in jewelry, personal effects and money.

Tells Trial Board

D. C. Gambler Says Officer Beat Him

An admitted gambler yesterday charged before a police trial board that he was beaten and kicked for "35 or 40 minutes" by a police detective sergeant the night of September 29.

The testimony was given by Alfred B. Vincent, 46, of the Dunbar Hotel, against Ernest R. Amos, jr., charged with conduct prejudicial to the reputation and good order of the department and willful maltreatment of a prisoner.

Amos, who was reduced to the rank of private and sent from the detective bureau to the Seventh Precinct, after the alleged beating, pleaded not guilty to the charges yesterday.

He said he merely slapped Vincent with the back of his hand after Vincent lunged at him and struck him while being questioned in the robbery squad room at police headquarters.

Dr. Timothy L. Kelly, of Gallinger Hospital, testified he examined Vincent and found bruises of his left eye, side and abdomen and a lacerated lip. He added that the only reason he did not treat Vincent was because the man's injuries did not need treatment.

The Board, whose members were Inspector Robert Pearce, Capt. John Agnew and lawyer Josiah Lyman, took the case under advisement.

Policeman Fined $25

The "late" Police Pvt. Philip L. Thomas of the Ninth Precinct did it again. He was fined $25 yesterday by a police trial board for not reporting to duty on time on January 21.

This time, he said his wife was away, his alarm clock didn't work, and he had been painting

His previous appearances before police trial boards in the past year for being late were: March 5, fined $50; December 29, fined $40; January 28, fined $20. In December, he blamed the alarm clock, and in January, a flat tire

Now, department officials indicated yesterday, he will have to face a trial board again on charges of facing trial boards too many times in the past year.

Falls Church Charter Gets Full Approval

Document Now Faces State Legislature; Critics Plan Fight

The Falls Church City Council last night unanimously approved a 120-page new city charter, replacing "an obsolete" town charter which it said resulted in "a hybrid form of government with overlapping of authority."

The council-approved charter version must be passed by a two-third majority of both houses of the State Legislature before it becomes effective.

The chief change it will make in the city's governmental setup—"institution of a strong city manager"—encountered virtually no objection at three public hearings on the document.

About a half dozen major changes in the charter were made by the council as a result of the hearings, but the threat of opposition at Richmond was still in the offing yesterday.

Lytton Gibson, assistant Fairfax Commonwealth attorney, said he would definitely oppose its adoption by the Legislature, unless the charter was approved in a referendum of city voters.

Former Falls Church Mayor John F. Bethune, leader of the charter critics, said he will meet with a group of about 75 persons Monday night, after studying the final charter draft, and will carry his complaints to Richmond, "if it is still as objectionable as it was."

Asks Special Election

A provision allowing the council itself to fill the seat of any member expelled from its ranks by its own votes were labeled vicious by Bethune yesterday. He asked a special election to fill such vacancies.

Charter opponents say it differs in too many respects from the State's general law.

They have requested that city freeholders (resident property owners) be allowed to vote in bond issue referendums, as well as the qualified voters who will pass on bond issues under the revised charter.

Art Gallery 'Quietly' Builds 12 New Exhibition Rooms

By Jane Watson Crane

Since November the National Gallery of Art has been quietly carrying on a major building operation inside its walls, with few on the outside aware of what was going on. By June 1 it is expected that 12 new exhibition galleries on the main floor will be completed and opened to the public. Expansion is in the section devoted to American, British and French paintings. It is possible that the space may be used for display of some of the historical American material the gallery is assembling in conjunction with the Sesquicentennial.

Expansion plans were disclosed yesterday when the minutes were made public at a House Appropriations Subcommittee meeting at which Gallery Director David E. Finley testified.

When the gallery was originally constructed large areas on the ground and main floors were left unfinished, with temporary roofing and without partitions, to be adapted for later use as needed. Present exhibition floor space comprises 81,900 square feet; the new area will augment it by 12,800 square feet. Remaining is as much space and some additional which can still be converted.

The new construction is on the southeast side. To replace the temporary roofing, steel girders have been lifted by cranes over the side of the building, to be welded into skylights and laylights. These are fitted with specially made glass, through which daylight will filter into the rooms below.

Panels must first be exposed to the gallery's air conditioning before installation, and for this process one of the regular exhibition galleries was recently cleared so that the panels could be set out on racks. Walls will be painted to resemble those in adjoining galleries. Estimated cost of construction is just under a million dollars, and funds are supplied by the Mellon educational and charitable trust. The original building, for which funds were provided by the late Andrew W. Mellon, cost over 15 million dollars to construct.

When the National Gallery was opened to the public in 1941, there was barely enough material to fill the existing space. Nucleus was the Mellon collection of 126 paintings and 18 sculptures. To this was added the Kress collection of 375 paintings and 16 sculptures, which gave the group an overwhelmingly Italian slant at the start. There were also some American paintings from the Chester Dale and other collections

Today the National Gallery owns 997 paintings, with loans bringing the number to 1207. It has 152 sculptures, with loans making a total of 205. With the addition of the Lessing Rosenwald collection, prints now number 15,862 in the permanent group, with an additional 400 on loan. The gallery owns over 500 decorative art objects, and has an additional 300 on loan.

It now includes the facsimiles from the Index of American Design, a guide to the folk art of America, and some 15,000 photographs from the collection of the late Alfred Stieglitz. The Widener gift not only enriched the painting collection, but added tapestries, porcelains and furniture; the Chester Dale gift brought a notable selection of French nineteenth century paintings; recent individual and group gifts have increased the American and other sections, including representation of early German painting, through the Booth gift.

Trade Board, Guests Frolic At Annual Fete

'See You in the Funnies' Dinner Theme; Repeat Performance Tonight

The Board of Trade, sanctuary of Washington's men of distinction for 60 years, let its hair down last night.

The occasion was round one of the board's 81st annual midwinter dinner. The place: most of the Mayflower Hotel's first floor.

Most uninhibited of the 900 diners were eight board members who rolled up their trouser legs and wriggled through an Indian dance with eight chorus girls.

A goodly proportion of Washington officials, city and Federal, joined in the fun.

All adhered to President Frederick P. H. Siddon's restatement of the midwinter dinner ground rules—no speeches.

Second Dinner Tonight

The rules have become so popular the board has found it necessary to split the midwinter dinner in two.

So tonight the board will run off round two with more than 1000 celebrants expected. Heading tonight's list of guests will be District Commissioners John Russell Young and Gordon R. Young.

Theme of this year's dinner is "See You In the Funnies." Board members donned the customes and antics of favorite comic characters in Washington newspapers.

Bingo Flynn and Harry Ahearn slugged it out as Joe Palooka and Humphrey Pennyworth, the main bout headliners of the Washington Post funny pages.

Plenty of Entertainment

Early in the evening diners snapped to attention as Leon Brusiloff's musicians blared "Dixie."

Nostalgia ran high when the Buccaneers, a barber shop quartet, swung into "You Wore a Tulip" and other ditties reminiscent of the days when Republicans frequented the White House.

Other entertainers included the Jeanette Hackett Girl Revue, the Florida trio, Singer Jean Warner, the Jay Walkers, the Tele-Viers and the Marvellos.

Officials Hit Hyattsville Merger Plan

A proposal of the planning committee of the Hyattsville City Council to merge the town of University Park into Hyattsville backfired in members' faces last night.

Planning committee members heard a chorus of indignant opposition from University Park officials and residents at an "exploratory" meeting at the County Service Building, at Hyattsville.

Harry D. Eisenhauer, a town councilman of University Park, told the Hyattsville officials his constituents are "not a bit interested" in any merger. Further, Eisenhauer predicted Hyattsville will get "a fight" if it attempts to force the consolidation.

Howard Mooney, another University Park councilman, said the exploratory meeting was a "waste of time."

About 20 University Park residents are among the 100 persons who attended the meeting and they were unanimously against the plan.

Hiram Lawrence, chairman of the Hyattsville Council Planning Committee, who presided, explained the meeting was only to obtain ideas. Mayor Caesar Aiello of Hyattsville said that "no one is trying to force a union."

Hyattsville's population is about 18,000 compared to 5000 for University park; assessed valuations are approximately $17,200,000 and $3,000,000, respectively, and tax rates are 55 cents per $100 of valuation, and 45 cents per $100 of valuation, respectively.

Grillo Is Fined On Tax Count

A fine of $1500 was levied yesterday against Vincent Grillo, former after-hours club operator here, on Federal tax law violation charges. He pleaded guilty in Federal Court at Baltimore to four counts of an indictmen'

The indictment, returned last August, charged Grillo with collecting but failing to pay both withholding taxes and social security taxes.

The collections, according to the indictment, took place in 1946 at the now defunct Spotlight Club here, and at a concession Grillo formerly operated at the old Washington Aviation and Country Club in Bethesda.

Internal Revenue Bureau officials said he also will have to pay the taxes, plus penalties. The total amount has not been computed.

The Spotlight Club, then at 17th and M sts. nw., was raided by police in 1948. Later, when District tax claims mounted, the place was closed and furnishings sold at auction.

Mayhew Gives Into Firemen On 2 Points

Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew yesterday called recent complaints against the department's promotion system unjustified. At the same time, it appeared he had made two concessions as a result of the protests.

Lieut. Alvin Davis, president of Local 36, International Association of Firefighters, met with Mayhew last week and again Thursday to protest Mayhew's request that two men in the clerical branches be promoted without taking competitive examinations.

The men are Sergt. Hugh Gallagher, a supply clerk, up for lieutenant with less than a year in his present rank; and Pvt. Ernest Mueller, 10-year veteran now working in the fiscal branch, who was recommended for sergeant. The requests have been approved by the Commissioners and are now before the Civil Service Commission, Mayhew said.

Davis said he had the unanimous backing of the association's board of directors in protesting the practice of promoting nonfirefighters without holding competitive examinations. The association membership has supported such a protest twice in recent years, Davis said.

Mayhew said he had refused the board's request to withdraw his recommendations. Promotion of nonfirefighting members of the department has been on a noncompetitive basis for years, he said.

However, Mayhew said he had agreed to the association's request that in the future such promotions be made only to fill vacancies.

Davis pointed out that Gallagher and Mueller are not being promoted to fill vacancies, but to higher ranks created for them. The extra pay must come from leftover department funds, he said.

The association's directors were particularly disturbed over this, Davis said because Engine Company 22 has had no regular captain for two years.

Apparently in response to this complaint, Mayhew two days ago sent a request to the Commissioners for authority to recreate the captain's position.

Pat Cary Sits Up; Still Unconscious For 29th Day

Patricia Anne Carey sat up in bed yesterday, but she remained unconscious—the twenty-ninth day since her traffic accident.

The 8-year-old girl's eyes remained closed and she has not talked, but she was able to move around a bit, it was reported at Washington Sanitarium where she has been confined since January 5.

Patricia Anne, daughter of James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, was hit by an automobile at Sligo ave. and Piney Branch rd. on her way from her home at 8 Hilltop rd., Silver Spring, to St. Michael's School.

1000 Nedicks Workers Vote Feb. 15 Strike

New York, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—One thousand employes of Nedicks, Inc., voted today to strike February 15 in a walkout that would close 80 orange drink and lunch stands in New York and other East Coast cities.

Officials of the Department Store Workers Union (CIO) said the union is seeking a 15-cent hourly wage increase and a 40-hour, five-day week.

'49 Traffic Accident Causes Death by Clot

District traffic deaths this year 7
Deaths this date last year.....6
Total traffic deaths, 1949...71

A District man, who suffered a fractured leg in a traffic accident here on December 19, died yesterday at Emergency Hospital, the seventh Washington traffic fatality this year.

He was Harry E. Cockrell, 34, of 48 I st. nw., whose motorcycle collided with a standing taxicab at Vermont ave., and K st. nw., according to police. Driver of the cab was listed as William C. Rindgo, 32, of 2610 Bowen rd. nw.

An autopsy yesterday showed Cockrell died from a pulmonary embolism, a blood clot on the lung resulting from the leg fracture.

Another death was recorded at Casualty Hospital last night when a man identified by officials as Buck Kemp, a janitor at 100 Danbury st. sw., succumed to injuries suffered in a traffic accident Wednesday night on the Indian Head rd., near Oxon Hill, Md.

Another District man was found dead early yesterday in his wrecked car in the 4800 block of Georgia ave. nw. Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District Coroner, said after an autopsy, that death came from a heart ailment and the smashup apparently happened after the man collapsed.

He was identified as Porter R. Presgrave, 59, of 4215 4th st. nw. A passerby found him at 5:37 a. m., and notified police. They said the auto apparently had mounted the curb, grazed a tree, and then struck a pole. They said they found no skid marks.

Four Washington young people were in St. Agnes Hospital at Baltimore, yesterday, two seriously injured.

Maryland State police said they were in a car bound for Baltimore, Thursday evening, when it was in a head-on collision with another car at "Dead Man's Curve" on the Baltimore-Washington blvd., near Waterloo, Md.

The victims were:

Joan Ride, 19, of 2816 Connecticut ave. nw., fractured skull and fractured back.

Melvin A. Norwood, 23, 2500 Q st. nw., skull fracture.

Jerry Rubenstein, 1371 Underwood st. nw., driver of the car in which the four rode, brain concussion.

Beverley Samakow, 20, of 1021 Quebec pl. nw., brain concussion.

Police said driver of the other car in the collision was Robert B. Cook, a sailor stationed at the Naval Medical Center, Bethesda. He was treated for cuts and bruises.

2 Convicted In Death of Child Here

Two men were convicted yesterday in Municipal Court of negligent homicide as the result of a three-car collision in which a 2½-year-old child was killed.

Convicted of the traffic death were Francis C. Faunce, 35, of 245 8th st. se., and Stanley Warren, 28, of 402 9th st. se. They were drivers of two of the vehicles.

The accident occurred February 26, 1946, at Nichols ave. and South Capitol st. Killed was Sandra Breen, of 4921 Temple Hill rd.

Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Sommer contended that Faunce gave the wrong hand signal for a turn and was in the wrong lane. Warren, Sommer said, was driving immoderately and was passing on the right.

In the collision, the door of the third car, in which Sandra was riding, opened and she was flung into the opening. The automobile turned over and her skull was fractured as the door closed on it.

No date was set for the sentencing.

Draft Law Violator Is Convicted

Holt F. Wilkerson, jr., 25, a rooming house operator, yesterday was found guilty in District Court of violation of the Selective Service Act of 1948.

The jury deliberated little more than an hour before finding him guilty of refusing to take a mental examination November 19, 1948, for induction in the armed service and of refusing to be inducted on January 4, 1949.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough referred the case to the probation office for presentence investigation. No date was set for sentencing.

Wilkerson, who lives at 1050 42d st. ne., declared he had reported to take the mental examination but had been so upset that he couldn't do anything on it.

He added that he reported also for induction, and offered to take the loyalty oath. He said he explained he would not stand behind the oath, however, because he objected to discrimination and lynchings, and for that reason he was not inducted.

Col. R. W. Kingman Rites

Funeral services for Col. Ralph W. Kingman, 69, who died in Miami Thursday after a long illness, will be held at Arlington National Cemetery Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Driver Is Held In Pedestrian Death

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Lloyd F. Hart, 30, of 1433 New Jersey ave. nw., held for action of the grand jury in a traffic death here.

At the inquest into the death of Milton W. Johnson, 58, of 1730½ 7th st. nw., testimony showed Hart was driver of the auto which struck Johnson, a pedestrian, last Saturday. The accident was at 9th and S sts. nw. Johnson died Monday at Freedmen's Hospital.

At the time of the accident, Hart was charged by police with failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian and released on $500 bond. He was expected to be released on another $1000 bond pending grand jury action. Johnson was the District's sixth traffic fatality this year.

The Makings of a Rare Fur Coat . . .

The Washington Post

PATCHES, THE CHINCHILLA—G. Tom Farrow of New Market, Va., displays the rare chinchilla bred by his brother. The animal, known as a "mutation," has a white ring of fur on its rear half. If it can be bred into a line of white chinchillas, the value to furriers should be "unusually high," according to Farrow. He is exhibiting at the Shoreham

Insp. Talley To Get Police Physical Test

Inspector Clarence A. Talley, assistant superintendent of police in charge of the uniformed division, will face a board of police surgeons Tuesday, with a possibility of retirement to follow.

Talley

He has been on sick leave since December 12, suffering from a heart ailment.

Department officials said yesterday that if the board of surgeons recommends retirement for physical disability, then Inspector Talley will come before the retirement board early in March.

Inspector Talley has been in the department since July, 1917, and has served in most of its divisions.

At present, in addition to his other duties, he is the police member of the District Boxing Commission.

Chinchillas Multiply, But Pelts Are Few

See if you can figure this out. The chinchilla raising industry is expanding all the time, yet there is not an abundance of available pelts for women's coats.

Have the animals stopped breeding?

G. Tom Farrow of New Market, Va., who has spent 13 of his 62 years raising the furry animals, quickly denied that yesterday. The answer is that the industry is having "growing pains," he declared.

Farrow, second chinchilla grower to get started in the East, said the demand for the animals by would-be chinchilla ranchers in recent years has been so great that most of the small rodents—of good quality—have been resold as breeders. About 500 are being raised in the Washington area.

Breeders Cost High

Thus, the only ones going into milady's best coat—they cost from $20,000 to $75,000 each—are males not needed in matching breeding pairs, Farrow explained.

Why should a grower sell the pelts, which now bring about $75 each, when breeding pairs sell for $1250 to $1650 each? he asked.

Farrow is one of the eastern growers exhibiting his "young ones" at the National Chinchilla Show sponsored by the eastern branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders Association, Inc., at the Shoreham Hotel this weekend. About 300 of the country's best may be viewed by the public 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. today and tomorrow.

Hope Lies in "Patches"

Among the exhibitionists is a "mutation," raised by Farrow's brother, Hunter, who runs the Skyline Rancho across the road from him at New Market, Va. This 8-months-old pet, now known as "Patches" has a white ring of soft fur on its rear half. If this white animal can be bred into a line of white ones, the value to furriers should be "unusuasly high," Tom Farrow said.

After an hour of explaining how profitable the business could be, Farrow warned: "It's not a gold mine. It's a business of its own. If you have animal sense, judgment and love for the animal and try to learn how to improve the breed, it'll pay in more ways than one."

Dead Battery Halts Ride of Robbers And Their Victim

A dead auto battery last night brought a halt to the activities of two yoke robbers who had appropriated a cabby's taxi after relieving him of $18.

The cabby, Clarence N. Spitzer, 3157 Knox st. se., was seated in his vehicle in O st. near 3d st. sw. shortly after 10 p. m. when the thugs grabbed him and removed $18 from his pocket.

One of the robbers then took over the wheel while Spitzer was held captive by the other in the rear seat. The cab struck a parked car in the 1300 block of Carrollburg st. sw., and kept going until battery failure caused the thugs to abandon the cab and Spitzer in the rear of the 900 block of 1st st. se., he told police.

Mrs. Jarboe Rites Today; Teacher Here

Funeral services for Mrs. Edith McKee Jarboe, 73, a District public school teacher for over 30 years, will be held at 11 a. m. today at Gawler's funeral home, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw. Burial will follow in Rock Creek Cemetery.

A lifelong resident of Washington, she died of a heart attack Wednesday at the home of her son, Clarence McKee Jarboe, 8225 Custer rd., Bethesda, with whom she had been staying since Christmas. Mrs. Jarboe lived at 3910 Jenifer st. nw.

Mrs. Jarboe sang for 10 years in the choir of Epiphany Church, and was a former organist at the Soldier's Home. Her husband, Clarence Jarboe, retired from the Interior Department prior to his death in 1947.

A graduate of Central High School and the old Normal School here, she began her teaching career in 1897 at the Emery School, and before her retirement in 1929 she was teaching at Southeast schools.

Her survivors, in addition to her son, include, a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Hobbs of Bethesda; and two brothers, Fred McKee, vice president of the Security Savings & Commercial Bank here, and Ralph McKee, former proprietor of the old Metropolitan Hotel here.

Woman Charged With Theft of House Fixtures

A Brookville woman has been charged by Montgomery County police wth larceny of fixtures from a Silver Spring house she reportedly traded for the farm where she now lives.

The woman, Miss Margaret D. D'Ana, 29, was arrested Thursday night on information sworn to by Murray Pfeferman, of 9404 Garwood st., Silver Spring, who, police said, received a house at 203 E. Indian Spring dr. in the deal for the farm.

The warrant charges Miss D'Ana with removing a kitchen cabinet and medicine cabinet valued at $50. Other fixtures valued at about $500 are also reported missing. Miss D'Ana was released under $500 bond for appearance at Silver Spring Police Court on February 21.

Fairfax Names Chief Of Planning, Zoning

Herbert F. Schumann, jr., has been named director of planning and zoning administrator of Fairfax County. Appointment was made by the county Board of Supervisors.

Schumann succeeds T. J. Stockton, who died last month. The new planning head had been assistant to Mr. Stockton for the past two-and-one-half years and formerly served with the Arlington County Planning Commission for six years.

Purse Snatcher Escapes With $34 After Chase

Barbara Carney, 1466 Clifton st. nw., last night reported to police that her pocketbook containing $34 was snatched as she walked near her home at 8:10 p. m. A passerby, Donald E. Gourley, 28, of 5713 Jamestown rd., Hyattsville, chased the snatcher but lost sight of him in the 1200 block of Florida ave. nw.

Police broadcast a lookout for a dark-skinned Negro of medium build, 5 feet 9 inches tall, 165 pounds, 18-20 years old, wearing a field jacket and tan trousers.

Taft Chain Letters Are Declared Legal

By the United Press

The Post Office Department ruled yesterday that chain letters asking one-dollar campaign contributions for the reelection of Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) are legal.

The department, which banned the old pyramid-club type of chain letters on lottery grounds instructed postmasters to let the Taft appeals go through.

Taft has disavowed and tried to discourage the campaign fund chain letters.

Phone Busy, Barn Burns

Miss Blake Dead at 91; Noted Teacher

Miss Katherine Devereux Blake, 91, poineer suffragist and noted educator, died of cancer Thursday in St. Louis, it was learned in Washington yesterday.

Mrs. Blake

A teacher in the New York City public schools for 51 years, Miss Blake was often in Washington in connection with her work for the National Education Association, the League of Women Voters, and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

She was the first teacher of presidential adviser Bernard M. Baruch when he was 6 years old. A few years ago, Baruch said he felt "deeply grateful to her for the encouragement and inspiration she gave me as a small boy and indeed through all the succeeding years."

School Campaigns

As an educator, Miss Blake campaigned successfully for better school lighting, elimination of glazed paper from school textbooks and the equal pay law for women teachers and was the first woman treasurer of the NEA.

She accompanied Jane Addams to the peace conference at The Hague in 1915 and she was one of 19 American educators to accompany John Dewey on his official visit to Russia in 1928. Miss Blake repeatedly attended League of Nations session in Geneva as a newspaper correspondent.

In the field of women's suffrage, Miss Blake was carrying on the work of her mother, Lillie Devereux Blake, for many years president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association. In 1943 she wrote a biography of her mother, "Champion of Women."

She urged teachers to "love the children"; she urged parents to send their children only to "a happy school"; and she urged the children to "go into politics at once."

New York Native

Born in New York City on July 10, 1858, she was graduated from what is now Hunter College in 1876. She lived in Washington for some years after the Civil War when her mother was working here as the first woman newspaper correspondent. She worked for the New York Sun.

An accomplished public speaker, Miss Blake last spoke in Washington on her eighty-fifth birthday on behalf of the National Woman's Party.

Miss Blake is survived by two nephews, Beverley Robinson, 3201 Porter st. nw., and Devereux Robinson, and a niece, Mrs. McKim Marriott of St. Louis.

She will be buried beside her mother in Union Cemetery, Stratford, Conn. Memorial services will be held subsequently in New York.

'A Clear Danger'

Kronheim Tells Why He Jailed Man

Judge Milton S. Kronheim, jr., explained in Municipal Court yesterday why he held a man guilty of disorderly conduct for several hours without bail Thursday before setting bond for him.

The convicted man is James A. Quick, 28, of 5317 Nash st. ne. He was given a $25 fine which was paid.

Judge Kronheim said he believed that the disorderly conduct plus Quick's attitude in court showed him to be a "clear and present danger." The judge said Quick had threatened to harm a policeman arresting another person on a warrant.

Meanwhile, a petition was filed in the Municipal Court of Appeals to force Kronheim to pronounce immediate sentence on Harry L. Burka, who was convicted of permitting unsanitary conditions at his laundry plant, 530 7th st. se. The judge on Thursday jailed Burka for a short period and then released him for sentencing February 16 after a probation office report.

Schoolgirl Raped, Killed; Youth Held

Halifax, Va., Feb. 3 (AP).—Fourteen-year-old Marian Lloyd, a Clarkton schoolgirl, was raped and killed this afternoon while on her way from school, Deputy Sheriff John T. Hatcher reported.

Hatcher said George Thomas Hailey, 24, also of Clarkton, had been arrested.

Three shots from a pursuing policeman's gun and a double armload of whisky bottles failed to stop a fleet-footed burglar early yesterday morning.

But the policeman, Pvt. H. F. Ruth of the Third Precinct, had the satisfaction of making the fugitive drop a number of the whisky bottles as he fled.

Police said the window of a liquor store at 2501 Pennsylvania ave. nw., was smashed about 4:20 a. m., the third such case in the vicinity in the past 10 days. Pvt. Ruth heard the crash of glass and began to run to the store.

As he approached, a man ran from the place with the load of whisky bottles. He finally escaped into Rock Creek Park after Ruth fired three times at him. Hospitals and doctors were warned to be on the lookout for a wounded man.

Ruth described him as a dark-skinned Negro, 35 to 40 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, wearing dark trousers, dark shoes, medium brown coat and light tan hat.

Harry Goldman, proprietor of the liquor store, said two cases of whisky, valued at $60, were taken.

Search for Plane Down In Bay Proves Futile

Baltimore, Feb. 3 (AP). — Five airplanes from the Maryland Air National Guard and Fort Meade returned to their bases tonight after a futile three-hour search for an unidentified aircraft reported down in Chesapeake Bay. The officer in charge of the 104th Guard Fighter Squadron, said "their mission was completed — nothing had been found."

The search started when a man reported he had seen an aircraft plunge in the bay about 10 miles off Baltimore.

Dr. Schwartz to Speak

Dr. Abraham Schwartz, Washington economist, formerly with the Government, will give an address on economic conditions in Israel tonight at 8 in the Washington YMCA. Dr. Schwartz returned to this country recently after spending several months studying economic affairs in Israel.

Swedish Sailor Found After Ship Departs

Washington's famed hospitality proved too much yesterday for a Swedish sailor. He was Seaman Lars Johanson, of the cruiser Gotland, which departed from the Naval Gun Factory at 7 a. m., yesterday after a week's visit here. It sailed without Johanson.

Capt. S. O. Rosenberg radioed the Swedish embassy here, which enlisted aid of police and the Potomac River Naval Command. The search continued through the day.

Police and Shore Patrol members found two girls who had seen the sailor Thursday night. Last night, Shore Patrol members found him in a downtown cafe. He will be turned over today to the Naval Attache at the Swedish Embassy.

Senate Unit Approves Arab Refuge Fund

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday approved a $27,450,000 works program for rehabilitating Arab refugees in Palestine.

Chairman Connally (D., Texas) said he will report the measure to the Senate as soon as possible.

The money would be used for building highways and an airport, terracing farmland, and developing water resources.

Fairfax P-TA Sponsors Town's Scout Activities

The P-TA Fairfax Elementary School, Fairfax, is taking over sponsorship of Boy Scout activities in the town, it was announced yesterday. In addition, the P-TA will start up a Girl Scout program.

Boy Scouts, according to Mrs. Joseph R. Brennan, whose husband leads the P-TA, have been sponsored by the town Rotary Club in the past. There have been no Girl Scout activities in Fairfax for some time, she said.

Lawyer Named Chronic Illness Group Chairman

Nelson T. Hartson, member of the law firm of Hogan & Hartson, was appointed chairman of the Committee on Chronic Illness for the United Community Services Health Section, Dr. Winfred Overholser, section chairman, announced yesterday.

Hartson

Hartson was formerly assistant corporation counsel for Seattle, Wash., and served for two years as solicitor of the Internal Revenue Department here. He was also professor of taxation at Georgetown University Law School and president of the University of Washington Alumni Association.

The attorney said the committee's first project will be the preparation of a directory of services available here to patients with cancer, heart disease, arthritis, rheumatism and diabetes.

Rothenberg to Outline Situation in Israel

35 Evicted From Homes In Alexandria

Mrs. Margaret Jordan, 44, and six others—three of them children—were midway in the task yesterday of carting their furniture out on the street. Mrs. Jordan paused to say this:

"I think it's a shame—putting all these people out with nowhere to go."

Mrs. Jordan, up to yesterday morning, lived at 434 S. Columbus st., Alexandria. Living at 432, 430, 428 and 426 S. Columbus were at least 35 other persons, all of them in the same fix.

The row of sagging frame dwellings—two story, two rooms up, two rooms down—has been condemned since last fall. Occupants were told January 6 by the city sergeant's office that they must leave.

Melvin Fayne, 31, a laborer who lived at 428 S. Columbus, said he was told last Monday that he would be moved out "on the first sunny day." Mrs. Marie Jackson, his mother, remarked she had lived there, "off and on," for 22 years.

Mrs. Jordan, who has been caring for her sister's three children, said she would have to send them to the sister. She and her husband have found a room, she reported.

The Alexandria Welfare Department has informed the evicted tenants in the past that they must find other places to live, Miss Barbara Watkins, welfare director, said.

For the most part, persons evicted found temporary havens with friends in the neighborhod, or with relatives. Miss Watkins reported some had moved out of the city.

Miss Washington to Judge

Mary Jane Hays, Miss Washington of 1949, will be chief judge of the "Beau-Tie" contest at the Bykota Club's annual Beaut-Tie dance tonight at 9 in the Scott Hotel, 2131 O st. nw.

Capital Parties Hail Two Famous Romances

By Marie McNair

WASHINGTON'S most romantic couples took the town by storm last night.

There was Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz's dinner and reception in honor of Vice President Barkley and his bride. And at the 1925 F Street Club, European royalty dined and danced on the eve of the wedding of the Marquess of Milford Haven and his American bride-to-be, Romaine Pierce Simpson.

Twenty guests sat down to dinner in the modern mirrored dining room at the Cafritz's home on Foxhall rd., at a table decorated with massed calla lilies and pink snapdragons. White and pink was the theme for decoration throughout the house. Pink camellias cascading from the fireplace in the drawing room mingled with sprays of pink antherium to fill the open grate. Downstairs in the ballroom white predominated, with the first flowering pear blossoms filling every conceivable corner.

Guests Enjoy Dancing

The hostess wore white, a Lanvin gown of drifting tulle with a pale blue satin sash, and a pink rose casually caught on the skirt. A diamond necklace sparkled at her throat. Mrs. Barkley's satin gown was petal pink.

More than 200 guests came from dinner parties for dancing to Alexander Haas' red-costumed Budapest Gypsy Orchestra, brought from New York for the occasion.

Among the dinner parties preceding the Cafritz reception was that given by the Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. Munthe Morgenstierne. The French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet and Senator and Mrs. William Fullbright were ranking guests. The Ambassador, just back from a week in New York, will leave again today for Lake Placid and the ski meet in which Norwegian skiers will participate.

Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Edward H. Foley, jr., entertained guests for dinner with the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Maurice Tobin heading the list.

Others having parties were the British Minister and Lady Hoyer Millar, Prince and Princess Guido Pignatelli—she was also celebrating a birthday; Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, the First Secretary of the French Embassy and Mme. Benard, Mrs. Nina Lunn, Mrs. William T. Mann, Mrs. Marcia duPont, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carusi and Mr. and Mrs. Lauriston Hardin.

Bob Hope Entertains

At the Cafritz' dinner party, Bob Hope matched his wits with the Veep, recalling the plane trip they'd made to Germany at Christmas a year ago, Mrs. Hope was there, too, and the Secretary of the Air Force and Mrs. Stuart Symington, their hosts while they're in town.

Lady Franks, without the Ambassador, who's in London, was among those coming in after dinner.

Others there were the Greek Ambassador and Mme. Dendramis, the Belgian Ambassador, Baron Robert Silvercruys; the Luxembourg Minister and Mme. LeGallais, Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, Senator and Mrs. Millard Tydings, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Finley, Secretary of the Senate and Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Senator and Mrs. Owen Brewster and Senator Joseph McCarthy.

Also Justice and Mrs. Tom Clark, Senator and Mrs. William Knowland, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Clifford, Senator and Mrs. Estes Kefauver, Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Gordon Gray, Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles Brannan and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

The Lodges—Senator and Mrs. George Cabot Lodge and Representative and Mrs. John Davis Lodge—were a good-looking foursome.

Iced Donkey A Feature

Then there were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Biddle, Col. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, the British Minister, Sir Leslie Rowan; Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard Thorpe. Undersecretary of Commerce and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Representative and Mrs. Mike Monroney, and the Veep's children, Mrs. Max Truitt with Mr. Truitt, and Mrs. Douglas MacArthur with Mr. MacArthur.

Yes, there were all there. And as the evening waned, Republicans and Democrats gathered around a Democratic donkey carved in ice for a late supper which featured fresh caviar, Smithfield ham and imported goose liver pate.

Bridal Couple Feted

ENGLAND'S "most eligible bachelor," David Michael Mountbatten, Marquess of Milford Haven, and Romaine Simpson, whose marriage in the National Presbyterian Church will be today's social news, were entertained at dinner last night by Mrs. Clark McIlwaine, mother of the bride-elect.

There were 48 guests for dinner—all that the F Street Club will seat—and 100 more came for dancing.

European royalty among the 80 out-of-town guests assembled here for the service this afternoon, were entertained at dinner before the dance by several of Mrs. McIlwaine's friends.

King Peter of Yugoslavia, a third cousin of the bridegroom, had dined with Clarence Hewes; so did the Archduke and Archduchess Franz Joseph of Austria.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair Childs' guests were all out-of-town visitors here for the wedding and others who entertained were Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Elwood Quesada, Mr. and Mrs. Alfons Landa with whom the bridegroom is staying; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Macauley.

Egyptian Ambassador Holds Cocktail Party

THERE were other parties on yesterday's calendar too. There was the Egyptian Ambassador and Mme. Abdul Rahim's cocktail fete in honor of the governor of the Middle East Institute, the group including, George Kemp Keiser, chairman; Representative Christian Herter, former Ambassador Wallace Murray, Mortimer Graves, Dr. Edwin C. Wright, Joseph Upton and Moore Gates. Wives accompanied their husbands.

There was also a farewell cocktail party in the Terrace Room of the Army and Navy Club, given by Capt. O. P. Araldsen, retiring naval and air attache of the Norwegian Embassy, for his successor, Rear Admiral Johs E. Jacobsen and Mme. Jacobsen. Captain Araldsen is returning to Norway where Mme. Araldsen preceded him some time ago.

Farewells were being said again yesterday to Maj. Gen. John Chapman, retiring head of the Australian Military Mission, and Mrs. Chapman at a party given in their honor by Col. and Mrs. Maurice Austin, at their home in Arlington, Va.

Mrs. J. Lawton Collins, wife of the Chief of Staff, entertained at lunch yesterday for pretty Patricia Moore, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. James E. Moore, who'll be married on February 18, to Capt. James G. Shanahan, USA, a White House Aide.

Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson have issued invitations to a "white tie" reception on Tuesday at 10 p. m. at Anderson House.

Mme. Dreifuss Visits Relatives Here

MME. FRANCOIS JEAN DREIFUSS of Nogent le Roi, France, has arrived in the United States for visits with relatives in Washington and West Virginia.

Madame Dreifuss, the former Constance Green Thomas of Washington, is the guest of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Robert Sands Howell, 37th pl. se., and of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick H. Conley in the Methodist Building. Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Conley are her sisters.

She plans to go later to spend several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Avery E. Green, in Williamson, W. Va., before sailing on the DeGrasse to join her husband in Paris for Easter.

Brazilians Entertained

The Brazilian Ambassador to the Organization of American States, Dr. Hildebrando Accioly, and Mme. Accioly gave a cocktail party yesterday at their home on Fordham rd. for Rear Admiral Ernesto Araujo, new naval attache at the Brazilian Embassy, and Mme. Araujo and the retiring naval attache, Vice Admiral Attila Ache and Mme. Ache.

Benjamin Castro, son of the El Salvador Ambassador and Senora de Castro, was honored at a farewell party Thursday night by classmates at the Georgetown University Law School. The fete took place at the Bethesda home of Paschal R. La Padula. Senor Castro will leave shortly for Panama where he will be married.

The Polish Ambassador and Mme. Winiewicz were hosts at dinner last evening at the embassy in honor of several members of the medical mission to Poland organized by the Unitarian Service Committee, who have recently returned from Poland. Among those in the group were Dr. and Mrs. Leo Davidoff, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Levine, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Thompson, Dr. A. Powell Davies and Olgierd Langer, Polish delegate to the Red Cross.

Mrs. Barkley Shares Spotlight

Veep, Hope Match Wits at Luncheon

By Genevieve Reynolds

VICE PRESIDENT Alben Barkley yesterday exchanged verbal bouquets and quips with his good friend Bob Hope, screen and radio star. Then the "Veep" expressed the belief that a woman could be elected Vice President—even President—of the United States.

The occasion was a celebrity-studded luncheon honoring the Vice President and Mrs. Barkley given by the Women's National Press Club at the Mayflower Hotel.

The Veep remarked that he knew several women now qualified for the vice presidency but didn't give any names.

Mr. Barkley told the presswomen and their guests that he was considering becoming a columnist "to interpret columnists." He commented smilingly that many people couldn't understand quite a few of the columnists such as Drew Pearson, Walter Lippmann, Westbrook Pegler, Doris Fleeson and Ruth Montgomery.

Thanks Nation's Press

CONTINUING, he said that he hoped to be an active member of the National Press Club and an honorary member of the Women's National Press Club when he turns columnist.

At the same time he thanked the entire pres of the Nation for its "warmth of friendship toward me and Mrs. Barkley."

During his address the Vice President spoke of the necessity of maintaining freedom of the press, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of worship. Also he stressed the fact that we must keep the right to criticize our Government and public officials in the interest of democracy.

Toward the end of his introductory remarks, the Veep quipped, "My wife just told me to quit talking. But to prove I'm no henpecked husband, I refuse."

Approves H-Bomb Work

THE VICE PRESIDENT said that he approved the making of the hydrogen bomb in the sense that the work might deter an aggressor and help to preserve the peace. He said that the United States, in view of its world leadership, had a moral, political and social responsibilty to prevent war if possble.

Asked to comment on Senator Brien McMahon's proposal for a moral crusade for peace by outlawing the hydrogen bomb, Mr. Barkley said that he had not read the Senator's suggestions. But he added that he was sure McMahon would make no statement not in the interest of this country and world peace.

Increase Veep's Powers

IT might be well for Congress gradually to increase the powers and functions of the Vice President, Barkley replied in answer to a query. He emphasized that he was excluding himself when making such a suggestion.

BOB HOPE AND VICE PRESIDENT BARKLEY
. . . trade quips at Women's Press Club luncheon

He said that he had tried to enlarge the Vice President's duties beyond "presiding over the Senate and reading about the President's health in the papers."

For example, he pointed out that he attends all Cabinet meetings, attends sessions of the National Security Council and travels over the country to remind the people of the Government's functions.

The Veep explained that a Vice President should have an intimate working knowledge of the Government in the event that he should become President.

Comedian's Quips

COMEDIAN HOPE spoke briefly before the Vice President. Miss Jane Stafford, club president, introduced the Veep and his missus as the "big event of the luncheon." In a battle of wits with the entertainer, Mr. Barkley laughed, "If I'm the big event after Hope, I'll have to share the show with my better four-fifths (Mrs. Barkley.).

Hope laughingly declared that he was the "tallest flower girl in the Barkley-Hadley wedding."

About the Veep, he continued, "I know he makes a good husband. I sat on his lap during a trip to Berlin. But nobody knew he was in love until one day he smiled at a Republican."

Sharing Spotlight

MRS. HOPE shared the spotlight with the Barkleys and her famous husband. Screen star Miss Myrna Loy also took a bow from the head table as did the Governor of Michigan, G. M. Williams, the Governor of Hawaii, Ingram Stainback, Mrs. Charles Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture; Mrs. Oscar Chapman, wife of the Secretary of the Interior; Mrs. Leslie Biffle, wife of the Secretary of the Senate; Jack C. McDermott, chief of the International Press Division, Department of State, and Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keys, author.

Glimpsed here and there among the distinguished guests in the audience were Mme. V. K. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador; Lady Berendsen, wife of the New Zealand Ambassador; Mrs. Tom Clark, wife of the Associate Supreme Court Justice; Mrs. William O. Douglas, wife of the Associate Supreme Court Justice; and Mrs. O. Max Gardner.

Congressional wives among the guests were Mrs. George Malone, Mrs. Owen Brewster, Mrs. James Kem, Mrs. John L. McMillan, Mrs. Walt Horan and Mrs. Richard Bolling.

Missouri Showed Other States How, Back in 1900

By Nicha Soure

ONE DAY in 1900 a Government clerk became lonely for his fellow Missourians.

Joe Manlove, who was later to be elected to the House of Representatives, inserted an advertisement in the newspaper suggesting the formation of an organization of Missourians living in and around Washington. The response to the ad was overwhelming, and the Missouri Society was born.

On February 18 at the Carlton Hotel, the oldest State society in continuous activity will celebrate its golden anniversary. Mrs. Nellie Ruth Grady will be one of the soloists on the banquet program, which will begin at 7 p. m.

REPRESENTATIVE and Mrs. Tom Steed will be honored at the Oklahoma State Society open house on Sunday at the Women's City Club, 1733 I st. nw., at 4 p. m.

The program of the afternoon will feature the first Washington appearance of Hope Newell, an Oklahoma daughter. Miss Newell, who appeared with the Port Players of Milwaukee and "The Winslow Boy" production, will sing a selection of folksongs.

MISS NEWELL

Commissioner of Federal Communications Paul A. Walker and Mrs. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Emery and Miss Malvina Stephenson will assist Representative Steed in receiving the guests.

THE Peach Staters will dance tonight in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. Canasta and bridge tables will be provided by the Georgia State Society for its members who would rather play cards than dance. The dance at 9 p. m. will honor the Georgia congressional delegation.

FEBRUARY 11 will be a combination Valentine Dance night and congressional night for the Illinois group in Washington.

The Illinois dance will be held in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. The receiving line will form at 9:30 p. m.

For further information about the dance or the Society, call Miss Mary R. Fox, secretary, at Republic 0265 during the evenings.

THE Washington State and Alaska Society will hold its annual brunch at noon on Sunday, February 12, in the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel.

A. Burks Summers, president, announced that the society would elect officers for the coming year at the brunch.

THE New York State Society will honor the Labor Department in the next of its series of monthly dances spotlighting the branches of the Government.

This dance, sixth in the series, will be in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel on February 11. Following a reception at 9:30 p. m., New Yorkers and friends will dance to the music of Dave McWilliams' orchestra from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Servicemen in uniform will be admitted free.

Where to Buy Thermos Bottle Lining

Where can I purchase a new glass lining for a pint thermos bottle? R. G.

The houseware's sections of most local department stores carry the liners for several makes of vacuum bottle. "Thermos" is a trade name. If you have a bottle of this particular make, I believe you can get a liner for it in the basement houseware's department of an F st. store (telephone District 5300.)

I would like to know the best procedure to follow in the cleaning, waxing, and maintenance of wood floors. Could you also tell me how I can obtain a nice gloss and prevent the floors from looking dingy and getting dark in color? Will a water-repellent wax make the floors dark and eventually black? Is there any booklet published that I can read on the general care of floors? B. B. T.

The Department of Agriculture has a booklet called "House Cleaning Management and Methods," FB-1834, which gives a good deal of information about the care of floors, as well as other cleaning jobs.

From what you say, I take it that yours are hardwood floors. If they are well-finished and you give them good care, they should be beautiful and serviceable for many years. You mention "water repellent wax." Most wax is water repellent, although there is a self-polishing wax which is an emulsion of wax in water.

For hardwood floors, you'll find either liquid or paste wax an excellent preservative. Paste waxes contain about 20 to 35 percent of wax and give a heavier film, but require more polishing than the liquid product. The latter have 10 to 15 percent of wax. So far as cleaning the floors are concerned, dry cleaning preparations such as varsol do an excellent job of this.

A reader recently requested ideas for keeping baby formula milk off the floor. I had two babies on formula, so it was quite a problem with us. I placed a small table near the cribs, with a box of tissue thereon, to make it convenient for any person to wipe off his wrist after milk had been tested for temperature.

By the table, I kept a clean metal wastebasket for disposing of the paper tissues and to catch any milk drops falling off the wrist. The bottom of the wastebasket was lined with newspapers and on the top paper I laid a paper tissue or towel for the sake of "looks." With these precautions, we managed to keep many formula spots off the floor. R. G.

Is there any publication that tells amounts of foods (salads, cold cuts, drinks, etc.) to prepare for about 50 people? B. B. S.

There are a number of cookbooks that give excellent help in planning quantity meals. Here are three that are available in the book section of a local department store: "Receipts and Menus for Fifty," by Frances Lowe Smith and Florence P. Stoddard (Barrows); "Chef's Guide to Quantity Cookery," by J. H. Breland, (Harper's); "Quantity Cookery," by Nora Treat and Lenore Richards (Little Brown).

I have a pair of slightly faded rose-colored slip covers for my living room, with gray cording. I would like to dye them a burgundy shade. What is the best method? Would doing it in an automatic washer be satisfactory? B. S. S.

If the washer is big enough to handle the slip covers comfortably you should be able to tint them quite satisfactorily with this equipment. Is your washer of the type that would allow you to mix the dye thoroughly before putting in the covers? If you have to pour concentrated dye in on top of the material, you may get streaks. If you want to try for a real burgundy shade, you'll have to use plenty of dye in the tinting job. Have the water as hot as possible, too.

Will a dinette table-top finished with orange shellac scar easily under a table cloth with daily use of hot dishes and cold water glasses? Should it be waxed? Should a table pad be used? R. G.

Generally speaking a shellac finish is much more likely to be marked by heat, water, or alcohol than a spar varnish finish. I should therefore try to protect the table a bit. The wax is a good idea. It will help keep it from water staining. However, it won't prevent heat from marking it. For this reason, it would be a good idea to use either hot dish mats or table pads.

Can you give me a recipe for making chili con carne in a pressure cooker? D. V.

The following recipe is from "Cooking Under Pressure," by Marian Tracy, a book recently published by the Viking Press.

CHILI CON CARNE
2 cups red kidney beans
3 cups water
1 pound top round steak, cubed
3 onions, sliced thin
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 fat clove garlic, or 2 small ones
1½ tablespoons chili powder
1 green pepper, chopped
1 cup bouillon
Salt and pepper

Pick over the kidney beans carefully. Soak over night if possible. (If not, double the cooking time under pressure.) Cook in 3 cups water 25 minutes under 15 pounds pressure. Cook the onion slowly in the olive oil in a frying pan until clear but not browned. Add the meat and any fat that came with it. Cook the meat until brown. Add the garlic, chili powder, green pepper, and bouillon. Cook over low flame about 10 minutes. Reduce the pressure on the beans slowly. Drain the beans and put in a casserole with the fragrant meat and bake in medium oven for 30 minutes. This recipe serves four.

Miss Tracy suggests serving it with a salad made of romaine, grapefruit sections, avocado slices, and French dressing, accompanied by cornbread sticks and beer.

New Sewing Club For Mothers With Small Children

By Jean Belaire

Sewing club groups have been planned to fill the needs of young mothers with small children of school or pre-school age and a minimum amount of free time in which to plan and make wardrobes for themselves and the children. These mothers are taught how to make clothing out of anything from father's out-worn tuxedo to flour sacks. Big sister's last year's dress becomes baby's first play suit. This class meets the need for every conceivable type of sewing for the home, from draperies to dungarees. The members of this group who wish to bring along children of pre-school age are extended the privilege of using one of the classrooms as a nursery during this morning period, with the provision that each group will independently arrange to employ one supervisor for every ten children. The school is equipped with a complete eleetric kitchen and is air-conditioned. Children can be taken to a park within a block of the school in fair weather. If this is your idea of heaven, you'll find it at The Belaire School of Practical Dress Design, at 821 19th St. N.W. STerling 9040.

Judy's Lawyer Wants FBI Head to Testify

New York, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—Judith Coplon's lawyer announced today he wants FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover to testify about "decoy messages" which the Government claims were found in Miss Coplon's purse the night she was arrested with Valentin Gubitchev.

"I'm making the announcement now," said Attorney Archibald Palmer, "so the Government cannot claim it comes as a surprise or as a delaying tactic."

Miss Coplon, former Government employe, and Gubitchev, Russian engineer, are on trial accused of conspiracy to steal U. S. Government secrets. Palmer said he will seek to call Hoover when the decoy message matter comes up.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan said he would rule when the messages are introduced in evidence.

Before adjourning for the weekend, the trial brought out more testimony from an FBI agent describing the way he trailed Gubitchev around New York City before his arrest.

Agent John F. Malley's testimony that on the night of February 18 he saw Gubitchev enter a supermarket drew from the Russian his first statement to the American press. Through an attorney, Gubitchev sent reporters word that the bag he carried out of the supermarket contained: Herring, brown bread and baloney.

Malley's story of how he watched Gubitchev take a subway, a cab, a bus, and then walk some distance on a roundabout route after leaving Miss Coplon that night drew a look of interest from the defendant. Instead of staring at the courtroom wall as usual, he sat up and listened intently.

The Government is trying to prove Miss Coplon met Gubitchev to pass Government secrets to him. Judge Ryan, who has tangled frequently with the defense attorneys, has ordered stenographic records of his conferences with them in his chambers locked up until the conspiracy trial is finished.

Non-Musicians

Bull Fiddle Puts Duo in Court Jam

Two nonmusicians, who couldn't play a note between them, managed to fiddle their way with a big bass viol into plenty of trouble, ending up in Municipal Court yesterday.

Held for action of the grand jury for theft of the musical instrument, they are: George L. Little, 27, of the Dunbar Hotel, and William Brown, 19, of 1011 9th st. ne.

Both were arrested at 6 a. m. Thursday in the 1500 block of 17th st. nw. by Pvt. John W. Harrison, of the Third Precinct.

"They were half carrying and half dragging that fiddle and half walking and half running," he declared, explaining why he became suspicious and stopped to question them.

While they waited at the box for the police wagon, Littlefield finally admitted they had stolen the fiddle from a parked car, the policeman said. He added that Littlefield told him he took it because he always wanted to play a bass fiddle but could never afford one.

At the precinct station house later, however, Littlefield admitted neither he nor Brown could play a note, and added they had taken the fiddle in order to hock it, Harrison said.

Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott ordered the two held for the grand jury and specified the instrument be returned as soon as possible to its owner, Charles Seal, a part-time musician of Falls Church, Va., so he would not be hindered in making his living.

Seal said he had left the fiddle in his car, parked in the 1700 block of P st. nw., Wednesday night. It was taken after a ventilator window was broken open, he said.

Judge Scott set bond for both men at $500 each, but raised Littlefield's to $1500 after an Air Force representative, who was in court, informed him that Littlefield had been absent without leave from Andrews Field Air Force Base for 62 days.

N. Y. Flutist Airs Talent At Lecture

By Paul Hume

"The Flute—Gentleman's Instrument."

A passing oboe player might be slightly annoyed at the above title, describing the lecture given last night at the Libarry of Congress. The speaker, who illustrated his witty remarks, was Carleton Sprague Smith, eminent chief of the music division of the New York Public Library.

Smith gave the first of a sries of lectures established under the Dayton C. Miller Fund in the library. The lectures intended to spread interest and knowledge in the flute and its music.

The musical lecturer did not include other instruments from the bounds of gentlemanly trafficking. But in listing noted exponents of the charming woodwind, he built up quite a case against trying to win social standing while playing the clarinet.

Oliver Goldsmith (could he possibly have stopped to conquer the flute?) headed a list of distinguished flutists. Jean Jacques Rousseau, and Princess Amalia of Prussia, sister of Frederick the Great, followed in that order. No attempt was made to justify the presence of a princess in a list otherwise composed of gentlemen.

Greatest names were those of Bach, Frederick himself, Quantz, his teacher, and Mozart. Smith decorated his comments with some expert playing. Choosing his selections from the writings of both professional and amateur composers, he showed clearly how complete is his own command of the instrument.

In his playing, Smith was skillfully accompanied by Vera Brodsky.

'Get the Hell Out' For Rep. Plumley Brings An Apology

By The Associated Press

Representative Charles A. Plumley (R., Vt.), exchanged angry words with a newsreel cameraman yesterday. But they wound up by shaking hands.

The cameraman shouted "get the hell out of the way" when the Congressman stepped in front of him while he was taking a picture of comedian Bob Hope in the office of Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington.

Plumley retorted the cameraman should be excluded from such occasions if he insisted on using such language. The cameraman apologized. Plumley then shook his hand, saying he considered the incident closed.

Plumley said he knew the cameraman's identity but would not reveal it.

Lawyer Guild Held Trying To Sap FBI

By the United Press

Assistant FBI Director Louis B. Nichols yesterday accused the National Lawyers Guild of starting a program in 1941 to "undermine public confidence" in the FBI and its director, J. Edgar Hoover.

He told the Congressional Club the guild's convention adopted a resolution stating that it "opposes the gestapo activities of the FBI, calls for removal of its director," and urges Congress to cut the agency's appropriations.

The guild has been cited as a Communist front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, but it is not on the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations. It recently demanded that a "citizens' committee" be named by President Truman to investigate allegedly "illegal" methods used by the FBI.

Meanwhile, Charles A. Horsky, who said he is a member of Secretary of State Dean Acheson's former law firm, acknowledged he is circulating a petition demanding a public investigation of what he called the FBI's "lawless conduct."

The petition, which is addressed to Congress, accuses the FBI of illegal wire tapping, rifling of private mail, destruction of evidence and public records and false and misleading sworn testimony by its agents.

Half of DPs Entering U. S. Called 'Illegal'

By the United Press

A former employe of the Displaced Persons Commission testified yesterday that about half the DPs coming to the United States are illegal. He said Commission officials know it.

The testimony was given to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee by Edward M. Glazek, now a law student at the University of Tennessee. He said he was assistant selector for the Commission in Frankfurt and Munich, Germany, from February to May, 1949.

Glazek said he was "ordered to whitewash" many persons seeking admission to the United States. He said those he turned down "were given to someone else to whitewash."

"I stood it as long as I could, and when I couldn't stand it any longer I resigned," he said.

Glazek testified also that:

He discovered "fradulent document mills" working on a wholesale scale in Germany; the DPs use false names and dates to cover up any disqualifications for entering the United States; the DP staff is "too small and too incompetent" to handle its job properly.

One on the Aisle—

Italy's Magnani Is High Velocity

By Richard L. Coe

EVERY TOO SELDOM a screen personality appears with that electric something, the lack of which in others is never compensated for no matter how carefully expensive the gilding.

Such a player is Italy's Anna Magnani, who is not the central figure of the Little's "The Bandit," but is certainly its most dynamic quality.

Magnani is neither beautiful nor young. The roles she plays are sometimes tawdry creatures, sometimes intensely sympathetic women. In them all a strong personality captures the camera and she emerges with the pulsation of life.

How this must baffle more beautiful actresses with youth and elegantly tasteful wardrobes at their casual disposal! How they must gasp at those dark circles under her eyes, at the audacity of her frankly long, if aquiline, nose! How they must shudder at her feather boas and the subtle communication that it may be some days since the Magnani has seen a shower bath.

Yet, for all these presumably insuperable negations, Magnani comes through the lens with the velocity of a tornado. In "The Bandit," she is playing one of those low-life ladies linked with a tough guy at the head of a plundering Turin gang.

By chance she meets a man who has returned her well-stuffed purse. Helping him hide from the police after an intensely personal tragedy, she hands the reins of power over to him. He sees himself as a Robin Hood, not unlike Sicily's Giuliano, and with some of his riches he sends luxuries to his old POW pal and the latter's daughter. In the end, he has almost caused the latter's death, but manages to bring her home safely though it costs him his life.

As you can see, this is the story not of the Magnani role, but of the title figure. This part is movingly acted by Amadeo Nazzari, who looks like both Errol Flynn and Sam Wanamaker. There is a decency and compassion to both the story and Nazzari's playing.

And while "The Bandit" lacks the full roundedness of the finest Italian imports, it is obviously cut from the virile postwar school which has won such wide acclaim.

But, secondary as her leading lady role is in "The Bandit," it is the Magnani electricity which you take from the Little. It is a film worth your while, but the Magnani is a show in herself.

Sesqui Music to Suit All Tastes From Boogie-Woogie to Bach

What kind of music do you like? The Sesquicentennial will have it.

In his first announcement as newly appointed director of music for the 150th birthday celebration, Emerson Meyers yesterday promised "some music for every day this summer when the number of visitors is at its peak."

Mentioning Bach and boogie as the outer limits of music visitors to Washington might expect to hear, Meyers spoke of festivals of folk music, variety shows, organ concerts, symphony programs, opera, and programs of American music.

From these hopes and plans, he will draw a list of daily attractions to music-lovers coming to Washington's birthday party. A definite budget has not yet been announced for music in the Sesquicentennial.

However, for proper programming, Meyer's office will need a substantial amount. ($100,000 was given recently to arrange historical art displays.)

Meyers said yesterday he hoped all Washington musicians would help make the musical end of the festival a memorable affair. Any who wish to volunteer their talents are urged to write his office giving details about their repertoire, past performances, and the things they are prepared to do.

Meyers said he hopes the National Symphony Orchestra will be "one of the real factors in Sesquicentennial music." He plans to set up advisory committees to assist in arranging various kinds of programs. With nearly a quarter of a million visitors a week expected, Meyers is planning music of every kind.

He explained it would be possible to schedule two or more events at a time as long as they do not draw the same kind of audience. Plans are being made for appropriate music on April 15 when the Sesquicentennial is to be opened with a tremendous program on the Capitol steps.

Meyers had "no comment" on the report that Paul Green has invited Jan Sibelius, Finnish composer, to write an overture for the symphonic drama to be presented during the Sesquicentennial. The symphonic drama does not come under the jurisdiction of the music director.

Perry Swears He's Wed to Miss Weyand

Leslie S. Perry of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People yesterday swore that he has married Ruth Weyand, assistant general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board.

Perry, of 1309 22d st. nw., made the disclosure in filing a suit to enjoin his former wife, Mrs. Oliver J. Perry, 2433 Ontario rd. nw., from going forward with her $50,000 alienation of affections suit against the former Miss Weyand.

Perry said that in a June, 1949, separation agreement, Olive Perry promised not to molest or sue either himself or Miss Weyand. He said that his former wife divorced him in the Virgin Islands on August 10, 1949.

Leslie Perry Weyand
. . . . their marriage disclosed

Perry went on to say that on September 26, he wed Miss Weyand in Montreal, Canada, and that under these facts the former wife has no right to sue.

The sandy-haired Miss Weyand, the current Mrs. Perry, is of Pennsylvania-Dutch descent, it is reported, her forebears having come to this country about 1700.

John J. O'Brien, the first Mrs. Perry's attorney, promptly acknowledged to reporters that his client had obtained a divorce. He said that he will file proof that she obtained a decree at her husband's insistance and that her mental condition at the time was such that she was not responsible under the decree.

Meanwhile, the present Mrs. Perry asked the court to enjoin the taking of depositions, saying that the suit was brought improperly and that the former Mrs. Perry cannot now deny her divorce decree based on "incompatability," nor the separation agreement in connection with it.

In his suit, Perry asked for $25,000 punitive damages.

Perry said her suit was brought with the "evil desire to embarass, humiliate and harrass." He said his former wife acted "wickedly and maliciously."

The former Mrs. Perry, a schoolteacher, whose original suit started a chain of news-stories, charged there that Miss Weyand destroyed her home life and lured Perry away with gifts and designating him a beneficiary in her will.

Model Basin Area Combed for Jail Break Suspects

Montgomery County police and Marine guards from the David W. Taylor Model Basin at Carderock yesterday searched the woods in the vicinity of the basin for three prisoners who escaped from the Rockville jail Monday.

The search followed a report that two men, believed to be the fugitives were seen in the area Thursday night. Guards reportedly fired three shots at the prowlers without effect.

The pair disappeared in the direction of McArthur blvd. near the home of one of the escapees, John E. Coffin, 23. The others are Robert T. Caldwell, 19, also of Carderock, and Walter F. Williams, jr., 18 of 1116 F st. ne.

Arlington Judge To Study Motion By School Board

Arlington Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy took under advisement a motion by the Arlington school board to set aside a recent condemnation commission's award on a proposed site for the new Hume school.

The board set a total price of $54,945 for a 6.6 acre portion of the proposed site at 24th and S. Nash st., Arlington.

During several hours' testimony on the motion yesterday, James H. Simmonds, school board attorney, objected to admission as earlier court evidence of the sale value of improved lots in the subdivision, which includes the undeveloped tract the school board wants. Attorney for the site's owner, Robert Ryland, produced two more real estate dealers who said the commission's award of $8250 an acre was not excessive.

'Men Like Jim Farley' Grieved at Roosevelt's Death

This is the concluding installment of the serialization of "This I Remember," the nonfiction best seller in which Eleanor Roosevelt tells the story of Franklin D. Roosevelt's career, from 1924 to his death in 1945.

By Eleanor Roosevelt

I AM quite sure that Franklin accepted the thought of death as he had accepted life. He had a strong religious feeling, and his religion was a very personal one. I think he actually felt he could ask God for guidance and receive it. That was why he loved the 23rd Psalm, the Beatitudes and the 13th Chapter of First Corinthians. He never talked about his religion or his beliefs and never seemed to have any intellectual difficulties about what he believed.

Once, in talking to Franklin about some spiritualistic conversations which had been sent to me (people were always sending me their conversations with the dead), I expressed a somewhat cynical disbelief in them. He said to me very simply:

"I think it is unwise to say you do not believe in anything when you can't prove it either true or false. There is so much in the world that is always new in the way of discoveries that it is wiser to say there may be spiritual things which we are simply unable now to fathom. Therefore I am interested and have respect for whatever people believe, even if I cannot understand their beliefs or share their experiences."

That seemed to me a very natural attitude for Franklin to take. He was always open-minded about anything that came to his attention, ready to look into it and study it, but his own beliefs were the beliefs of a child grown to manhood under certain simple influences. He still held to the fundamental feeling that religion was an anchor and a source of strength and guidance, so I am sure he died looking into the future as calmly as he had looked at all the events of his life.

When Franklin died, many men who had felt bitterly toward him, and who without question would feel so again, at that moment merged with the great masses of people in the country who felt they had lost someone whom they needed. Harry Hopkins looked, the day of the funeral, as though he were just about to die. He had returned from Marrakech and gone to his own house. Franklin had not felt he could oppose this move, since it was natural that Harry and Louise should want a home of their own. But since both men were ill and Harry was practically confined to the house after his return it was impossible for them to see much of each other. I do not think they cared less for each other or that there was any break, such as some people believe must have occurred.

Bitterness and Affection

MEN LIKE Jim Farley grieved that day, too. I have not forgotten their grief, and I understand how bitterness can persist and be exploited though deep down there is a real affection.

President and Mrs. Truman were more than kind in urging me to take my time about moving out of the White House, but I felt I wanted to leave it just as soon as possible. I had already started to prepare directions so that the accumulations of 12 years could be quickly packed and shipped. As always happens in life, something was coming to an end and something new was beginning. I went over many things in my mind as we traveled the familiar road back to Washington.

As I look back now I realize that unwittingly Franklin's parents had prepared him, through contact with themselves, travel abroad and familiarity with the customs and peoples of many countries, to meet the various situations which he faced during his public life. They certainly never intended him to be in politics, but the training they gave him made him better able to accomplish his tasks.

The so-called New Deal was, of course, nothing more than an effort to preserve our economic system. Viewing the world today, I wonder whether some of the other peoples might not have stood up better in World War II had something like the New Deal taken place in their countries long enough before to have given them a sense of security and confidence in themselves. It was the rebuilding of those two qualities in the people of the United States as a whole that made it possible for us to emerge victorious from the most terrible war in our history. So the two crises my husband faced were really closely tied together. If he had not successfully handled the one he could never have handled the other, because no leader can do anything unless the people are willing to follow him.

What brought this more clearly into my mind were the letters that came in such quantities after Franklin's death and which are now in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library. Touchingly, people told their complete stories and cited the plans and policies undertaken by my husband that had brought about improvement in their lives. In many cases he had saved them from complete despair.

For Future Historians

THESE LETTERS continued to come in throughout the summer, and President Truman was kind enough to let Mrs. Robert Butturff, who had worked with us for 12 years, come to Hyde Park to help us open them. I remember distinctly our feeling of relief when we opened the last one toward the end of August. It was quite impossible for me to answer each letter personally, as I should have liked to do, but I have always felt that in those letters future historians will find the explanation of why one man was four times elected to the office of President of the United States.

It is hard for me to understand now, but at the time I had an almost impersonal feeling about everything that was happening. Perhaps this feeling of unreality stemmed from the war years, when I had schooled myself to believe that some or all of my sons might be killed and that Franklin might be killed or die at any time. This was not consciously phrased; it simply underlay all my thoughts. That fact does not entirely account for my feelings, however. Perhaps it was because much earlier I was forced to face certain difficulties, until I decided to accept the fact that a man must be what he is, life must be lived as it is, circumstances force your children away from you, and you cannot live at all if you do not learn to adapt yourself to your life as it happens to be.

All human beings have failings, all human beings have needs and temptations and stresses. A man and woman who live together through long years get to know each other's failings, but they also come to know what is worthy of respect and admiration in those they live with and in themselves. If at the end one can say: "This man or woman used to the limit the powers that God granted him; he was worthy of love and respect and of the sacrifices of many people made in order that he might achieve what he deemed to be his task," then that life has been lived well and there are no regrets.

—But His Pattern

BEFORE we went to Washington in 1933 I had frankly faced my own personal situation. In my early married years the pattern of life had been largely my mother-in-law's pattern. Later it was the children and Franklin who dictated the pattern. When our last child went off to boarding school I began to want to do things on my own, to use my mind and abilities for my own aims. When I went to Washington I felt sure I would be able to make use of opportunities to help Franklin gain the objectives he cared about—but the work would be his work, the pattern his pattern. He might have been happier with a wife who was completely uncritical. That I was never able to be. When he felt the need of unquestioning acceptance of his ideas he had to find it in other people. Nevertheless I think I sometimes acted as a spur, even though the spurring was not always wanted or welcome. I was one of those who served his purposes.

One cannot live the life Franklin led in Washington and sustain many personal friendships. A man in high public office is not husband nor father nor friend in the commonly accepted sense of the words. But I have come to believe that Franklin stands in the memory of people as a man who lived with a great sense of history and with a sense of his obligation to fulfill his part as he saw it.

As I mentally call the roll of people who served Franklin, they are many and varied—from those who helped him intellectually and gave him in different ways loyalty and affection in their relationships, to those who served him in little ways, providing food, protecting him, helping him to overcome his physical disabilities.

Closest in Franklin's daily life were his secretaries, Louis Howe, Gen. Edwin Watson, Steve Early, Marvin McIntyre, Bill Hassett, Marguerite LeHand and Grace Tully. Dr. McIntire saw him daily and was a trusted friend. Many people helped at different times with speeches. Sam Rosenman worked with Franklin until he died, not only on speeches but on other special jobs. Franklin's association with Bob Sherwood grew into a friendship. A former law partner, Basil O'Connor, was Franklin's friend and associate in many things close to his heart, though until Mr. O'Connor became head of the Red Cross he never held any position connected with the Government. Among the members of the Cabinet some became real friends as well as working associates.

Few New Friends

IT IS curious for me to realize that out of my years in Washington, though I met many people and learned much about the country and its people, I made very few new friends. My friendship with Miss Thompson deepened, and I grew very fond of Edith Helm and of the other people who worked with us in the White House and on the staff generally. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., who had been our friends before we went to Washington, continued to be close friends. Frances Perkins I had known before and liked, and I grew to know her better and count her as a friend. Of all the others who were officially associated with me I have kept pleasant memories, but I have deep-rooted ties with none.

On the whole, however, I think I lived those years very impersonally. It was almost as though I had erected someone a little outside of myself who was the President's wife. I was lost somewhere deep down inside myself. That is the way I felt and worked till I left the White House.

You cannot say goodby to people with whom you have lived and who have served you well without deep emotion, but at last even the leavetakings were over, Jimmy and Rommie, Elliott and Faye, Tommy and I were on our way to New York City.

And I was now on my own.

(Conclusion.)

Virginia Highest, N. J. Lowest in Tax on Autos

Chicago, Feb. 3 (AP).—If you live in New Jersey, you pay lower taxes on a private automobile than the people of any other States; if you live in Virginia, you pay the highest.

This was disclosed today in a survey made by Griffenhagen & Associates, consultants in management. The survey was based on a medium priced passenger car.

Taken into consideration were State and local property taxes (if any), State and local license taxes and State motor fuel taxes for vehicles of average use.

Annual tax in New Jersey was placed at $29.95, Virginia at $93.62. In Maryland the tax was placed at $46.25. The tax for the District of Columbia was not given.

WWDC to Move Feb. 20

Radio Station WWDC will begin operations at 1260 on the dial and complete moving into new quarters at 1627 K st. nw., on February 20, the Capitol Broadcasting Company said yesterday.

The new facilities were purchased from the Cowles Broadcasting Company, which operated WOL at the 1260 spot. At that time WOL had the Mutual Broadcasting Co.'s franchise for Washington.

Because of WWDC's decision to remain an independent the MBS franchise will be given to Station WEAM. WEAM will begin MBS operations on February 20.

The Peoples Broadcasting Company of Columbus, Ohio, will move into WWDC's current studios at 1000 Connecticut ave. nw. on February 20.

This organization will operate an independent station with the old call letters of WOL.

The Apathetic

Some people go to work each day . . . To earn their daily bread . . . With never any special thought . . . To grow and get ahead . . . They have no real ambition or . . . The eagerness to learn . . . And midnight oil, except for play . . . Is never theirs to burn . . . They are the blind who do not see . . . The world's important needs . . . They are the deaf who do not hear . . . The call to greater deeds . . . They are the lazy-minded and . . . The smug and selfish too . . . Who do no more for others than . . . They ever have to do . . . And yet they want the world to be . . . Magnificent and strong . . . While they proclaim their grievances . . . When anything goes wrong.

Count the letters in your first name. Subtract four if the number is six or more. Add three if the number is less than six. Then you have the key number. Check each key number left to right. The letters under the checks form a message.

Aw, Nuts; Fame Is Just Fleeting After All

Eleanor P. McAuliffe has been named principal of Sousa Junior High School and the controversy is ended.

But there's an amusing sequel from Miss McAuliffe's brother, Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Four 3-week-old kittens; choice of colors." (Sterling 5491.)

DOLLAR DAY

My item about the silver dollar from California for our polio drive has a sequel. Mrs. Sue Ward of 413 Pelham st., Fredericksburg, Va., writes:

"I've been saving the enclosed silver dollar for a long time, without knowing why. Now I know why.

"Will you please put it in the Virginia bottle in front of the Capitol Theater for me?"

I'll be glad to. If people start giving dollars instead of dimes, maybe we'll get a defense against polio ten times as fast.

ADD SIGNS

"Speaking of restaurant signs," writes W. Scott Wilkerson, of 615 Portland Building, "how about the old favorite:

"'We have an agreement with the bank. We cash no checks; they serve no soup'."

OVERHEARD

"It pays to advertise. The only outfit in town that makes money without advertising is the Bureau of Engraving."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Are Capital Transit operators ever given tickets for such things as speeding, pulling out of bus stops without a proper signal, and similar violations for which private motorists are ticketed?

If they are, can you find out how many tickets were issued to Capital Transit drivers last year?

Ted Bullockus,
6323 Luzon ave. nw.

Dear Ted:

Capital Transit operators are expected to obey all traffic regulations, and if they're caught in violation they get tickets.

No records are available on how many tickets were issued last year, or during any other period (any more than there would be a breakdown of how many people named Smith got tickets).

An operator who gets a ticket is strictly on his own, and must pay up or fight it in court like anybody else.

The only time the company is involved is when the ticket is issued in connection with an accident. Bill.

THIS IS WASHINGTON

Officials of the District Liners Club dropped a bombshell at the last meeting with the announcement that henceforth proceedings will start promptly at 8 p. m., as scheduled.

This reckless scheme is obviously foredoomed to failure. Nobody in Washington starts anything at the scheduled time. I don't know why, but it just isn't done.

Those who show up on time feel like utter fools as they sit and wait for a quorum to assemble. "Next time," they silently resolve, "I'll know better." So next time they come late, too, and help to perpetuate the practice.

I'm reminded of the war years, when Mr. Roosevelt scheduled his morning press conferences for 10:30 but never began them before 11:05 at the earliest, and sometimes as late as 11:30.

There was a good deal of grumbling among the members of the press corps, and they got into the habit of arriving at the White House between 11 and 11:05 a. m.

FDR must have gotten wind of the complaints; or maybe it was just a whim. But one day he started his press conference at about 10:35 and, as you might expect, drew a mighty slim crowd. Most of the correspondents were still dawdling over their second cups of coffee.

That was the last time that a Roosevelt press conference started at anything approximating the scheduled time. We went back to the old routine, and everybody seemed satisfied that this radical experiment was not meant for Washington.

THAT FUNNY FEELING:

SPENDICITIS*

 (A disease of the pocketbook which is widely prevalent today).* You know the feeling—that giddy impulse to spend, and spend, and SPEND. That's what we call "spendicitis," because it is as dangerous as any germ you can catch these days.

It isn't easy when a big check comes to say: "I'll spend only for things I need—I'll save something each pay day." But now's the chance of a lifetime to save for the future. A savings at Burke and Herbert Bank will solve your problem. May we talk it over with you?

GOP-Dixiecrat 'Deal' Disclosed

By Drew Pearson

It seems a far cry from the civil rights issue in the South to the public power question in Montana, but the story has just leaked out as to how a coalition of Republicans and Dixiecrats killed the civil rights program in the Senate a year ago.

Senator Russell

The deal was engineered by the Montana Power & Light Co., and illustrates how certain GOP maneuvering between elections help to lose elections on election day.

Key figures in this historic deal—discreetly referred to as a "voting arrangement" — were smooth, shrewd Senator Dick Russell of Georgia, Nebraska's gregarious Senator Ken Wherry, the GOP floor leader; and Jack Corrette of Montana Power & Light, who coached the antipublic power team in the Senate.

The first "contact" was made when Senator Russell approached colorless Senator Zales Ecton of Montana last March, at which time the Senate was fighting over a cloture rule aimed at stopping a civil rights filibuster.

Ecton then called in Wherry and Whegry pledged enough Republican votes to override Vice President Alben Barkley's antifilibuster rule—provided Russell would deliver Southern votes to beat a Government plan to run a transmission line from the Government's Kerr Dam to Anaconda, Mont. Montana Power & Light wanted to run these transmission lines itself, was vigorously opposed to Government operation.

Result of all this was that Wherry delivered 19 votes to Senator Russell—though it should be stated that some GOP Senators did not know of the "voting arrangement." Those who voted with the South to doom the civil rights program are Bricker (Ohio), Bridges (N. H.), Butler (Nebr.), Cain (Wash.), Capehart (Ind.), Gordon (Oreg.), Donnell (Mo.), Ecton (Mont.), Gurney (S. Dak.), Hickenlooper (Iowa), Jenner (Ind.), Kem (Mo.), Langer (N. Dak.), Malone (Nev.), Millikin (Colo.), Reed (Kans.), Schoeppel (Kans.), Thye (Minn.), Vandenberg Mich.), Watkins (Utah), Wherry, and Young (N. Dak.).

Outsmarted

Actually, the Republicans and the utility crowd had the worst of the bargain, for Russell delivered only 6 votes in return. For, by the time the appropriation for the Kerr-Anaconda line came before the Senate in August, the deal had been discovered by three inquisitive pro-public power Senators—Alabama's Lister Hill, hearty Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, and fiery Wayne Morse of Oregon.

At the time the three Senators made their discovery, power mogul Corrette and Senator Wherry had the votes to beat the transmission line. But a special emergency meeting was quickly called by the public power Senators in an unmarked room a few feet from the Senate chamber.

Oscar Chapman, then Undersecretary of the Interior, and White House Assistant Charlie Murphy rushed up to the meeting and a new strategy was outlined. Alabama's Hill persuaded Southern Senators to be absent when the Kerr-Anaconda line came up. He reminded them they had only promised not to vote for a Government power line. But they were not pledged to vote. Oregon's Morse urged the same "absent" strategy on moderate Republicans.

Result: The Government transmission line was approved. Only 6 Southern Senators were on hand to vote against it—Byrd (Va.), Ellender (La.), Holland (Fla.), McClellan (Ark.), Robertson (Va.), and Russell.

Note 1—Republican failure to vote for cloture against a civil rights filibuster will probably cost the Grand Old Party more Northern votes in the next half dozen years than any other single issue.

Note 2—Despite the conniving of Montana Power & Light against a part of the Truman program which the President has stated to be crucial, Secretary of Defense Johnson endeavored to appoint Curtis Calder, head of the parent company for Montana Power & Light, to be Secretary of the Army. This is one reason why some Senators wonder whether the White House always means what it says.

Truman's Lady Friend

After President Truman's bell-ringing speech to the National Defense Conference, Senator Margaret Chase Smith, the gracious lady from Maine, leaned over to her colleague, Senator Owen Brewster, also from Maine, and remarked:

"That's just what the Republican Party needs, to humanize itself and talk with the people, like Harry Truman does."

BLIND MEN CAN BE GOOD FARMERS!

So say Bill Hendrick of Plainfield, N. H., and he should know because he's been proving his point by becoming a grower of fine poultry. For the story of this man who finds his way around his farm by sound, feel and touch, but who can corner chickens and leap fences with the best of his seeing colleagues, see Parade's picture-story this Sunday in

Center Market Today at CENTER MARKET CITY
... with Pat Parker

WE'RE ALWAYS telling you about unusual foods that you can find at Center Market City, so it does our heart good to know that our readers investigate them.

THIS WEEK, a young man who read this column called to tell us that he had received some truffles for Christmas. Being quite a gourmet, he wanted a very special dish. Armed with a very fancy French recipe he headed toward Center Market City. Seems he wanted to prepare turkey with truffles and the turkey had to be prepared in a certain manner. Who could do it?

GOING TO Homer and Jack Simons, those smart young men who run the crowded poultry market in the center of the Market, he asked if it could be done. Of course, said Jack. But naturally, said Homer. Result, our young man was infinitely pleased, and served his guests a dish straight from La Belle France. After all, the price of truffles being what they are, he could not risk buying that turkey anywhere else but at Center Market City.

THAT'S JUST one example of the many services at the Market. Ben Kagen is often called upon to cut beef in a certain manner for special Spanish dishes. Many are the merchants here who have customers who want special dishes, and meat prepared in a special manner for them. So don't let a recipe stump you—if it sounds difficult ask your Center Market City meat merchant. He'll know how to cut it for you!

WE HAVEN'T mentioned the Green family in this column, so we think they deserve a notice. You can find almost every variety of greens known at the Market. Spinach, kale, collards, poke salad—all are on hand here. And that delightful green vegetable, broccoli, always seems to look fresher and taste better when bought here than anywhere else.

INCIDENTALLY, have you ever noticed that dewy-fresh quality that you'll find at all the fruit and vegetable stands? There's nothing prettier than the row after row of fruit and vegetables on an early Saturday morning. Worth the trip alone.

AND WHY not drive down to the Market this morning and see for yourself? You'll find spring flowers adding to your gay mood, too. We have two FREE parking lots for you—one on K street, the other on New York Avenue.
